Thiel said "the lake sediments were deposited on glacial 'drift' which occurs over the entire area. It represents rock debris transported by the several ice sheets that moved ovr the rgion." Some of it, he said, actually comes from Manitoba and other parts of Canada.

"Under the glacial drift in some areas are marine sediments of a period of years ago known as the Cretaceous Age. These patches consist chiefly of thin basal sands and a main body of soft clay-shale. Most of the clay-shale is bluish-gray to black in color.

"The 'basal sands' of the Cretaceous system are important sources of water in many parts of the Red River Valley.

"In Traverse and Wilkin counties, the cretaceous waters are soft waters. In Polk, Kittson and Marshall counties, the waters are very hard as well as salty. Both the hard and the soft waters are derived from basal sands that overlap the crystalline rocks from the west and northwest but appear to be of somewhat different age and position."

4-H'ers to Salute Alumni This Week

National 4-H Week Is Currently Being Noted

Minnesota's 48,000 4-H'ers will join the two million 4-H'ers throughout the country in a salute to alumni as part of National 4-H Week, February 28-March 7.

The aim of the week is to honor outstanding 4-H alumni who have participated in the 4-H program, says Leonard Harkness, state 4-H club leader at the University of Minnesota.

Minnesota alumni total about one-half million. In the nation as a whole, there are 20 million 4-H alumni. If all of the men and women in the United States who were once 4-H club members stood shoulder-to-shoulder, they would reach from Washington, D. D., to Easter Island in the South Pacific.

Nationally, two alumni together with six 4-H club members will spend part of National 4-H Club Week in Washington giving the annual "4-H Report To The National."

The 4-H Alumni Recognition program was launched seven years ago through the combined efforts of the Extension Service and the National Committee on Boys' and Girls' Club Work. Minnesota state winners for the year 1958-59 are Mrs. Wilbert Dean, Byron; Mrs. John G. Ford, Deerwood; Lester Anderson, Mapleton; and Ora Eisenbarger, Granada.

Purpose of the program, according to Harkness is to inspire today's youth to greater accomplishments by giving well-deserved recognition to adults who have leaned heavily on their own 4-H training and experience to become useful, purposeful citizens.

Those understudying the major singing and dancing roles include Janet Torgerson, Thief River Falls, Minn.

215,729 Members Receive Benefits in Past Year

Addressing the annual meeting of the Minnesota Hospital Service Association (Blue Cross) Richard T. Crist, President, told representatives of 176 participating hospitals that payments to hospitals for care of members reached an all time high of $33,894,967.

Christ pointed out that the highest benefit payment in the 25 year history of Blue Cross was attributed to increased frequency of use of Blue Cross benefits, and the high cost of hospital care. He explained that during 1958, 215,729 members received Blue Cross benefits. This represented over 501 hospitalizations for every 1,000 Blue Cross contracts in effect.

Commenting on cost of care, Christ said, "Based on total subscriber income of $33,810,183, Minnesota Blue Cross returned one dollar and three-tenths of a cent in the form of hospital care benefits for every dollar earned."

A resolution was proposed by Clyde M. Jorgensen, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, and passed, whereby membership of the Board of Trustees would be increased from 18 to 21 members.

State Taxpayers Group Criticizes Withholding Plan

Says Proposed Measure Would Forgive Only 20 Per Cent of 1959 Tax

If withholding of state income taxes is installed on July 1, 1959, as proposed in the Omnibus Tax Bill recently introduced in the Legislature, Minnesota's income taxpayers will be nicked for much more in income taxes than many of them realize, according to Charles P. Stone, general counsel of the Minnesota Taxpayers association.

"Many of our citizens have gained the impression that if withholding is adopted, 50% of the first year's tax will be forgiven." Stone said. "Actually the legislation as it has been drafted provides for only 20% forgiveness of the 1959 tax."

"Presently, a married individual with two children who earns $5,000 a year pays a $67 state income tax bill. Under the Governor's twin proposals to increase the individuals income tax rates 1% in each income bracket and at the same time to institute withholding, this individual will have to pay $106 in 1959 and $105 in 1960, even with 20% forgiveness of the 1959 tax. The forgiveness amounts to only $15.10—20% of $75.50 (the 1959 tax computed half on the basis half of the old rates—$30.50—and half on the basis of the new rates—$45).

"The 20% forgiveness really doesn't take much of the curse off the doubling-up of tax feature of withholding," Stone said. "The taxpayer still ends up paying almost three years taxes in two years. And the Governor's proposal to increase the individual income tax rates 1% in the various brackets makes the tax burden just that much heavier."

Among the earliest known uses of wood and iron rails on which to run wagons was in England before 1740, where they were adapted to coal mines and slate quarries.

Four Named to Board of Beet Association

Warren Man Speaks Wednesday to Area Development Group

Four directors of the Tri-County Sugar Beet Development association were elected at the group's fourth annual meeting Wednesday afternoon in the city auditorium.

Harry Oen, president, was renamed director for rural Pennington county, Melvin Torgerson for East Marshall county, Donald Evje for Clearwater county and Ben Wichterman for Red Lake county.

At a meeting of the association's board of directors following the regular session, Harry Oen was re-elected president of the group, Don Lyken of Red Lake county was elected vice-president and Jim Roche was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Members of the association, which now includes the area of Clearwater and East Polk counties, heard C. Einar Johnson of Warren, president of the Western Sugar Beet Growers association give a report on the sugar development legislative committee.

Johnson told the group that legislation is "in the hopper" to extend the sugar act indefinitely but that no action had been taken by either the house or the senate. The yield of sugar beets per acre has increased 30% in the last six years, he reported and continued with a discussion of problems of foreign and domestic markets.

A panel discussion followed Johnsons' talk with Arnt Aune, director of adult agriculture of the area vocational school, Ralph Hauswirth, engineer in charge of drainage for the SCS and Don Lawrence, ASC fieldman, as panel members.

Aune reported on the survey of potential sugar beet acreage and was followed by Lawrence who reported on the types of soil best suited for beet production. Hauswirth discussed open drainage systems and predicted the greater use of the drainage in this area in the future.

Questions by the 90 association members present were directed to panel members preceding the lunch which was served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Native of Holt Is Victim of Train Mishap in Fisher

Jesse Sorum, Conductor on Great Northern, Loses Life in Fall under Train

Jesse Sorum, 61, of Grand Forks, conductor for the Great Northern Railway, was killed Monday afternoon when he fell beneath the wheels of a moving freight train at the Great Northern depot in Fisher.

Sorum, an employe of the railway since Sept. 17, 1923, apparently jumped or fell from a ladder on the train's engine to the depot platform while attempting to take some papers from J. D. Aitchison, depot agent, who was standing on the platform.

Sorum lost his balance on the platform and rolled underneath the freight. Although the train was moving slowly, his body was dragged about a car length.

Mr. Sorum was born Jan. 19, 1895, at Holt. He lived in Holt, Crookston and Thief River Falls before coming to Grand Forks. He joined the Great Northern as a brakeman and was promoted to conductor in 1942.

He was married to the former Mabel Hagberg, who survives him. Also surviving are his mother, Mrs. John Sorum of Thief River Falls; a daughter, Mrs. Gerald Beauchamp of Grand Forks; five sons, Jerome, Ronald, John, Lyle, Donald, all of Grand Forks.

Other survivors include four brothers, Andrew of Crookston, Arthur of Mandan, N. D., Roy of Thief River Falls, and Willie of Holt; five sisters, Mrs. Bertha Gilbertson of Hillsboro, N. D., Mrs. Alice Dahl of Goodridge, Mrs. Gladys Marrs of Minneapolis, Mrs. Hazel Thorstad and Esther Sorum, of Thief River Falls; and 11 grandchildren.

Red Cross Chapter to Hold County Drive Later During March

The Pennington county campaign to raise funds for the support of the American Red Cross will get under way shortly, it was announced today by Ralph T. Hunt, chairman of the county chapter.

He added that it is hoped to raise a considerable portion of the county's $3,100 quota in a concentrated drive to be conducted on a Sunday in the latter part of March.

On March 1, the American Red Cross opened one of its biggest peacetime fund campaigns. The board of governors set the goal at $95,000,000 to maintain Red Cross programs at their present level during the 1959-60 fiscal year, and restore dangerously low disaster reserves.

As of December 15, reports indicate that $18,072,193 of this amount has already been raised for Red Cross in united campaigns across the land. This leaves $16,927,807 which must be raised during March.

In the 16-state Midwestern area 1,312 chapters will be conducting a March campaign; 982 of this group will be endeavoring to raise their total financial needs. The others participated in fall campaigns and will be conducting supplementary campaigns where deficits need to be met.

Civil Defense to Commence Rescue Training Classes

Reski Invites Public to Attend Opening Class in Armory Next Tuesday

The first of a series of classes in civil defense rescue training will be held in the National Guard Armory next Tuesday evening, March 10, at 8 o'clock, it was announced today by R. Bruce Reski, Pennington county director of civil defense.

Quentin Jones, civil defense rescue chief, will be instructor in basic rescue work and first aid, while Charles Samuelson, radiological chief, will teach a course in that subject. Training films also will be presented, and there will be actual practice on equipment and buildings.

The course will consist of five three-hour sessions, with the next class scheduled for the summer months, Reski extended an invitation to all interested persons to report at the Armory Tuesday evening. The classes are limited to a maximum of 20 to 25 persons, he said.

The Thief River Falls Jaycee chapter is taking the lead in promoting this phase of civil defense work.

Twenty-one members of the Lincoln high school band participated in the all-district band at the district 31 basketball tournament at U.N.D. fieldhouse in Grand Forks Tuesday evening. Directors of each of the participating bands directed the group.

Rotary Names I. T. Mickelson to Head Club Coming Year

Club Receives Letter Urging American Support of New Regime in Cuba

A unanimous ballot was cast by members of the Rotary club Monday noon for the slate of Candidates presented by the nominating committee.

Supt. Irwin T. Mickelson was elected president for the coming year; Jarvis Prichard, vice president; Milton Schlechter, secretary-treasurer; and Dr. Dan Greene and Charlie Smith, directors. The new officers will assume their duties this summer.

Russ Embury, president, reported on the banquet at the International Rotary good will convention Feb. 21 in Winnipeg at which the French ambassador to Canada and the president of the Rotary club of Winnipeg spoke.

Embury Also read a letter from David White, president of the Union Theological seminary in Cuba, who has lived in that country for seven years.

The letter stated that the Castro government, which has been approved by all democratic institutions in the country, has tried and convicted those who have committed gross crimes and who have admitted them.

Further, he said, it is difficult for Cubans to understand how the people of this nation could stand aside while the Batista government was committing all the crimes during its regime and do nothing, but now condemn the people of Cuba for punishing these criminals.

White pleaded for better understanding of Cuba's recent good will between the people of actions and the restoration of that nation and the United States.

A film, "On to New York," was presented by Joe Iverson. George Mostue was in charge of the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Hans S. Waale and family spent the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Sannes at Beltrami.

Bill to Repeal Presidential Primary OK'd

Measure Passed by State Legislature, Goes to Governor

The house of representatives Tuesday sounded the death knell for Minnesota's twice-tried presidential primary law by passing a repeal bill, 81 to 47.

The repealer, earlier approved by the senate by a vote of 49 to 14, now goes to Gov. Freeman for signature. The governor will sign it, a spokesman said Tuesday.

So the 1949 law—which was amended two years ago to take out some its bugs, and to move the election date ahead so Minnesota's vote would be the first in the nation, will not be tried again.

Both DFL and Republican party leaders had assailed it as faulty. One of their chief objections was its invitation to mischievous voters to cross party lines to vote for the weakest candidate on the opposition ticket.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey, who might have been expected to welcome a home state presidential preference primary in 1960, said several weeks ago that he was not opposed to the repeal bill.

Opponents of the repealer criticized it for reducing the public's right to express its opinions via the ballot box.

Rep. Harold J. Anderson, Republican-Conservative of Minneapolis, offered Tuesday's only objection to passage of the repeal bill which had been debated at length earlier.

Nine Liberals strayed from factional ranks to vote against the repeal bill. Odean Enestvedt, Charles Halsted, Carl Iverson, Lem Kaercher, Sally Luther, John McGill, Peter Popovich, Reuben Wee and E. D. Wozniak. Sixteen Conservatives voted on the affirmative side.

Co. Board Accepts Bid on Diesel Fuel

Western Oil and Fuel Co. Lowest of Six Bidders

The Pennington county board at its regular March session Tuesday was confronted by less than the usual amount of accumulated business.

Principal item disposed of was the award to the Western Oil and Fuel company, lowest of six bidders, of the contract to supply the year's needs of the county highway department for Diesel oil, gasoline and fuel oil.

It was announced that as a result of the award of the contract the county will save 2.9 cents per gallon on No. 1 Diesel fuel and 2.5 cents on No. 2.

A delegation from the east end of the county appeared before the board to discuss drainage work in that area, but it developed that the project was local in nature and did not require action by the board.

St. Bernard Pupil Wins Spelling Contest

Pre-school Roundup Set for Washington Gymnasium Saturday

Parents are reminded of the pre-school roundup which will be held Saturday, March 7, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Washington school gymnasium.

All children who are 5 years old on or before Sept. 1, 1959, and who will be entering kindergarten in the fall are invited to attend. It is emphasized that children of new residents who will be entering kindergarten or first grade this fall must call for an appointment with Mrs. Merle Lindberg at MU 1-1536 or Mrs. Margaret Race, MU 1-1336.

All rural kindergarteners and children who will begin school for the first time must also attend the roundup. If a child is unable to come to the roundup, the parent should call and notify either Mrs. Lindberg or Mrs. Race.

The children's birth certificate and medical record should be brought to the roundup. The birth certificate can be obtained from the clerk of court's office in the county where the child was born. A hospital birth certificate will not be accepted.

At the roundup, the child will be registered, a complete medical history taken, and he will be measured and weighed. He will also meet a kindergarten teacher, after which lunch will be served to the child and parent.

St. Bernard's Pupil Winner of Tribune Spelling Contest

Beverly Kleinvachter, 8th Grader, Wins First Place; Phyllis Mostrom Second

Beverly Kleinvachter, an eighth-grade student at St. Bernard's school, won the Minneapolis Tribune spelling contest for Pennington county Tuesday afternoon in the district court room. She also won the honor of representing the county in the Upper Midwest spelling contest in Minneapolis April 18.

Beverly, the daughter of Adolph Kleinvachter, 830 Crocker ave. S., had a score of 83% on the 100-word test which was given. Phyllis Mostrom, a seventh-grade student of Mrs. Orland Rindahl at dist. 1558 school was the second-place winner with a score of 80% and qualified for the trip to Minneapolis in the event that Beverly cannot attend the contest.

Thirteen county pupils took part in the contest which was followed by an old-fashioned spelldown while test papers were corrected. Orville Jansen, elementary principal of the Goodridge school, served as spelling master of the spelldown.

Beverly will now be able to attend the Upper Midwest spelling contest in Minneapolis which will have as its contestants county champions from North and South Dakota, Wisconsin and Minnesota. The event will be held at the Radisson hotel in Minneapolis.

Mrs. A. C. Matheson, Pennington county superintendent of schools, was in charge of the contest Tuesday.

Storm Sewer Project Again Topic Monday

Decision on Plan Is Expected to Be Reached March 17

The problem of a storm sewer in district three moved closer to solution Monday evening when an alternate plan was suggested which removed many of the objections which had previously been registered.

The meeting, which never formally convened in the absence of Alderman S. A. Honebrink, E. B. Benson, Roy Lee and Mayor O. D. Beich, was informal with Bob Carlson, council presidennt, and Alderman A. J. Rau present when D. H. Stewart, consulting engineer, presented the council's alternate proposal to interested spectators.

The proposal stated, "Because of the opposition to constructing the storm sewers in the area north of Sixth st., the council is now considering the construction of the system up to and including the Sixth st. lateral."

"This construction will eliminate all but one surface water connection into the sanitary system and will, therefore, eliminate the basement flooding problem," the proposal continued.

"The construction under this proposal would be so designed that as the demand for street improvements in the area north of Sixth st. increases, the present proposed construction could be extended north to serve the balance of the area," the proposal stated.

Under the proposal, the mains of the storm sewer constructed south from Sixth st. would be large enough to accommodate water from storm sewers which would be constructed in the northern area in future years. According to the engineer, surfaced streets could not be built in that area until the storm sewer is constructed.

Under the alternate proposal, the only cost to property owners north of Sixth st. would be the

Two Horticulturists Give Gardening Tips

Dr. Orrin Turnquist and Dr. Gustav Hard, extension horticulture specialists at the University of Minnesota, conducted two horticulture meetings in Thief River Falls on Tuesday, according to the county extension office.

In discussing soil preparation, Dr. Turnquist said that organic matter was very desirable for a successful garden. "A thorough job of turning over the soil should be done in the spring so that the organic matter will be well mixed with the soil," he stated.

Plant food should also be added to the soil, either in the liquid form or the standard fertilizer. Complete analysis is most desirable. This means that nitrogen, phophate and potash are contained in the fertilizer.

Turnquist discussed several new varities of fruits and vegetables which are recommended for this area. These are descibed in a bulletin, which can be obtained at the extension office later this month. Also available is a list of pest control materials to be used in the barden.

Dr. Hard stated that landscaping is essentially the organization of a particular home setting. Space is a major consideration in developing the landscape setting. It is the limits or expanse of the area with which we are working, he said.

Functionally, the lot is divided into the public and private areas. The public area is usually in front. It should be simple in design and easy to maintain.

The private area is for family living and gardening. It is this area where colorful displays of annual, perennial and bulbous plants are brought together. In discussing planting around the house, Hard recommended that plants be placed four feet from the house foundation, for best results.

Dr. Hard also discussed lawns and perennials. Bulletins on these subjects are available at the extension office in the courthouse, said Steinmaschuk.

Local Boy Attends Easter Seal Camp

Charlie Bedard, Age 9, Enjoys His Experience

Sometimes trained personnel must take over for parents. This is the feeling of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bedard, 123 South Tindolph ave., Thief River Fals.

Mr. and Mrs. Bedard are the parents of nine-year-old Charlie who is hard-of-hearing and who has a speech problem. Last summer Charlie and 125 other children with similar problems attended the Easter Seal speech camp near Stillwater. Of Charlie's experience, Mrs. Bedard says, "We are most grateful that he had this opportunity to be taught by trained personnel, something which even loving parents sometimes cannot provide."

Through contributions to the Easter Seal society, two camps are maintained. The speech camp serves children between eight and 18 years of age who have speech or hearing problems. Normal camping experiences are available for persons with physical handicaps at Camp Courage, near Annandale and Maple Lake. Last year 545 crippled children and adults attended Camp Courage.

"I liked camp very much," says Charlie. "The best thing I liked was baseball. I went swimming and went to a cave and I went on a boat ride and to a picnic. I did some craft work and I played football."

State GOP Chairman Hits Freeman Record in Talk Here Tuesday

An excellent turnout of Republican leaders from several northwest Minnesota counties was present at a dinner meeting at the Rex cafe Tuesday evening when Ed Viehman, chairman of the Minnesota GOP state central committee, gave a preview of the party's strategy designed to bring Minnesota back into the GOP fold in the 1960 general election.

Also present at the meeting was Mrs. Evelyn Heberling, state GOP chairwoman from Winona, and several of Viehman's aides in carrying the attack to the DFL for the full two years leading up to the 1960 election.

The new GOP strategy is to hit the Freeman administration for its policy of expenditures piled on expenditures, followed by taxes piled on new taxes. The lecture given by Viehman in person at the Tuesday evening meeting, was illustrated with slides showing the comparative well-being of Minnesota prior to the first Freeman term, as compared with the present when the state debt is an all-time record 154 million.

"State finances, as a result of Freeman's unrealistic spending program, are in an awful mess and any tax programs designed to give relief would only be stopgap measures," Viehman emphasized. This, he went on, has resulted in a very unfavorable tax climate for new businesses that might be interested in locating in Minnesota.

Viehman stressed that at least two large Minnesota concerns have expanded outside the state while the others have not expanded and only one new industry has moved into the state since Freeman became governor, despite Freeman's boasts of "tremendous industrial growth" since he took office.

The population growth problem often used to justify his phenomenal spending program by Freeman is, in truth, the lack of growth, Viehman said. "I think the record should be set straight on this point," he stated.

Viehman produced figures to show Minnesota population growth at 4.4 per cent, income increase 12 per cent, state spending up 64.5 per cent and state debt up 83 per cent. Minnesota is sick — Dr. Freeman's "shot in the arm" gave Minnesota an awful headache, Viehman said.

The Freeman spend and tax program, he said, resulting in fewer jobs available for Minnesotans with the end result that it is actually a "share the poverty program," because the unfavorable business tax climate will make the fewer persons employed in the state carry a heavier load.

Viehman also decried the DFL governor's signing the AFL-CIO's COPE pledge in which he follows the program laid down by the big unions in return for their endorsement. In effect, Viehman said, the labor bosses in Minnesota pick the candidates they want elected by the people in the state.

The Republican antidote for the mess caused by the Freeman administration would be: get rid of the labor bosses in St. Paul, create a more favorable climate for business in the state, thus encouraging industrial growth, which would in turn mean more jobs, more tax income with less tax burden on the individual, and to get rid of Freeman and his stopgap tax measures.

Viehman said Freeman lived on tax windfalls the first two terms but that reality is finally catching up with him. In addition to the present increase asked by Freeman, state taxpayers can expect a request for an additional $30 million in 1960 at the present rate of state spending. Yet, all the increases proposed, present and future, would be mere stopgaps if the rate of spending continues, he added.

Viehman and his entourage arrived here via plane Monday evening and spent from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Tuesday conferring with the GOP leaders from the various counties in this corner of the state.

The formal unveiling of the Viehman campaign came last night at a large GOP rally at Moorhead and will be published in daily newspapers over the state today, he said.

Viehman's stop here was part of his state-wide tour to talk with GOP leaders in order to formulate 1960 campaign plans and solidify the party.

expense of installing the larger mains south of their area to which their system would be connected in the future. This would be assessed over a 15 to 20-year period.

Property owners south of Sixth st. would pay the same amount under the alternate plan as they would have done if the system had been extended over a greater area. A lot 50 feet by 140 feet in size would be assessed $266.

The toal cost of the alternate project would be $297,000 compared to $356,000 if the project had included the entire drainage district. The city's share would be $57,750 in municipal state aid and $44,860 in general obligation, leaving a balance of $194,390. From this would be deducted the trunk highway share in the project, $34,700, and municipal state aid of $19,250. The balance of $140,440 would be raised by special assessments of $14 for owners of 50 by 140-foot lots north of Sixth st. and $260 for those owning property south of this dividing line.

President Carlson adjourned the meeting until March 17 at 8 p.m., the regular council meeting night, when a decision will be reached on this matter but asked the reactions of spectators at the meeting Monday night.

It was apparent that the alternate proposal met with much greater approval than the original plan. Some who had expressed violent opposition before accepted the new plan and expressed appreciation for the work that had been done but others, both in opposition and in favor, continued their objections.

A new petition, opposing the project and bearing the names of 10 signers who live south of Sixth st. was presented to the council.

Wichterman Cites His Objections to State Sales Tax

State Representative Says It Would Provide No Funds for Jr. College

Rep. Ben Wichterman, vice chairman of the House tax committee, said Tuesday that sales tax proponents would exchange junior colleges in Western Minnesota for higher profits to chamber of commerce members.

Commenting on the proposal for a sales tax program which appeared in the Sunday Minneapolis Tribune, he said the sales tax would give only $83¼ million to support state programs over the next two years while taking $250 million in additional taxes.

"The junior college construction program, as recommended by Governor Freeman to be supported by the gain in revenue from converting income tax to a pay-as-you-go system, has been swept into the ashcan by the sales tax supporters.

"Their proposal makes no provision whatever for junior colleges in Western Minnesota where a current lack of higher educational facilities now prevent many high school graduates from attending college."

Wichterman pointed out that the sales tax proposal does not provide for the $5 million deficit in the income tax fund, nor for aid to distressed school districts or for nursing hime construction aid.

"The Chamber of Commerce in those communities where a junior college faculty is under consideration should take a long second look at the sales tax."

3 Cases Are Tried in Court Monday

Goodridge Man Fined for Furnishing Beer to Minor

A notable feature of this week's municipal court session, held before Judge H. O. Chommie, was its brevity, although two cases had been held on as many days the previous week.

Feb. 23 Frederick Jorgenson, St. Hilaire, pleaded guilty to using an illegal muffler and was fined $5 plus $4 costs.

The highway patrol brought Stanley Jakes, Bird Island, to court Thursday, on a charge of driving under the influence of intoxicants, to which Jakes pleaded guilty and was fined $100 plus $5 costs, or 60 days, and his license was revoked.

Monday only three persons faced Judged Chommie. Brought by Sheriff Charles Richards was Kenneth E. Thoreson, Goodridge, who pleaded guilty to furnishing liquor to a minor and was fined $50 plus $5 costs, of which $40 was suspended.

The remaining two cases were brought by city police. William Rondorf, rt. 5, and Martin Kulseth, city, pleaded guilty to failure to yield the right-of-way and were each fined $10 plus $1 costs. In Rondorf's case an accident was involved.

OVER THE BACK FENCE

By STAN PETERSON

Responsibility

To one unacquainted with the way we do things, it must be rather baffling to see a nation of people on its knees begging for governmental handouts and later cursing the same government for being too expensive in its operation.

Especially since the early 1930's, there has been a growing dependency on the government at all levels for the provision of "services" which were once considered the business of those now in the habit of asking for handouts. And, as time goes on, every level of government finds itself being asked for more and more "help" as individual consciences become numbed by time and "easy" money.

The undeniable fact is that we are becoming a nation of people who want security and extra things so much that we are losing our individual initiative and resourcefulness. Individual competition to better conditions is becoming a lost art. We just won't take a chance on making something better by our own efforts but we accept the security we have and bleat for others to improve conditions for us.

The result is the ever-increasing tax burden which has come about because we created it. Services, projects or any enterprise which we want government to provide for us all cost large sums of money. In the past, they have all been furnished by smaller governmental subdivisions or by the people themselves at a much smaller cost and usually on a less-grand scale.

There have been remote instances of rebellion against some federal projects and those who have turned down federal help are worthy of recognition. Not too long ago, a community in southwestern Iowa, decided to put in a municipal power plant. Some "let the government do it for us" exponent suggested a federal loan but, after a survey was made, they found that the recommended loan was for twice the amount they had originally been told the plant would cost. They turned down the loan, built it themselves and today own this facility free and clear. The voters of that community just couldn't see spending twice as much money as was necessary.

But instances like this are few and far between. Both in our state and national budgets, we find a growing number of expensive items which raise our tax rates and result in more and more deficit spending. The question is, "Just what are the responsibilities of government and what can be done to reverse the trend of expecting others to do what we should do ourselves?"

To illustrate this trend, let us take the example of road construction. For some years, townships have been asking counties to take roads into their systems. Counties, on the other hand, have been badgering states to take roads into their primary systems. States, to pass the buck further, continuously ask for federal aid without batting an eyelash and everyone screams because the cost of the federal government increases daily.

The brutal reality is that the further up the line you pass a job, the more it costs you in the end. No tax funds ever collected and sent to government on a higher level ever gets to the job at hand without much of it being lost on the way. Little bureaus, once unheard of, grow and grow as people want additional services and the percentage of our total population employed by government reaches frightening proportions.

In other words, every time you ask any level of government to take on a service for you, that service will then cost you more than if you did it yourself. Multiply that by the number of others asking that government take on responsibilities that are really their own and you have one of the main reasons why your taxes are going up.

There was a time, not too long ago, when people in every kind of work prospered or failed because of their own efforts or lack of effort; when the care of the sick and the aged was an individual, not a community, responsibility and when parents provided their children with work and recreation instead of asking for glorified baby-sitting facilities.

There was a time when communities either furnished their own funds for expansion or replacement of facilities or did without them rather than running to the state capitols for money. States, at one time, used to believe in their own strength and sovereignty enough that they rejected outside interference by the national government as an infringement on their rights.

Government, of course, will never urge the end of this expansion of services for each new bureau added means that many more jobs to be passed out as political favors, that many more policy-making positions to be filled by the faithful and an even greater chance to collect votes on election day.

By our own actions, we are "passing the buck" higher and higher and it is costing us more every year. Only when we admit the fact that we are causing the rising cost of government and stop asking for handouts will there be a decreased cost of government and lower taxes.

Tells How to Force Shrubs to Bloom

Home Agent Passes Along Tips from Horticulturist

If you're tired of gray winter days, you can bring a note of spring into the house by forcing some shrubs, some violets or lilies-of-the-valley so they will bloom in a few weeks.

Home agent Roberta LeBourveau passes on some tips given by C. G. Hard, extension horticulturist at the University of Minnesota.

With a sharp pruner cut large branches from apple, cherry or plum trees or early spring-flowering shrubs such as lilac or flowering almond. Branches of horse chestnut, sumac, maple, grape and dogwood make interesting arrangements, too. It is best to cut the branches on a warm day when there's some activity in the plant.

Crush the stems, then place the branches in a deep container of water and keep them in a basement or other cool room that's about 50-60 degrees. Once the branches are thawed out, soak them in water—the laundry tub is a good place—for half an hour or so to soften the bud scales. Repeat the soaking every few days. When the branches are starting to blossom, arrange them attractively in a vase or bowl and bring them into the living or lining room where you can enjoy them.

If you have violets or lilies-of-the-valley, dig up a few clumps, put them in a pan about four inches deep and keep them in a cool, dark room — 55 to 60 degrees — until the shoots come up. Keep the clumps moist. When the shoots are about an inch and a half long, place them where you can enjoy them. It will take two or three weeks to force them.

W. C. T. U. News Notes

The Iota Sigma group of WCTU met Monday evening, Feb. 23rd at the Benhard Wold home. Mrs. Robert Burkhardt read scripture from Proverbs 26 and led in prayer asking especially for wisdom for each to instruct boys and girls of the evils of intemperance.

Fifteen responded to roll call by giving a scripture verse. Musical selections were rendered by Ruby Peterson, Linda Poppenhagen and Sharon Wold singing "Have Thine Own Way, Lord" and Mrs. Mae Wahlbeck and Barbara accompanied by the accordion sang "Amazing Grace" and "Whiskey is the Devil in Liquid Form."

Mrs. Benhard Wold gave a report on "The Alcohol Balance Sheet," an analysis of assets and liabilities on the 25th anniversary of the repeal of the 18th Amendment.

How many years must pass before the American people come to realize they are heading for social and moral bankruptcy?

Mrs. Earl Ripley, local WCTU chairman, showed needs of a growing WCTU by quoting startling figures. Today the total number of taverns and retail stores exceed the combined total of churches and school by nearly 30,000.

She brought to remembrance the hour of prayer each day and for all temperant minded people to remember the many other departments of WCTU work.

It was brought up that all should protest a recipe in a recent ad published in the Thief River Falls Times by members of the Minnesota Brewers Association. Also to thank them for omitting large flashy pictures with their ads.

Mrs. Phinnie Poppenhagen led in closing prayer afterwhich refreshments were served by Mrs. Wold.

The March meeting will be held at the Ray Nelson home.

Public Opinion

Editor the Times:

In reply to the letter of March 2nd concerning the name for the newly proposed home for the aged which has recently been called "Christian Manor."

"Christian Manor" is a good name and the Christian part should not confuse. If it does drive some away, I'm convinced that many of our "old friends" would consider it a privilege to find a "Haven of Rest" in a home so beautifully named at "Christian Manor."

1st Round in District 31 Went as Expected

Crookston, Fisher, Thief River Falls, and East Grand Forks won first round games on Monday in the 31st district high school basketball tournament that was played on the spacious UND fieldhouse court at Grand Forks. Crookston defeated Warren, 58 to 43; Fisher outlasted Climax, 61 to 57; Thief River Falls outreached Alvarado, 77 to 52; and East Grand Forks eliminated Red Lake Falls, 69 to 53.

In Monday night's game, the Prowlers had too much all-round team strength, and rebounding height, for the Alvarado Indians, and the result was a one-sided triumph for coach Alan Adams' squad.

Except for the opening minutes of play when the Indians, relying on the jump-shooting accuracy of their chunky little guard, Jerry Sersland, played the Prowlers on near-even terms, having a 9-all tie after four minutes had elapsed, the locals were decidedly superior.

The Prowlers, with Phil Hanson scoring six points, Bob Pearson notching seven points, Mickey Hanson scoring eight points, and Lynn Nicholson adding five points, gained a 26 to 12 lead at the end of the first period. And with Ronnie Solheim adding ten points to the Prowler cause in the second period, coach Adams' squad had a comfortable 47 to 22 lead at the halftime intermission.

Prowler reserves played thruout most of the second and fourth periods of the game, and they added to the locals' lead.

Alvarado's Jerry Sersland gained high point honors, flipping in seven field goals and nine free throws for a 23 point effort. Mickey Hanson and Solheim, each with 11 points, led the Prowler scorers.

Crookston Repeats To Win District 31 Title

The Crookston Pirates made a successful defense of their 31st district basketball championship on Wednesday night as they made a shambles of their tournament finals game against East Grand Forks, winning 66 to 37. As a result of their solid win, coach A Droen's Crookston club will represent the district in the Region Eight tournament that will be held on the UND fieldhouse court in Grand Forks on March 10 and 11. According to the pairings, district 31 will play the district 32 representative, and district 29 will meet the district 30 champion in first round games on Tuesday. The first game of the tournament will be played at 7:00 p.m. on Tuesday, with the second game being slated for 8:30 p.m. On Wednesday night, the consolation game will be played at 7:00 p.m., with the regional championship game, between Tuesday night's winners, being slated for 8:30 p.m.

In a preliminary game on Wednesday, to determine third place in the district tournament, the Prowlers scored a decisive 70 to 42 win over coach Norman Wagner's Fisher Flyers. The Flyers kept within reach of the Prowlers throughout the first two periods, trailing by a 15 to 14 score at the end of the first quarter, and by a 31 to 23 score at the halftime. In the third period, the Prowlers put together a 23-point effort to pull away from Fisher. Coach Al Adams used his reserves during much of the final period. Phil Hanson racked up 23 points for the locals.

In the district championship tilt, Crookston, except for the opening minute of play, when Bill Harvey and Cameron Saunders scored East Grand Forks' field goals to give the Green Wave a 4 to 0 lead, had control of the game. Field goals by Jerry Dohm, Dean Lufkin, and Bill Taylor, shoved the Pirates into a 6 to 4 lead. East Grand Forks, on free throws by Harvey and Pat Sullivan, and a field goal by Harvey, regained the lead, 8 to 7, but that was the final gasp as the Pirates spurted into a 16 to 8 lead at the end of the first period, and a 33 to 15 lead at the intermission.

The Pirates, with Rog McWaters scoring eleven points, moved ahead to a 49 to 27 advantage at the end of the third period and, with reserves in the lineup in the final stanza, Crookston outpointed the Green Wave, 17 to 10, to boost their game total to 66.

McWaters, with 19 points, and Ken DeBoer, with 12 points, hit for double figures for the Pirates. Bill Harvey, scoring 12 points, was the only player to reach double figures for the losers.

Jerry Jorgenson, Dale Wennberg Tie in Hockey Scoring

Players Lead Prowler Sextet for Season with Total of 50 Points Each

Jerry Jorgenson and Dale Wennberg, left wing and center, respectively, on the Prowlers "production" line of Jorgenson-Wennberg-Schneider, shared point-total honors for the 1958-59 Prowler hockey team this past season.

Jorgenson scored thirty-one goals and had nineteen assists for a fifty-point aggregate; while Wennberg scored twenty-six goals and twenty-four assists, also for a fifty-point total.

Archie Schneider, the burly right winger, scored thirteen goals and had eighteen assists, for a thirty-one point total. Schneider has the dubious honor of leading the Prowlers in penalties, having been whistled off the ice sixteen times this past season.

The individual scoring records for the Prowlers during the 1958-59 high school hockey season:

The Very First

While it is technically true that the first high school hockey tournament, conducted by the Minnesota State High School league, was held in St. Paul in 1945, we must state again that the very first high school tournament was held in Roseau in 1912.

Oscar Almquist of Roseau, who, along with Eveleth's Cliff Thompson, were the prime movers in organizing high school hockey on a state-wide level, must be given credit for this first tournament. Almquist secured the authorization of the State High School league to hold a tournament at Roseau in 1912.

In those days, there weren't very many high schools that had hockey organized on a team level, and Almquist, after securing permission to hold a tournament, extended invitations to the following teams: Eveleth, Warroad, Thief River Falls, Baudette, Hallock, Williams, and the host team, Roseau.

Play began on Feb. 27, and was held in the old Roseau arena. The Eveleth Golden Bears drew a first round bye, but in other first round games Thief River Falls defeated Warroad, 6 to 5; Baudette trounced Hallock, 7 to 1; and Roseau defeated Williams, 5 to 3. In the semi-finals, Thief River Falls defeated Eveleth, 1 to 0; and Bauette defeated Roseau, 6 to 5. And in the championship finals, Thief River Falls defeated Baudette, 4 to 1.

On that Prowler team, coached by Walt DePaul, were such players as John Robarge, goalie; Tony Dorn and Doug Snelling, defense; Lloyd Johnson, center; Morris and Johnny Efteland, wings; and Bob Baker, Bob Protz, and Don Waage, spares. On the Eveleth squad were such players as LoPresti, Diggerness, Longan, Swarthout, Rolle, Bastianelli, Celley, Yellich, Coombes, Ranniker, and Coper. Yes, that's the same Rolle who later coached a pair of Prowler teams to state championships.

That 1912 tournament at Roseau was the hockey acorn that took root and developed into the ever-growing tournament that just concluded its 15th annual tourney in St. Paul the other week.

Kid Hockey

Our hopes are for hard and fast ice in the Arena on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday so that the Little Leaguers, the Grade Schoolers, and the Midgets will have a series of exciting and well-played kid hockey playoff games.

The schedule will have the preliminary eliminations being played on Thursday and Friday, with the finals on Saturday. Thursday evening's slate will find, in Little League play, the Rockets meeting the Aces; in Grade School competition, the Knox Tigers playing the Washington Wildcats; and in Midget play, the Black Hawks playing the Bruins. The schedule for Friday evening will have, in Little League competition, the Flyers playing the Jets; in the Grade School division, the Northrop Indians will play the St. Bernard's Broncos; and in the Midgets play, the Red Wings will meet the Rangers.

The program, under the supervision of Paul Bedard and Art Cloutier, will play the finals, and determine the playoff champions, on Saturday night.

Play will start at 7:00 p.m. every evening. Why not make it a date to be in attendance at one or more of these kid hockey sessions? After all, this is where the future Prowler hockey stars get their training.

Miscellany

While attending the district cage tournament at Grand Forks on Tuesday night, we were greeted by Marvin (Ninsk) Carlson, former Prowler all-round athlete, and co-captain of the 1945-46 Prowler cage team. We learned that Ninsk has quit the teaching and coaching profession. Ninsk, a graduate of Valley City Teachers, was at Mahnomen last year, but he resigned his position to accept a textbook salesman's job with Houghton-Mifflin Company. Ninsk added that he had met Norman (Oats) Furuseth at Minot the other day, where Norman is teaching school. The Carlson family resides at Valley City. . . Harold (Pinky) Kraft, the North Dakota U baseball coach, is just about the happiest fellow around the Sioux campus these days. First, Pinky and his wife Lorna have just become parents of a bouncing baby boy; and second, there are a number of firstrate pitchers available for the Sioux freshman and varsity squads. The freshman class, in particular, contains some fine hurlers, including such boys as Doug Halcrow of Drayton, Ken Weber of Ada, and Bill Korn of Moorhead. Halcrow, a righthander, was instrumental in carrying the Drayton juniors to the sectional playoffs. Weber pitched Ada to the Region Eight title. And Korn, a southpaw, was a star for the Moorhead high school and Legion teams.

'Cold' Prowlers Lose to EGF in Semis 38-30

In a low-scoring, cold-shooting, ball-control type of game (the Prowlers were shooting at a 20 percent mark from the field, while the East Siders were hitting at a 36 percent average), coach Harold Sullivan's East Grand Forks Green Wave defeated the Prowlers, 38 to 30, in a 31st district basketball tournament semi-finals game played at Grand Forks on Tuesday night. In a game preceding the Prowlers vs. East Grand Forks tilt, the defending district champion Crookston Pirates defeated the Fisher Flyers, 59 to 41.

Against the Green Wave, the Prowlers moved into an 8 to 2 lead in the opening period, with Phil Hanson scoring a field goal and free throw, brother Ron Hanson tallying a field goal and a free throw, and Mickey Hanson scoring a field goal. Bill Harvey, at the 3:40 mark, notched a pair of East Side free throws; but with two minutes of play remaining, Mary Selmanson scored on an out-of-bounds play. Dick Stallmo rolled a hook shot into the east basket, and Pat Sullivan dropped a one-handed, tying the game at 8-all. Just before the period-ending buzzer, Phil Hanson scored on an under-the-basket shot, and the Prowlers held a 10 to 8 advantage.

The trend of the game moved away from the Prowlers in the second period when the locals could score but five points, all on free throws by Phil Hanson, while East Grand Forks was marking up twelve points to take a 20 to 15 lead at the halftime intermission. In this "cold" second period, the Prowlers failed to connect on twelve field goal tries.

In the third period, Mickey Hanson scored three field goals, getting a pair of jumpers and one field goal on a fast-break layup, and Ron Hanson rapped in a rebound to pare the East Grand Forks' lead to 25 to 23 entering the fourth period.

Phil Hanson, in the opening second of the final period, scored on a jump shot, knotting the game at 25-all; but Sullivan's field goal from close, Cameron Saunders' jump shot from the lane, Harvey's drive-in layup, and Joel Cleveland's free throw, shoved the Green Wave into a 32 to 27 lead with 5:45 to play.

Steve Embury broke through for a lay-up shot for the Prowlers, but Harvey and Stallmo notched East Grand Forks free throw points. With 2:30 to play, Mickey Hanson finished off a fast-break by scoring from close in; only to have Joel Cleveland add a pair of East Side points from the free throw line. Ron Solheim, with 1:30 to play, marked up the Prowlers final point on a free throw; and just before the game-ending buzzer, Cleveland, from mid-court, unleashed a long shot that swished into the basket, giving the Green Wave their 38 to 30 triumph.

Small Game Seasons for 1959 Announced

Wondering when you should schedule your vacation this fall in order to go hunting? State game and fish officials announced today the opening dates for the 1959 small game hunting seasons.

In order to accommodate the desire of game hunters to know when seasons will begin far in advance, James W. Kimball, state game director, today established the opening dates for 1959.

"This marks the third consecutive year that we have made this information available early in the spring in order that hunters can arrange their vacations and schedule their trips to coincide with their favorite hunting," explained Kimball.

According to Kimball the department establishes the opening date on game species at this time but postpones setting the season length and bag limits until shortly before the seasons open.

"This plan permits wardens, game managers and our wildlife scientists to collect data on the annual reproductive success of each species later into the summer. This allows us to fix bag limits and season lengths on the basis of the very latest information."

Kimball further emphasized the fact, "That the department reserves the right to close any season completely even though the opening date had been established, if it was later learned that such a move was necessary to the welfare of the wildlife resource."

The opening dates for small game only are set at this time but similar information on furbearers will be released in the near future.

Opening dates are as follows: Sharp-tailed grouse, Sept. 19. Ruffed grouse, Oct. 3. Hungarian partridge and pheasant, Oct. 24. Quail, Oct. 24. Squirrel, Oct. 17. Rabbit, Oct. 3. Raccoon hunting, Oct. 3.

Kimball pointed out the only change in the fixed opening dates this year concerns pheasant, quail and Hungarian partridge.

"Studies by our wildlife scientists have shown that pheasant hunting success varies directly with the amount of standing corn. In a year when little of the corn is picked at the time the season opens, success is down. Conversely, in a year when a big percentage of the corn is picked, hunter success is up. Farmers are also naturally reluctant to let the sportsmen public into their unpicked corn fields. Our experiences during the past two years when we opened the pheasant season on the Saturday nearest October 20, has led us to believe this opening date is too early on the average. We have, therefore, now established the opening date on the Saturday nearest October 27.

"This represents a delay of one week in opening the season. This means that in any given year the pheasant season would not begin earlier than October 24 or later than October 30. Under the present law the pheasant season cannot extend beyond Nov. 30. We are also aware of the disadvantages that could result from having the season established too late. We are apt to encounter inclement weather which induces the opportunity to participate in the sport, and it could conflict with the deer season."

Ask Use of Short Income Tax Form

Use of Form Will Save Time as Well as Money

The short federal income tax Form 1040A you received in the mail will save you time and, eventually, money if you can use it.

The time saving, said George O. Lethert, district director of internal revenue for the St. Paul district, will come from the greater ease and speed in filling out the card.

The money saving, he said, will accrue first to Uncle Sam and later to the taxpayers in the form of reduced expenses. He explained that the short cards can be processed at far less expense than the more complicated forms.

The card Form 1040A is intended for use of taxpayers whose income during 1958 was less than $10,000 total, consisting of wages reported on W2's and up to $200 interest and dividend income.

Mr. Lethert said that taxpayers who did not receive a 1040A but are eligible to use that form, are urged to obtain a copy from the nearest Internal Revenue office. It is a simpler form than the regular 1040, is easier to prepare and may speed up any refund.

Periodic visual examinations would eliminate many drivers who cause accidents, and the number of persons killed and injured because of poor vision would be greatly reduced.

Mrs. E. Israelson's Brother Injured

Minneapolis Man Hurt In Iowa Traffic Mishap

A freak highway accident in Iowa last week completely wrecked the car of a local resident's brother and sent the man to the hospital with serious injuries.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Berg of Minneapolis, brother and sister-in-law of Mrs. Emmett Israelson, 311 Horace ave. N., were returning home from a vacation at McAllen, Texas, when they were sideswiped by a state highway snowplow near Britt, Iowa. The snowplow went out of control when it struck a hard piece of ice just as it met the Berg car, swung across the highway into the path of the oncoming car and tore away the entire left side of the car and part of the seat in which the driver was sitting.

Taken to the Hancock Memorial hospital in Britt, Mr. Berg was found to have cracked his three lower vertebrae and his hip bone.

No report has been received on the victim's present condition.

58,344 Highway Mishaps in State During Past Year

Traffic accidents reported to the Minnesota Highway department in 1958 showed an increase of 1.1 per cent over 1957, a preliminary year end report of the department revealed. The Accident Records section received reports of 58,344 accidents during the past year, up 674 from the previous year.

Accidents showed the heaviest increase in urban areas, where 727 more were reported during the year. County and town roads had a small increase of 158, while accidents on rural trunk highways were down 211 from the year before, a reduction of 2.2 per cent.

Minnesota laws require an accident report to be filed with the Commissioner of Highways whenever a vehicle is involved in an accident where the total property damage is $50 or more, or where there is a personal injury or death.

Seeing The Other Side

BY W. E. DAHLQUIST

We left New York yesterday afternoon and the next postoffice is Lisbon. Between here and there I will be confined to my Pan American quarters. This gives me a chance to review a handbook on Africa and a few other pamphlets on advice to travelers.

The paragraph on health certificates tells me:

> "It is very necessary for travelers in Africa to prove that they have been vaccinated for smallpox and that they have had yellow fever inoculations. It is advisable, though not in most cases officially required, to be inoculated also against typhoid, paratyphoid, cholera, typhus, tetanus and bubonic plague."

The only immunization recommended in this list which I have not had is the one for bubonic plague. The Health Service at the University of Minnesota provided the yellow fever "shot" but the serum for the bubonic plague was not in stock in the Twin Cities. The rest of the immunization I received at home.

While I have a great respect for the magic needle I am mainly a pill-and-powder man. As a pill man I am loaded. I have a pill for every purpose. Next to my passport I figure the most valuable document I carry with me is my instruction sheet explaining what each pill is for.

In preparing my diet of pills and powders, my medical staff revealed a surprising interest in recent developments of medical science. One of the prescriptions calls for a compound so new it was not available in Minnesota. They were sure the prescription could not be filled in Africa and suggested that I try in New York.

The pharmacist to whom I handed the prescription in New York went into a huddle with his associates. After several references to recent publications and three telephone calls, they might be able to fill it by plane time. I now have the magic mixture, but I have forgotten what it is for and the label on the bottle does not say.

However, as a last resort, if for any reason I am having a bad day I will gargle a few grams.

And whatever happens I will carefully note the results in the interests of medicine. If this is just an experiment, as I am beginning to suspect, it is quite important that the reaction be recorded.

So much for the attacking armies of microbes and mites that prey on travelers in the tropics. Many centuries of contact have given the natives immunity from most of these enemies of man. I am glad that much of the immunity that has been acquired by the natives the hard way can be obtained in capsule form. We cannot all be pillars of society, but I am going to be one of the leadering "pillers" in the jungle of Africa.

In the book of instructions that comes with the passport are some suggestions for travelers that cannot be overemphasized. The letter from President Eisenhower contains this paragraph:

> "Each of us, whether bearing a commission from his government or traveling by himself for pleasure or for business, is a representative of the United States of America and he must try to portray America as he belives it in his heart to be: a peace loving nation living in the fear of God, but not in the fear of God only, trying to be partners with our friends."

In visiting with the people of nations that are friendly to us, and some that may not be so friendly, I am going to try to keep this admonition of our President in mind.

YOUR SENATOR REPORTS

from the Desk of
SENATOR
HUBERT H. HUMPHREY

Recapturing the initiative — For 12 years now, despite occassional thaws, the West has found it increasingly difficult to obtain any top-level political agreements with the Soviet bloc. And, unfortunately, after a string of diplomatic rebuffs, the tendency in the West has been to fall back on an essentially negative and defensive attitude. Now you just can't win by "standing fast" alone. We must somehow get off the defensive, and recapture the initiative—particularly in the underdeveloped areas of the world, where the Soviet leaders have been successfully pretending to represent a new and more humane order of things as opposed to the old regimes of colonialism.

Works of peace—We must reorient our foreign policy to make better use of our considerable natural advantages—while at the same time maintaining our shield of military defenses. We are a generous and outgoing people—equipped both by nature and by our tremendous technical achievements to undertake a new policy based on positive "works of peace." With our magnificent food and fiber production in a hungry world, with our leadership in medicine in a world filled with disease and suffering, we are in a position to spearhead an international drive to feed the hungry, clothe the naked, heal the sick, and teach the ignorant. Food, shelter, health, and knowledge—these after all are the real objectives of the down-trodden peoples of Asia and Africa—and the way to political democracy in those areas, rather than communism, if we can beat the Soviet leaders to the punch.

Positive action — We must make more aggressive use of our food abundance, and we should lead an International Health Year assault on the great disease killers and cripplers of the world. This would be positive action.

A white fleet — A dramatic symbol of American intentions in this area would be to demothball a number of U.S. Navy ships and form them into a vivid and effective "task force for peace." We could re-outfit two or three hospital ships and renovate several other ships to carry supplies and food and to furnish emergency power to disaster-stricken areas in Asia and Africa. Such a White Fleet could be sent to the scenes of earthquake, flood, hurricane, famine or disease epidemics. For between 10 million and $15 million, two groups of White Fleet ships could be kept operating each year—one in the Mediterranean and the other in Southeast Asia—each able to bring help within three or four days to any disaster area within 1000 to 1200 miles. They could be given priority call on U.S. and Allied ambulance planes for "first wave" relief ahead of the ships. Each group could throw into a port 800 to 1000 hospital beds, operating facilities and laboratories, power for a city, and emergency rations for 300,000 people for a full week.

Training for health — When not on disaster assignment, the White Fleet groups could undertake a year-long training and technical assistance program in health and medicine, in the ports of scores of underdeveloped nations. In a fine burst of initiative, a private group—the People to People Health Association—is already planning to outfit one U. S. Navy hospital ship for this purpose, and send it on a world cruise. Our Government could well afford to follow this lead in at least helping to finance an even broader White Fleet effort.

Your Office in Washington

ODIN LANGEN

Full parity to the wheat farmer at less expense to the taxpayer through a system of incremental price supports—this is the theme of the wheat bill which I introduced last Thursday in the United States House of Representatives. Under this proposal, wheat farmers would receive an additional ten per cent of parity for each five per cent of their acreage allotment voluntarily withdrawn from production. Those withdrawing twenty per cent of their alloted acres from production would receive one hundred per cent of the parity price. Acreage thus withdrawn would not be used for the harvesting of any other crop or for grazing, so as not to increase other crop surpluses, and the acreage would count as wheat acreage for purposes of maintaining allotments and history. Acreage reserve payments at a rate not to exceed ten dollars an acre per year would be provided to help defray costs of taking this land out of production.

At present prices, this program would mean increases of as much as fifty-eight cents a bushel to the wheat farmer who takes the option of participating, and would mean an actual increased gross and net income to the farmer. This, I feel, would be a step in the right direction toward keeping the small farmer on the farm. It would give him the opportunity to achieve his just share of the national income, and help assure him of his rightful place in the growth and development of the rural community, its churches, and its schools. In addition, it would automatically reduce the agricultural surpluses which are costing the nation's taxpayers one million dollars a day and preventing the creation of a market for the farmer.

In the very near future, I will introduce a similar bill covering other small grain crops presently being supported. Recent announcements by the Department of Agriculture have shown the necessity of such action.

School Lunch Program

Senator Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin, in a speech on the Floor of the Senate a week ago Monday, expressed disappointment in the amount of funds requested this year for the school lunch program. We fully agree with him on this. Over the years this fine program has provided elementary and secondary school children with wholesome, well-rounded meals at very reasonable costs. In addition, it has been instrumental in helping keep our agricultural surpluses down. This year approximately 12 million school children are participating in this program, and with an anticipated increase of one million participating students next year, increased funds will be necessary.

Father-son Banquet

Last Friday evening I had the privilege of speaking at the annual father-son banquet of the Augustanan Lutheran church here. It's always a real pleasure to see gatherings of this kind, furthering as they do the spirit of companionship and cooperation which is so vital to the life of our communities, our churches, and our govermemnt.

Temperatures Last Month Ranged from 39 Below to 35 High Mark

February, which began with the lowest temperature of the year, a —39 on the night of January 31st and the morning of February 1, asked the forgiveness of area residents and departed with a "please excuse me" gift of an above-freezing temperature of 35 degrees last Friday, the first time this had happened since December 3.

No one was very happy with February but it was warmer than the preceding month, if that is any consolation. The average high was 13.25 degrees and the average low was —8.98 degrees compared to 3.1 and —11.5 in January.

If one is to mark the calendar for the date the current warm-up started, February 20 would be the dividing point for, since that time, no below-zero reading has been recorded.

As of February 26, there had been 131 days this fall and winter when the mercury was below the freezing mark. November 13 was the last date in 1958 when the mercury got above the freezing point at night and there were 74 nights when readings below the zero mark were recorded since November 24th, the night of the first below-zero reading.

February 20 was the date when the warming up started in 1958 too. The weather summary for last year stated, "A new low mark for this year was set Feb. 10 when a —22 was recorded but Feb. 23, a new high mark was set when 58 degrees was registered tumbling a 50-year record of 45. It was below zero for 20 consecutive days."

Forestry Group Honors Local Man

Brian J. Baden, who operates amateur radio station KOOAQ at his home at Thief River Falls, today received a public service award from Keep Minnesota Green, Inc.

The award is presented, according to Floyd Ryan, executive secretary of KMG, to Baden for his outstanding public service in connection with the Keep Minnesota Green emergency network.

By serving the network in a consistently meritorius manner, Baden is helping to promote the prevention of forest fires and other disasters. He is furthering the cause of conservation in Minnesota and has brought favorable recognition to himself and all amateur radio operators, the award stated.

The award is signed by Dr. Frank H. Kaufert, president of KMG. The Keep Minnesota Green emergency network is composed of about 60 radio operators located throughout the state, who voluntarily meet on short wave frequency 3.810 megacycles daily.

Bar Group Discusses Capital Gains, Losses

(This is the fifth in a series of articles on Income Tax. These articles are made available as a public service by the Minnesota State Bar association, public relations committee.)

What is a Capital Asset?

Gain from the sale of a capital asset is given preferential tax treatment on both your federal and Minnesota returns. Capital assets include property held for investment rather than for sale to customers, such as corporate stocks and bonds, municipal bonds, and real estate if you are not in the real estate business. Goods carried in inventory and property held for sale to customers in the ordinary course of business do not qualify as capital assets.

How Capital Gains are Taxed

The sale of capital assets gives rise to a special treatment for tax purposes, if held for more than six months. Only one-half of the gain on the sale or exchange of such property (usually the difference between cost and selling price) need be reported as income, and in the event the tax so computed on this gain exceeds 25% of the total gain, the taxpayer can make an alternative tax computation in which he pays tax of only 25% of such gain. Where there are both gains and losses from such sales, the gains and losses should be offset against each other. If the long term gains exceed the long term losses, the net gain is taxable to the extent of one-half subject to the maximum tax of 25%.

But if the capital losses exceed the gains such excess is deductible against other income only up to $1,000. Capital losses in excess of the $1,000 deductible against ordinary income may then be carried forward for five years or until used up. That is, excess capital losses from 1958 may be used as a deduction in 1959 against capital gains and up to $1,000 of 1959 ordinary income. If the deduction is not completely used up, it may then be carried over to 1960 and later years through 1963. If it is not completely used up by 1963, the remaining unused portion is lost.

Property Used in Business

Property used in your business but not held for sale to customers receives a sort of hybrid treatment. If profit is made on the sale, it is treated as capital gains. But if the sale results in a loss, the loss is not a capital loss and may be deducted fully against any kind of income. The $1,000 deduction limitation does not apply. Examples of this kind of property are the land used in the business, buildings and equipment used in the business and such items as animals that have been a part of a breeding or dairy herd.

Sale of Personal Property

If you sell your car, furniture, shot gun or house you must ordinarily pay a tax on any gain (at capital gain rates), but you must not claim a loss if you did not sell the asset at a profit. This is so because law does not allow you to claim a loss from the sale of an asset which was not held for the purpose of producing income. If you sold your residence at a gain you may be able to avoid paying tax on the gain if you buy another residence within a year of the sale. The next article in this series will explore in greater detail this problem of tax on sale of residence.

BUILT ON SAND?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Is this lighthouse built on sand? Seemingly so! All you can see at its base is sand.

Actually this towering structure is built on rock. Underneath these dunes of sand is a rocky ledge, firm and enduring. The sand may be carried away by sea or wind, but this lighthouse will stand secure. There's a rock, a firm foundation, underneath!

Some people look at the Church and see only sand. They see the shifting sands—of custom—and fashion—and passing personalities pile up and wash away around the Church. "Why is it still standing?" they ask—for they see only sand.

The Church would have fallen long ago were it built on anything so fickle as fashion, so casual as custom, so impermanent as mere people. The Church is built on rock, firm and enduring. It will stand secure for all ages, shedding light and imparting strength to all who are guided by it. It stands on the "Rock of Ages," the divine personality of Jesus Christ and His message of hope for all mankind.

The Redeemer church had not been open since Jan., 1958, when members had to go elsewhere to worship but now rejoice that with God's blessing this arrangement could be made to again use their own house of worship. It is hoped that all members will make every effort to attend services regularly and all people are invited and welcome to attend our services.

Nearly 800 Persons at 1959 Meeting in Karlstad Thursday

Encouraged by pleasant late winter weather, nearly 800 persons attended the annual meeting of Land O'Lakes District 17 in Karlstad last Thursday.

Marian Augustine of Holt, who presided over the program, was renamed to the office of district president, others elected including M. B. Magnuson of Roseau and Edgar Rokke of Newfolden, respectively first and second vice president; C. M. Krohn of Viking, secretary; and Elmer Severson of Clearbrook, treasurer.

John Lager, field man, announced the winners of the district creamery operators efficiency contest, the scores being unusually high. First place went to Hjalmer Martin, Newfolden, with a score of 99.87; second to Oscar Stannes of Halma, 99.83; third to James Salveson of Goodridge, 99.78; and fourth to Clifford Skime of Roseau, 99.74.

Principal speakers on the afternoon program were Dr. Gordon Sprague, LO'L economist, who discussed current conditions, and Frank Stone of Minneapolis, general manager of Land O'Lakes Creameries, who reported on the past years operations of the huge cooperative.

Stone said LO'L volume in 1958 reached a new high mark of $181,000,000, compared to $173,000,000 in 1957 adding that the gain was registered in spite of lower prices on many dairy products last year.

He reported that LO'L handled 125000,000 pounds of butter in 1958, an increase of nine per cent over 1957, and representing ten per cent of all butter sales in the United States. It also handled 20 per cent of all milk powder sold last year.

Stuart McLeod, manager of the Thief River Falls branch of Land O'Lakes, reported on 1958 operations of the local plant, and John Lager of this city submitted the field man's report at the morning session.

211 Children Took Part in Pre-school Roundup Saturday

Expect at Least 225 Youngsters to Enter Kindergarten in Fall

School officials expect at least 225 children to enter kindergarten next fall, it was disclosed today following the registration of 211 at the PTA pre-school roundup Saturday in the Washington school gymnasium.

Ten children were registered previously and others are expected to complete their examinations and records before the fall term begins.

Mrs. Margaret Race, school nurse, said today that parents may arrange for an appointment for their children by calling her at MU 1-1336 at any time. The free examination includes a re-vaccination and a booster shot for diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough.

A time will be arranged for the physical examination, eye test and other details necessary before children have completed the records necessary for registration.

A child's birth certificate and medical record should be brought when the examinations are scheduled, Mrs. Race said. A hospital birth certificate will not be accepted. All children who are five years old on or before Sept. 1, 1959, will be eligible to enter kindergarten after completion of their records.

The 211 children who registered topped by 41 last year's registration of 170.

Registered and practical nurses and students were aided by school personnel, students and volunteers from the grade school PTA's of the city in the registration and examinations.

BLACK RIVER 4-H CLUB TO MEET FRIDAY NIGHT

Anton Hall Gives Painting To Historical Society

Anton Hall, left presented this four by eight-foot painting of the largest load of logs ever hauled by a six-horse team to the Pennington County Historical society Friday evening. Judge Paul A. Lundgren, right, accepted the painting on behalf of the society. The painting depicts a 250-ton load of logs which was hauled from east of the Upper Red Lake 50 years ago to the saw mill at Thief River Falls. Two residents of the city, Jim Mulhall and John Hoppe, worked in the Pine Island camp where this historic event got under way.

Grain Reseal Applications Now Available

Farmers Urged to Call at Pennington County ASC Office

Application forms for resealing 1957 crops of wheat, oats and barley and 1958 crops of wheat, oats, barley and rye are now available at the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office. Producers intending to reseal any of these commodities are invited to call at the county office and sign a reseal application at their very earliest convenience.

After the application is signed by the producer a CCC loan inspector will visit the farm on which the commodity is stored for the purpose of inspecting the storage structure and the commodity. If both structure and comodity meet the eligibility requirements the loan inspector will sign the reseal forms and return them to the county office where final approval will be made by the county committee and a copy of the reseal form will then be mailed to the producer.

Commodity Credit Corporation will pay the producer 16 cents per bushel for storing wheat, barley and rye, and 12 cents a bushel for storing oats on the farm for another year. Storage earnings on wheat begin on June 1, 1959, and on oats, barley an drye on July 1, 1959.

In the event that the producer redeems all or part of the commodity under reseal the storage payment will be prorated on a daily basis. This means that in case the market advances for his own use he will be compensated for the actual number of days the commodity was stored on the farm, even though the commodity was not stored for the full reseal period.

Pennington county producers are again warned that March 20, 1959, is the final date for producers to report federal cost-shares for carrying out conservation practices on their farm under the 1959 Agricultural Conservation program (ACP).

An estimated 600 patrons and members and their families attended the annual meeting of the Consumers Cooperative association in the municipal Auditorium Saturday afternoon.

In the annual election, Ole Skaar was renamed on the board of directors and Silas Hanson was elected to succeed August N. K. Anderson, who has served on the board since the cooperative was organized.

Guest speakers at the meeting were Milton D. Zeddies, representing Midland Co-op of St. Paul, and Andrew Strandquist of Warren, Midland director in District 5. Lloyd Iverson, field man, read the annual financial report, revealing that the past year's volume of business reached an all-time high mark.

Lunch was served to the huge gathering by the St. John's ladies aid.

Stores to Close Again 12 to 3 for Good Friday Rites

Local business places, after all, will remain closed Good Friday, March 27, from 12 noon until 3 p.m. in order not to interfere with afternoon church services on Good Friday, it was announced today by the merchants committee of the Chamber of Commerce. The committee had previously recommended that stores depart from their custom of many years and remain open on Good Friday this year, but the action was rescinded late last week at a meeting of the committee with members of the Thief River Falls Ministerial association.

Gully Man Victim of Highway Crash

Harry Melbo Dies Friday In Collision Near St. Cloud

Harry Melbo, 62, Gully, was killed and five other persons injured, one critically, in a head-on collision Friday night on U.S. Hwy. 10 three miles southeast of St. Cloud.

Melbo's death raised Minnesota's traffic toll to 102, 16 ahead of a year ago.

Melbo was alone in one car. Carol Eveland, 29, 3721 S. [illegible]th ave., Minneapolis, driver of the other car, was reported in critical condition in a St. Cloud hospital, the highway patrol reported. Her four passengers were hospitalized also, but reported in good condition.

The Pennington county Historical society officially opened the memorial room located on the first floor of the Pennington county court house for the reception of historical mementos and displays Friday evening, March 6, when a group of "ex-lumberjacks" and members of the society met, at the court house to witness the unveiling and dedication of a four-foot by eight-foot oil painting—the work and gift of Anton Hall of this city.

The painting presented will be hung in the memorial room to recall the important part which lumbering played in the life of this community when, actually only 50 years ago, its chief industry was the sawmill operated by the Thief River Falls Lumber company under the management of D. N. Winton, its president.

In making the presentation, Mr. Hall spoke briefly on lumbering as it existed 50 or more years ago, a subject on which he is well qualified, for he followed lumber and logging operations for 23 years, in almost every phase from that of an axe-wielding lumberjack to that of superintendent of the firm, after coming directly to Thief River Falls from Norway at the age of 21 on April 30, 1902.

He particularly stressed how fortunate this city was in having the operation of the saw mill in the hands of one of the caliber of D. N. Winton whom he referred to as "not only a very successful operator of his firm, but also a person interested in the community who was esteemed and respected by all of his employees and associates."

He described the intense competitive spirit which permeated the business even to the lumberjacks who took great pride both in the quantity and quality of their work, each wanting to outdo the other.

The painting depicts a logging camp owned by the Winton interests at Pine Island, Minn., 15

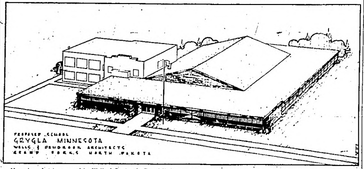
Grygla Voting Today on Bonds to Finance Addition to School



Above is a sketch prepared by Wells & Denbrook, Grand Forks architects, showing the proposed addition to the Grygla school building. The addition, estimated by the architects to cost $223,000 with equipment, would provide six classrooms, one music room-classroom and a gymnasium seating 500 persons. Voters of the Grygla school district are voting today, Monday, on a proposal to authorize the issuance of up to $100,000 bonds to aid in financing the project.

Legislature Still Making Slow Headway

Amendment to Lower Voting Age to 18 Killed Last Week

As far as observers could see, there was noticeable speeding up of the tempo in the state legislature in St. Paul last week as the session moved closer to its windup.

The week closed with Gov. Freeman signing the repeal of Minnesota presidential law, with the comment that it had been an expensive experiment and did not reflect the views of the party people.

A half-million dollar proposal for college scholarships was voted down in the house education committee. It caused Chairman Dewey Reed to explain that the action may be a forewarning of what may happen to similar fund demands, such as those for expanding the junior college system.

The proposed reapportionment constitutional amendment ran into trouble in the elections committee of the senate, which would rather see senators elected on the basis of area rather than population, as the proposal would fix it.

The house approved and sent to the senate a bill creating a department of correction by merging the youth conservation committee, the board of probation and parole and the division of correction.

Johnson, who was in the infantry for five years, entered service as a private and was separated as a captain. He is superintendent of the city water department.

Triplets Born to TRF Couple Sunday in Local Hospital

Claude Merideths Are Parents; First Triplets Born Here in Many Years

Two boys and a girl, the first triplets to be born in Thief River Falls in more than 12 years, were born to Mr. and Mrs. Claude Merideth, 608 St. Paul ave. S. Sunday afternoon at Northwestern hospital.

The multiple birth which happens only once in 10,000 times, puts the Merideth children in an elite group. According to the U.S. Health department figures for 1956, the last year for which statistics are available, there were 4,163,000 total live births in the United States. Of these, only 399 triplet births were recorded.

According to hospital records, the first boy was born at 3:53 p.m. and weighed 4 pounds, 13¼ ounces. The second baby, also a boy, was born at 4:16 p.m. and weighed four pounds. The girl, weighing 4 pounds, four ounces, was born at 4:55 p.m.

Merideth is an instructor and vocational guidance counselor at the Goodridge school. The couple has two other children; Kevin John, 3, and Nancy Ann, 4. The family lives in a two-bedroom home on St. Paul ave. S. and according to Mrs. Merideth's sister who is caring for the two children, space will be at a premium in the home with the addition of the triplets.

Jaycees Honor Stan Pladson and Orin Green

Awards Conferred at Boss-Employe Banquet Thursday

Stan Pladson, manager of the Gamble store, was named "Boss of the Year" and Orin J. Green of the Green Funeral Home was named the "Outstanding Young Man" at the annual Jaycee Boss-Employee banquet at the American Legion club Thursday evening.

In the presentation speech, Mayor O. D. Belch cited Pladson as a "good, active member of the community, a good Chamber of Commerce member and as a man who has held leading offices in several service organizations."

"Stan has realized the importance of the Jaycees in Thief River Falls and has allowed his employee (Jaycee president Glenn Peterson) to be active in the Jaycees," Belch continued. "His employe has been a typical good and hardworking Jaycee, an asset to the community and one who has demonstrated leadership ability."

Green's award was made by Ormand Johnson, distinguished service award winner for the previous year. Johnson described the winner of the 1958 award as "the president of the ninth district Funeral Directors' association, second vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce, board of trustees member of the Methodist church, chairman of the Community Chest board, a member of the Methodist church choir, the American Legion, Methodist Men's club, Lions club, golf club and the Masons."

The main speaker for the evening was Daryle Feldmeir, managing editor of the Minneapolis Tribune. He spoke of his experiences on a recent trip around the world and contrasted some of the conditions he found in Asia with those readers of his newspaper concerned themselves in their daily lives.

Feldmeir made some predictions of the outcome of several matters now before the legislature. Reapportionment, he said, will go to the voters in 1960; the governor's budget will not be cut but action on it will be delayed until a special session is convened; there will be no daylight savings time for the state this year; party designation is a dead issue but he would not predict the fate of the junior college question.

Patricia Berg Weds Hjalmer Hanson Feb. 28

Miss Patricia Ann Berg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Berg of Middle River, became the bride of Hjalmer Matthew Hanson, son of Mrs. Oscar Johnson of St. Paul Saturday, Feb. 28.

The double ring ceremony took place in Our Saviour's Lutheran church at Thief Lake, near Middle River. Rev. Emil G. Bagley officiated, with Miss Judy Stardig of Middle River at the organ. Soloist was Mrs. Henry Wettestad of Middle River who sang "I Love You Truly," "O Promise Me" and "The Lord's Prayer," as the couple knelt at the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor length gown of white satin and lace designed and made by the bride and her mother. The fitted bodice featured a boat neckline and lace sleeves that tapered to a point over the hand. The full skirt of lace panels over net and satin was accented in the back by a satin bow over a tuff. Her fingertip veil fell from a crown of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Her pearl earrings were a gift of the groom.

Miss Judy Berg, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing a waltz length gown of pink net over taffeta. Miss Marilyn Nelson, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. She wore a gown similar to that of the maid of honor. Both carried pink roses and pink and white carnations.

Little Cheryl Haugen and Pamela Curtiss, friends of the bride, served as flower girls, wearing identical floor length gowns of pink net over taffeta and carrying baskets of rose petals.

Attending the bridegroom as best man was Maurice Roppe of Minneapolis, a friend, while Gene Berg served as groomsman. Bobby Cwikla of Middle River was ring bearer, wearing a light blue jacket and navy blue trousers and carrying the rings on a pillow of satin and lace. Ushers were Douglas Berg, brother of the bride ad Gordon Bring, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Berg chose a gray dress with winter white accessories, while Mrs. Johnson wore a navy blue dress with rhinestone trim and matching accessories. Their corsages were of pink and white carnations. Mrs. Nels Nelson, grandmother of the bride, was presented with a corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the parish hall for approximately 125 guests. A four-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, centered the bridal table. Mrs. Douglas Berg baked and decorated the cake and Mrs. Hjalmer Nelson and Mrs. William Olson of Alvarado, aunts of the bride, cut and served it. Mrs. Art Berg, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. John Dahl poured. Waitresses were Arlene Berg and Anita Aase. Margaret Ann Hanson, sister of the bridegroom, was at the guest book, while Mrs. Vernon Skoglund, Mrs. Douglas Berg and Mrs. Ervin Peterson arranged the gifts.

Relatives and friends from Alvarado, Stephen, Grand Forks, Baudette, Bemidji, Roseau, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Kennedy, Newfolden and Plummer attended the wedding.

Beauty Tips from ME to YOU

By JO ANNE WEDUL

Here are some more "hair do's" and "hair don'ts."

Too-small chin—do wear hair with a soft curl or fullness above the ears but show at least the tip of your ears to lengthen the line between the ear and the chin. Don't shorten the face by wearing your hair flat on top nor let it fall heavily on the neck.

High, round forehead—do use a soft bang to hide where the hairline begins. Don't wear your hair flat or away from the face.

Short neck — do wear your hair short and cut close to the nape of your neck as possible. Don't wear hair down, avoid a chignon or curls at the back.

Long neck—do keep hair medium in length so as to have some fullness around the face and neck. Don't wear hair long and upswept nor cut it close to the head.

Are you bored with your looks? How about a trip to JO ANNE'S BEAUTY SHOP, 107 EAST THIRD STREET, for a new styling for your hair? You might be good at cutting your finger nails but it takes someone who knows how to style to give you the real lift of a completely new hair do. Drop in and arrange for an appointment or call us at MU 1-4405.

Anton Hall Gives History Society Valued Painting

miles northeast of Upper Red Lake. It is an enlargement, to scale, of a photograph taken by L. H. Halvorson of Black Duck, Minn., on March 4, 1909, just 50 years ago, when under the supervision of J. A. Ervine, a contractor for the Thief River Falls Lumber company, a world's record was set for the largest load of logs hauled by a six-horse team.

This load, with an estimated weight of 250 ton and containing 52,000 board feet of lumber, was hauled the 15 miles to the banks of Red lake where it was unloaded, rafted across the lake to the Red Lake river and then down the river to the sawmill at Thief River Falls. The picture, therefore, belongs in the memorial room of the historical society. The men to whom credit is due for the work in preparing and transporting this load were:

J. A. Ervine, contractor; Phil McManamin, foreman; Charles Harmon and Tom Morgan, loaders; E. H. Moore, scaler; and James Grotty, teamster. Jim Mulhall and John Hoppe, who worked in the Pine Island camp, now live in Thief River Falls. The society would like to hear from other lumberjacks who may be living in this vicinity.

Mr. Hall's skill at painting, like that of Grandma Moses, is accomplishment after retirement and may well earn for him the title of 'Grandpa Hall' of Thief River Falls. Besides the painting donated to the society, Mr. Hall has made several smaller scenes, one of the first church in Pennington county — and now is planning a companion painting depicting the sawmill as it existed in this city. Mr. Hall retired from Western Oil and Fuel at the age of 78 and painted the picture at age 79.

The evening was spent in telling lumberjack tales as tall as the pines, but when William LaFave recounted his experiences as a teamster and barn boss, many in the audience thought he must have fallen on his head while carrying in wood for his mother's kitchen stove. He seemed too young and too small to be a pal of Paul Bunyan.

Judge Herman Kjos is president of the historical society. It is the plan of the museum committee, headed by Judge Lundgren, to portray by exhibits of this community the following five periods of its history: Early explorers, Indians, lumbering, early settlers and modern development.

Choir to Rehearse on Wednesday for Lenten Oratorio

Group Asks Voluntary Contributions to Aid in Meeting Expenses

The Thief River Falls city choir now rehearsing for the annual Lenten oratorio, "The Seven Last Words," under the direction of Bryant Ulseth, will again meet on Wednesday evening of this week. The production is scheduled for the evening of Monday, March 23.

During a short business meeting of the choir officers, it was noted that the amount of the free will offering from last year's production fell short of the total expense and the deficit was offset by contributions from a group of choir members.

The officers, in seeking a solution to this problem, thought it unfair to assess choir members who give so freely of their time and talent. It was suggested that since the practice of soliciting the city's business places for financial support has been overdone and has caused considerable irritation, perhaps civic-minded individuals interested in the continuation of this annual presentation would offer their support through voluntary contributions. There will be no solicitation. Volunteer contributions may be mailed or called in to choir president Howard Hoel or vice president Reuben Lockrem.

While choir attendance now numbers around seventy, it was hoped membership would reach one hundred, Ulseth stated, adding that it is not too late for newcomers, and anyone interested in taking part may report to the Lincoln high school music room Wednesday evening, March 11, at 9 P. M.

Progress Slow in Current Session of Legislature

Killed again was the proposed constitutional amendment to lower the voting age to 18 years.

The House education committee Friday refused to recommend passage, by a vote of 21-3, for a bill appropriating a half million dollars for scholarships to students to attend public and private colleges.

The measure is still before the committee, since no motion was made to recommend indefinite postponement but the overwhelming vote against approval indicated the proposal will never get out of committee.

Propose Creation of Huge Lake in Central Marshall Co. District

Warren city council took action Tuesday night in a move which gave city approval to the proposed Interbeach lake in the Wright and Foldahl township area in central Marshall county. The council passed a resolution asking for the establishment of a watershed district for the area. Marshall county board of commissioners also discussed the proposal Tuesday afternoon but requested educational sessions throughout the county before taking action says the Warren Sheaf.

Various aspects of the proposal were discussed Wednesday evening at a meeting of the Argyle Lions club held at the Argyle Legion club rooms. Present to discuss the proposal were Adolph F. Meyer, consulting hydraulic engineer from Minneapolis, and Herb Halvorson, area conservationist from Thief River Falls.

"Industrial, agricultural and municipal development in the Red River Valley will be throttled by an inadequate supply of water until a large district is formed to conserve and utilize spring and summer flood and fresh flows in the few available streams," was the main idea stressed by Mr. Meyer. "The Middle River alsone has an average yield of over 15,000 acre feet each year. Most of this can be conserved.

"There is no underground water supply of sufficient magnitude in this area to do more than afford temporary relief because the natural recharge through rainfall infiltration is too slow and too small. Sooner or later there must be artificial recharge of groundwater reservoirs.

"Water mines are just as truly exhaustible as mineral mines. No bank account lasts very long unless deposits are made to replenish it. The same is true of water stored in the ground. In the long run the water supply is determined by the recharge."

The best opportunity for storing spring and summer flood and freshet flows in the area east of the Red River is in and between the sand and gravel beaches of ancient Lake Agassiz, the engineer stated. Flood waters of the Tamarac, Middle and Snake rivers often intermingle on their way to a common outlet in the Red River of the North.

"I strongly recommend that no separate Tamarac River district be organized but that steps be taken immediately to organize on the broader basis which I have indicated," Mr. Meyer added. "There appears to be nothing in the Watershed Act to prevent the formation of a district including the Tamarac, Middle and Snake river basins."

The engineer went on to state that the interbeach lake would be formed by raising the existing secondary highway on the west beach in the Middle River area an average of about 3 feet and then closing the ends with low dams. This would provide a reservoir which would hold at least 15,000 more feet of water. The lake formed would be about ½ to 3/4 mile wide and about 9 miles long and would flood mostly marsh area.

Water from the south portion of the lake would be released southward to the Snake river for the city of Warren and surrounding area. From the middle of the lake water would be released into the Middle river for the use of Argyle and its area while water from the north bay would be released into the Tamarac river for use by Stephen and that area.

"The westerly beach would absorb considerable water," Mr. Meyer observed. "Underground water storage is the most economical because there is no evaporation. With the foot of the westerly beach at elevation 1000 at a distance of about half a mile from the water's edge, considerable seepage is expected. This seepage will be collected in ditches built to drain the several streams. In that way the seepage will help to maintain flow in the streams in addition to that which will be discharged as surface flow from the Interbeach lake."

The lake would be suitable for wildlife since the area bordering it would be marshy. If a sugar beet plant should be located in this area, it would require water in the fall and early winter. Such use of water would not interfere with the maintenance of high levels in the lake during the summer months.

"I consider the project desirable and economical," the engineer concluded. "Low lands, which ultimately would be required for water storage, should be acquired as soon as possible before money is spent for drainage or other improvements."

When asked whether the lake would affect drainage from the east, Mr. Meyer stated that the elevation of the lake surface is low enough so as to not impair drainage from the eastern portion of the county. The lake would be an effective stop-gap for preventing spring flooding in that freshet water would be caught and released through the summer months.

C. Einar Johnson of Warren, who is president of Western Beet Growers association and has expressed interest in the project, stated Wednesday that he "could see great possibilities for this area." He mentioned that Valley beet growers had not received increased sugar beet acreage since a 30 per cent increase had been made in beet production on existing acreage.

Herb Halvorson, area conservationist, voiced approval of the plan. He stated that if the project was initiated as a flood control project that federal funds could be used for construction. The government would pay for engineering and construction costs with the exception of land easements, bridges and culverts. The federal agencies would also share the cost of laterals but individual farms would have to carry out projects on their land at their own expense.

CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Pursuant to adjournment the Council of the City of Thief River Falls, Minnesota, convened in session in the Council Chambers in the Auditorium and Municipal Building on February 23, 1959, at eight o'clock P.M. Aldermen Lee, Honebrink, Sandvig, Carlson and Rau were present. Alderman Benson was absent.

The matter of proposed erection of the Airport Building was taken up for consideration, with representatives of the School District, and other interested persons present. It was explained that the cost of the building would be $29,897.11; Maturing a bond issue of this amount over a period of 15 years at an interest rate of 4% would require $247.00 per month of revenue. Dr. Starkow of the School Board stated that the Board would be willing to enter into a lease for a term of 15 years under the rental figure presented. Robert Ward, City Attorney, suggested to the Council that they secure the services of a bonding Attorney to prepare special legislation in the case and promote the passage of the same at this session of the Legislature. Alderman Lee moved that the City Attorney be authorized to make such contact with a Bond Attorney for the purpose stated. Alderman Sandvig seconded such motion. Aldermen Lee, Honebrink, Sandvig, Carlson voted in favor of such motion. Alderman Rau abstained. The motion was declared carried.

Representatives of the Townships of Smiley, Silverton, Norden, Excel were again present with reference to a possible agreement with the City for the furnishing of Fire Protection by the City's Department. Representatives of Adger Township were also present but stated that an agreement with their Township would not be feasible due to distance from the City. It was stated by the Council that they would participate in the matter of agreement under the proper authority by the Townships providing the required tax levy; details of which would be undertaken at a later date.

Morris Owen, Chief Engineer of Power Plant advised the Council that the General Electric Turbine Generator has burned out, which would entail an expenditure of approximately $[illegible] for rewinding. Alderman Rau moved that bids be called for such repair to be considered on March 17, 1959 at eight o'clock P.M. Alderman Lee seconded such motion which was duly adopted.

A petition was presented, signed by various residents of the Third Ward, recommending the selection of Ralph Hunt as Alderman of that Ward, replacing S. G. Sandvig, resigned, and the same was read and filed.

Alderman Rau introduced a resolution approving for payment various current bills against the City and moved adoption, being seconded by Honebrink. All members voted in favor thereof and the resolution was declared passed and adopted.

The meeting was then declared adjourned.

BOB CARLSON,
President of the Council.

8th Region Basketball Tourney Opens Tues.

The defending champion Bemidji Lumberjacks of district 29 vs. the Newfolden Nordics of district 32, with tipoff time at 7:00 p.m.; and the Ada Vikings of district 30 vs. the Crookston Pirates of district 31, at 8:30 p.m., are the pairings for the Region Eight high school basketball tournament that will open play on the UND fieldhouse court in Grand Forks on Tuesday night, March 10. The consolation game will be played on Wednesday night at 7:00 p.m., with the regional championship tilt slated for 8:30 p.m.

Coach Clarence (Bun) Fortier's Bemidji club won the 29th district title by defeating Park Rapids, 63 to 56, in a finals game played at Bemidji on Friday night; the Ada Vikings, by a 62 to 42 score, defeated Twin Valley for the district 30 championship in the finals of the tourney played at Fosston; the Crookston Pirates trounced the East Grand Forks Green Wave, 66 to 37, to retain the district 31 championship; and coach Jack Junker's Newfolden Nordics defeated the Lancaster Cardinals, 70 to 56, in the finals of the district 32 tournament played at Roseau.

The Bemidji Lumberjacks, who have won the Region Eight title for the past six years, and eighteen times since the state was reorganized on a regional basis in 1925, will be slight favorites in the tournament that opens on Tuesday night. Last year Bemidji defeated the Fertile Falcons, 79 to 61, in the regional finals.

Prowlers Win 14, Lose 5 in Season

Phil Hanson Leads Local Scorers with 327 Points

Coach Alan Adams' basketball Prowlers, during the 1958-59 season, compiled a record of fourteen wins and five losses, and during the nineteen games on the schedule and through tournament play, the locals amassed a total of 1063 points. This mark is considerably below the record established by the 1956-57 Prowlers, when a total of 1293 points were chalked up.

Phil Hanson won the individual scoring honors, racking up 123 field goals and 81 free throws for a 327-point production. In his three years as a member of the Prowler varsity squad, Phil has accumulated a total of 743 points, getting 117 points in his sophomore year, 290 points as a junior, and 327 points this season.

Mickey Hanson gained runner-up, scoring 237 points on 104 field goals and 29 free throws.

Thieves Six Defeats Roseau Sunday 9 to 8

Trailing by a 9 to 5 score with less than two minutes of play remaining, the senior hockey Thieves erupted for three quick goals to come within a goal of tying their Northwest hockey league playoff game against the Roseau Cloverleafs here Sunday afternoon. The Leafs won the game by a 9 to 8 score, and will carry a one-goal margin as the two teams meet on the Roseau ice on Friday night in the second game of the two-game-total-goals series.

The Thieves, on Gordy Bjerken's tally at the 3:50 mark of the first period, gained an early lead; but a pair of goals by Arlie Olson, and singletons by Ken Wellen and Dick Johnson gave the Leafs a 4 to 1 lead. Jim Reese, who tallied four goals for the Thieves during the game, notched his first goal at the 16:31 mark, to pare the Roseau lead to 4 to 2 at the end of the first stanza.

The Leafs outpointed the Thieves, 3 goals to 2 goals, in the second period, to take a 7 to 4 lead. Reese and Mike McMahon racked up the two goals for the locals.

After Reese had notched his "hat trick" goal at the 10:37 mark of the third period, Roseau banged in two goals to take a commanding lead. At the 18:38 mark, Art Cloutier nudged in a goal, and four seconds later Reese whipped in a shot, and at the 19:31 mark, Monty Markstrom closed out the game's scoring with a tally.

Starkey Sending out Rate Notices Monday, March 16

Notices of 1959 contribution (tax) rates on Minnesota wages will be mailed to employers March 16, it was announced today by Frank T. Starkey, commissioner, Minnesota department of employment security. Starkey pointed out that employers desiring to make voluntary contribution have 30 days, or until midnight April 15 to do so. Under the Minnesota employment security law contribution rates become final 30 days after mailing of the rate notices.

Ordinarily mailed January 31, the notices were delayed this year because of the possibility of legislative action to revise the tax structure.

"It is now apparent," Starkey said, "that any legislation action taken during the current session will not be in time to effect the experience rating of employers for 1959. Experience rates now be assigned will be in effect for the entire year."

The Old Refrain

Another Region Eight basketball tournament is about to be played, and the old refrain, "Beat Bemidji," again fills the air. And it is going to take some doing. Our hopes, as the regional gets under way on Tuesday night is that either the Newfolden Nordics, in a first round game, or the Crookston Pirates or Ada Vikings on Wednesday night, succeed in defeating the Bemidji Lumberjacks. The Lumberjacks have won the regional title for the past six years, and they will undoubtedly make a stubborn try at making it a seventh straight.

This was to have been the year when the rest of the teams in Region Eight, the top-flight teams, that is, were to have held an advantage of the Jacks. By their own admission, Bemidji was to experience a season of trial and tribulation and defeat as they engaged in a rebuilding process.

But coach Bun Fortier's squad has compiled a season's record of 16 wins and five losses. And this record is deceiving, for four of these losses occurred in December, with the Jacks losing four of the first five games they played on the schedule, being beaten by International Falls, Park Rapids, Minnetonka and Crookston. Since that time, Bemidji has dropped but one game, that a 75 to 71 loss to the Willmar Cardinals at Willmar.

The big problem in defensing the Lumberjacks is to be able to contain their high-scoring guards—Bob Glas and Jim Vickery. Against the Prowlers, in a pair of games, Glas turned in a couple of 26-point performances and Vickery, who is very agile, came up with a 21-point game against the locals in the game played at Bemidji. While Bemidji's scoring punch appears to be centered on the guards, forwards Gary Strowbridge and Larry Higgins can be relied upon for points. Center Larry McDowell, a sophomore, is a powerful rebounder, and he may develop into a scorer.

It's a Fact

We spent some time in the Clerk of Court's office last week doing research to disprove or confirm the rumor that the Roseau Rams' all-state hockey tournament Stordahl brothers were born here. And it's a fact, for the records reveal that James Clayton Stordahl was born here in August, 1941, and Larry DelRay Stordahl was born here in October, 1942.

If Jim and Larry had been available to the Prowler hockey squad during their high school careers (Jim graduates this spring, but Larry has another year of high school eligibility) it's probable that coach Johnny Matcheft's blue-and-gold team would have won a regional title or two, and perhaps a state championship. But what was Thief River Falls' loss, when the Clayton Stordahl family moved to Roseau, proved to be the Rams' gain.

One of these years, though, the hockey Prowlers will have a Stordahl in the lineup. We're referring to young Bobby Stordahl, the captain and center-ice player of the Knox Tigers. Bobby, who is the son of the Art Stordahls, and a cousin of Jim and Larry, will be a great one.

Hockey Finale

Hockey in northern Minnesota will probably be wrapped up for the 1958-59 season with a couple of games being billed for the Roseau Memorial arena for Wednesday and Friday night. The Thieves will meet the Roseau Cloverleafs in the second game of the two-game total-goal Northwest hockey league playoffs, first round, on the Roseau ice sheet on Friday night.

On Wednesday night, with face-off time at 8:30 p.m., the powerful Warroad Lakers, champions of the Minnesota-Ontario league, will meet the Winnipeg Maroons in an exhibition game on the Roseau ice.

The senior hockey Winnipeg Maroons, coached by Bill Robinson, are currently engaged in a best-of-five series with the Port Arthur Bear Cats in the Allan Cup playdowns. In the first game of the series, the Maroons beat the Bear Cats, 3 to 2. In the Winnipeg lineup will be such front line players as Fred Dunsmore, Ed Jamieson, Lou Joyal, Jim McKenzie, Tom Marshall, and others, with the blue-line contingent containing such stars as Gordie Simpson, Sheldon Bloomer and Bobby Gray. Sugar Jim Henry, the former New York Ranger goalie, is on the Maroon roster, but Henry will probably be in the nets for the Lakers, with whom he has played all season. Gord Dibley will be the Winnipeg netminder in that case.

The Lakers will ice their regular lineup, having such Canadians as Gord Pennell, Ray Monson, Murray Balagus, Chuck Lumsden and Sambo Fedoruk in action along with their hometown talent of Roger and Gordy Christian, Dick Roberts and the others.

The District's Best

After a study of our notes, a look at the scorebook, and a weighing of the pros and cons of the arguments and discussions we heard in the locker room, it's our opinion that the following five boys deserved consideration as the district's best basketball players: forwards, Phil Hanson of the Prowlers and Bill Harvey of East Grand Forks; center, Gerry Dohm of Crookston Central; and guards, Bill Taylor and Rog McWaters of Crookston Central.

Of these five, the Prowlers' Phil Hanson and the Pirates' Bill Taylor were the tournament's outstanding performers. Not only were these two boys threats on offense, but they were also exceptional on defense, being adept at clearing the defensive board. Taylor, in particular, was defensive genius, and his backcourt work was the factor that "killed" the Fisher Flyers in the Pirates' semi-finals game.

Cites Effect of Home Sale on Income Tax

(This is the sixth in a series of articles on income tax. These articles are made available as a public service by the Minnesota State Bar Association, public relations committee.)

If you sold your residence in 1958, you probably made a profit in doing so. And you are probably now interested in retaining as much of that profit as possible and not paying it out in income taxes. Ordinarily, you may avoid paying any tax on the gain, if you purchase another residence for more than the sale price of the old residence.

Non-recognition of Gain

To qualify for this non-recognition of gain you must purchase the new residence within one year before or after the date you sold the old residence. You must also occupy the new residence as your principal residence within one year after the sale. An exception to the one year rule exists where you have started construction on a new residence within one year of the sale of the old. In such case you have until 18 months after the sale to occupy the new house and the cost of the new house for non-recognition of gain purposes will include all capital expenditures made within one year prior and 18 months subsequent to the sale.

If the cost of your new house is less than the adjusted sales price of your old home, you will be taxed on the difference between these amounts or your gain, whichever is less.

Computation of Gain

Your gain is the difference between the adjusted sales price and your original cost plus the cost of permanent improvements. The adjusted sales price is the gross selling price less commissions, selling expenses and fixing up expenses incurred to assist in selling the home. However, the fixing up or redecorating must have been done within 90 days before the contract to sell was entered into.

Reporting Sale of Residence

Whether or not you replace your residence you are required to file with your return for the year of sale the details of the sale and purchase of new residence, if any, including in such report the date of purchase, purchase price and date of occupancy. If gain is to be recognized it must be shown on Schedule D of your return.

The amount of any gain not recognized must be deducted from the adjusted basis of your new residence. Thus the effect of this non-recognition provision may be merely to postpone the taxation of gain until a later time. Of course, if the new residence is sold in a later year and another residence is then purchased, these same provisions may again act to postpone the tax. And if the new residence is never sold, the gain will never be taxed. It should be remembered, however, that you may not take advantage of these non-recognition rules upon a second sale within one year of the sale of your first residence.

Headache Is Most Common Ailment

Called Leading Cause of Absenteeism from Work

According to the Minnesota State Medical association, the headache is the most common illness which afflicts mankind. It is the most common complaint heard by physicians. Patients seeking relief from headaches spend millions of dollars more in excess of what is spent for medication for any other type of ailment. Statistics indicate that the headache is the leading cause of absenteeism from office and industry.

Most common are the generalized headaches. Sinusitis, eye strain and neuralgia are the most common causes for frontal headaches. Migraine and ear disorders rank as prime causes of side headaches. Tension headaches suffered most commonly by persons under pressure, are the result of muscle spasms in the neck area.

Temporary relief from headaches may be provided by aspirin and other pain reducing remedies. However, the Association warns that they will not cure the underlying cause.

TRF Man Is Going 'Back to School' at North Central

R. Thompson, Electronics Mechanic, Preparing to Service Convair Planes

A Thief River Falls man is one of more than 150 North Central Airlines mechanical line maintenance men—each with an average of 15 years of aircraft maintenance experience—going back to school.

He is Robert Thompson, electronics maintenance mechanic, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson, Thief River Falls.

To familiarize maintenance people with the airline's five newly-purchased Convair 340 aircraft, North Central has set up a series of two-week training classes at its general offices in Minneapolis/St. Paul.

All North Central line maintenance personnel will have completed the course by April 26, the date Convairs will go into service on about 18 per cent of North Central's nine-state system.

Convair mechanical maintenance training is covered in three phases, incorporating lectures, movies and slides. A general familiarization with the 44-passenger, radar-equipped airliner is followed by an extensive study of each of the Convair's systems: pressurization and air conditioning, fuel, fire detection and fire extinguishing, hydraulic, de-ce and anti-ice, electrical, flight controls and power plant.

Seeing The Other Side

LEOPOLDVILLE, SUNDAY NIGHT, MARCH 1

It was 3:00 o'clock Saturday morning, when I bedded down here in Leopoldville after a couple of days of travelling from New York. It had been 25 hours in the air, with stops at Lisbon, Portugal, and Accra, the capital of Ghana. A long and refreshing sleep, followed by a long and refreshing bath, in that order, put me in good form for my first exposure to Africa Saturday noon.

Saturday afternoon passed quickly in an across-the-river visit to Brazzaville, the capital of what was French Equatorial Africa. Today we motored out about 90 miles for dinner at a village tavern, with visits to points of interest coming and going. The village was an old Portugese settlement. The tavern, where the food was excellent, was operated by a Swiss couple.

I have had an interesting and informative introduction to the problems of Africa. My seatmate from Lisbon to Accra was a representative of Israel at the ambassador level. The nine hours of flight over the Sahara Desert passed swiftly.

Today's tour of the countryside, which could have been a run-of-the-mill visit to castles and cathedrals, was brightened by the presence of a Belgian official with a long record of service as a Belgian colonial officer. As commissioner of the Ruanda-Urandi district, he is now in Leopoldville to receive training in radio programming, to take charge of a new service being established to counteract the revolutionary propaganda being broadcast out of Cairo.

These men had been close to the present disturbing problems in an official capacity. Their views about the general prospect were discouragingly similar in several respects. I know that their views will be reflected in my own conclusions.

After being here two days, I can say with assurance that the Whites in Africa, a small minority, are disturbed about the prospect. They know that a revolution is in the making. There is nothing to indicate that a continent-wide revolt is being organized according to plan. There is plenty of evidence to indicate that groundswell of bitterness may explode at any time.

Both Ambassador Ehud Auriel of Israel and Dejonche Renaat of the Belgian colonial service were sure serious trouble is brewing. Neither had ideas as when or how the explosion would occur.

They seemed to agree that there is less anti-White sentiment in the areas colonized by the French, who, they agreed are the best colonizers. In material things they probably have done least for the natives, but they have fraternized more. French is the common language of millions of natives, including those of the Belgian Congo, and the French national anthem is a popular marching song. Large numbers of the natives regard themselves as French.

The Belgians probably have contributed most to the welfare of the natives in material things, but their government has been stern as well as efficient. Only recently have the residents of Belgian Congo, Whites as well as Blacks, been given a voice in their own local government. They have been ruled from the top down and from the European capital. As severe taskmasters they have been respected but not loved.

Britain, foreseeing trouble, has taken steps to "liquidate" the Empire and build in its place the British Commonwealth. They are credited with having made most progress in preparing the natives for the responsibilities of self-government. Membership in the British Commonwealth has appealing advantages and recognizes the complete freedom of its member nations. It is a dignified retreat from colonialism. But there is revolution in the making in several British colonies where freedom is not yet assured.

Ambassador Auriel of Israel spoke highly of the contribution that has been and is being made by Christian missionaries. He was impressed by the manner in which the various Christian groups, Catholics and Protestants, were working together in the mission field. He was satisfied that this good work would do much to soften the bitterness of most of the older natives toward the Whites. But revolution is the business of youth, and youth is often inconsiderate.

Our journey into the "bush" today brought us to an old mission conducted by the Jesuits, providing educational and hospital facilities, as well as Christianity to the people of a large area. An exciting soccer game provided interesting diversion for us as we awaited the arrival of one of the Fathers to open the beautiful mission church for our inspection. The aged Padre regretted that it had become necessary to close the church between services. Recently, he said, the interior walls had been defaced on several occasions by inflammatory statements.

He expressed surprise that our group of three men and two women had ventured out of the city on this day. He said trouble had been expected. The weekend holiday, combined with the end-of-the month pay day, meant more drinking than usual. Large numbers of young merrymakers were on the move. A slight "incident" could lead to serious trouble.

This kindly priest was seriously concerned about the outlook.

Strandquist Red Cross Drive

The residents of the village of Strandquist will be called upon for donations during the 1959 annual fund raising campaign of the American Red Cross which is now in progress The local solicitors are Ingvald Rokke and Adolph Anderson.

The quota for the Marshall County Chapter is $4,76400 for this year It retains 51 percent of the amount raised. Strandquist's quota is $45.00.

The Marshall County Chapter plans a water safety and training program again in 1959, as was conducted last year. The cost of this alone was $1,151.78. Many of our youngsters participated in this valuable training and recreation. The other Red Cross services such as disaster aid, home services, and home nursing programs are all very commendable and deserve your support. Let's put Strandquist over the top! PEEKIN' into the PAST

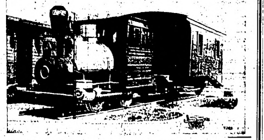
RAIL TRANSPORTATION — 1870



In 1869, about 100 years after Watt invented the steam engine, the first railroad traversed our country under steam power

The old wood burning locomotive photographed above, caled a "Porter," was used on some railroads in the 1870's and 1880's because wood was available for fuel where coal could not be obtained. The water supply tank surrounds the boiler, directly over the small drive wheels to give extra traction on hills. The smokestack was flared to give extra protection as a spark arrestor to prevent forest and prairie fires.

Anna Looks Back

Anna woud be an abbreviation for the first name of the young Leopoldville lady in the picture above. The last name, I think was Seko. That's what it sounded like. The first name was much longer than Anna, but Anna will do.

She was on the Captains bridge when we crossed the Congo on our return to Leopoldville. But somehow Anna gave me the impression that her heart was still on the north side of the river. She was a charming young lady, I thought.

The Captains concern was getting the boat back to Leo and that he did. He was the skipper and had a job to do. He told me his name and it sounded like Orvis. So for the record, let's say that captain, Orvis brought us safely back to port again.

Martial Law in Brazzaville

The battle of Brazzaville was not a Negro uprising against the Whites. It was an outbreak of tribal warfare and, while limited to a small area, it was a tough fight while it lasted. An unofficial report says 150 were killed and 250 wounded. Government troops restored order and moved the casualties of both tribes to the same hospital for necessary medical attention.

The above picture is a Brazzaville street scene under martial law. Guards were stationed at key points and cars were checked for weapons and identification passengers. I was glad to know that Norwegians were not suspects. The oil station in the background is coincidental but it adds support to the fact that Africans are going modern.

Home of Leader of Free France

Brazzzaville, the Capitol of French Equitorial Africa, was also President DeGaule's headquarters during the war years when he was the leader of the Free French. Pictured above is the home that was given to DeGaule by the citizens of Brazzaville at that time and which still is preserved and protected in a spirit of respect that borders on devotion.

It cost me only ten francs to induce the guard and his corporal to lend color to this scene. They are fine looking soldiers and Buck Olson will agree that they look like athletes.

STRANDQUIST

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Johnson and Charmaine visited his aunt, Gina Twedt at the rest home in Middle River Sunday evening.

Mrs. Art Anderson and Agnes Kittleson have assisted her with the work this past week. REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

Next week the state high school basketball tournament will take place. For many schools and for more students this event is a notable occasion. It gives us a chance to express our appreciation of the ability of our young people in athletic competition. And we look forward to seeing an example of both good sportsmanship and good conduct.

Law Enforcement

It is no reflection of the general standards of conduct of young people today to note that whenever thousands of them go away from home to assemble for special events and celebration a problem arises with regard to those few among them who may disregard the law. To keep such problems at a minimum, arrangements have been made between the Minneapolis police department and the state liquor control commissioner to make sure of strict enforcement of the liquor laws. State officers will cooperate with the Minneapolis department to check carefully all the hotels in which students attending the tournament will stay.

Good Experience

A similar cooperative enforcement program was carried out last year, and reports indicated that violations of law were thereby reduced in comparison with previous years. For this year's tournament the Minneapolis Hotel association has prepared posters informing students that the state department and the Minneapolis police department morals squad will be checking for law violations. These posters will be sent to each high school in the state.

Home Town Cooperation

Of basic importance to a good conduct record is the cooperation of home and school authorities. The State High School League, through its board of control, has distributed information to every superintendent and high school principal in the state who intends to send students to the tournament.

Knowledge of the Law

Certainly every student who attends the tournament, as well as his parents, ought to know the restrictions placed on minors by the laws of our state. It is illegal for any minor to consume intoxicating liquor or non-intoxicating malt liquor; and it is also illegal for him to have any such beverages in his possession. Nor are minors permitted to be on any premises where intoxicating liquor or non-intoxicating malt liquor is sold.

A Gala Occasion

We look forward to the basketball tournament on March 19 through 21 at a gala occasion, characterized by fun, enthusiasm and excitement for youth and adults like. State and local officials will do all they can to insure that the enjoyment is not marred by conduct unworthy of our young people. I am sure that parents and school officials will do likewise.

Strandqui[illegible] OK's Bond [illegible] Rebuild Sc[illegible]ol

Voters Supported $30,000 Bond Issue by 258 to 15 Margin

By a vote of 258 to 15, voters of the Strandquist school district yesterday approved a bond issue of $30,000 to be used with other available funds for the construction of a school building estimated to cost $180,000.

Sale of the bonds, which will bring the total indebtedness of the district to its maximum was necessary to supplement $155,000 in insurance which partially covered the loss of the school building in a fire Jan. 31.

Pupils of the school in the community of 225 have been attending classes in temporary quarters since the fire. Grade school classes are being conducted in the school gymnasium completed two years ago and high school classes meet in several buildings loaned to the district by churches, private owners and the community itself.

The proposed new school which was approved by the voters will be attached to the south side of the gymnasium. Of one-story construction, the U-shaped building will be 196 feet by 114 feet in size and will have five elementary classrooms, science, business education and home economics rooms, a library, industrial arts shop, kitchen, lunch quarters and five other rooms for other functions.

Construction of the building is expected to get under way in the near future to provide facilities for the students at the beginning of the 1959-60 school year.

Lincoln Senior to Compete in State Jaycees Contest

Esther Jenson Winner of First Place in Regional 'My True Security' Event

Winner of the local and regional My True Security contest sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Esther Jenson, Lincoln high school senior, will compete for state-wide honors in a contest at Richfield, Minn., next Wednesday, March 18.

For winning the local contest, Miss Jenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Jenson, was presented with a $25 savings bond. Five-dollar gift certificates were given by the Jaycees to the other local winners, including Carmen Peterson, second; Chad Jewett, third; and Mary Demetrellou, fourth.

Arrangements for the contest here were handled by Miss Thora Skomedal, Lincoln high school English instructor, in cooperation with the Junior Chamber.

My True Security is a script-writing and delivery contest which encourages high school seniors to study the importance of initiative and self-reliance in providing a secure future for the individual.

The state winner will receive a trophy and an all-expense trip to Washington, D.C., where a national winner and two runners-up will be chosen in July.

Senate Group Approves Fast Time Measure

Committee Changes Mind; Bill Will Be Debated Next Week

Two big issues—daylight saving and unemployment compensation—were tossed to the state Senate for debate by committees Wednesday in St. Paul.

The Senate general legislation committee, which last week approved a bill to ban daylight saving, Wednesday turned around and voted 11-7 for a bill for statewide daylight saving between Memorial Day and Labor Day.

After the vote on the statewide bill, Sen. J. R. Keller of Winona, chairman of the committee, informed members he had already sent the first bill to the Senate. This means that both bills will be up for debate probably some day next week.

Because it was approved by the committee first, the bill to ban daylight saving will be considered first. If it loses, a vote will be taken on statewide daylight saving.

Also sent to the floor by the committee was a bill to put the daylight saving question to a vote of the people at the 1960 general election.

Approved by the Senate Labor committee was an unemployment compensation bill raising both benefits and employer contributions, and tightening eligibility rules.

The measure would raise the maximum benefit from $38 to $40 a week and require employers to increase their contributions to the unemployment fund by about 6½ million dollars a year.

The bill was attacked by representatives of labor as unfair. They said it would deny bene-

C. Merideth Triplets Get Much Attention at Hospital in City

For the past three days, the focal point of interest at Northwestern hospital has been two plastic-enclosed basinettes containing three babies born Sunday afternoon.

The three children are Paul Henry, Charles Robert and Beverly Susan Merideth, triplets born to Mr. and Mrs. Claude Merideth, 608 St. Paul ave. S., last Sunday afternoon.

Unofficially, the three are the first living trio to be born in Pennington county in about 30 years. A triplet birth occurs only once in about 10,000 times in the United States and only 399 cases were reported in the United States in 1956, the last year official U.S. Health department figures are available.

Merideth, an instructor and vocational guidance counselor in the Goodridge school, and his wife had two children until Sunday; Kevin John, 3, and Nancy Ann, 4. When the three latest additions to the family are brought home in about three weeks, the little two-bedroom home will be bursting at the seams.

"We'll have to find a place with more room now," Mrs. Merideth said Tuesday afternoon. "Even the living room is small and we are going to be crowded until we can make other arrangements."

Multiple births on Mrs. Merideth's side of the family are unknown but her husband's aunt had twins, Mrs. Merideth said.

Festival of Nations Will Be Presented by Girl Scouts Saturday

Girls Scouts, parents and friends are invited to attend the "Festival of Nations" Saturday, March 14, in the city Auditorium starting at one o'clock.

Costumes, flags, posters and beautiful objects from the various countries of the world will make the trip worthwhile. War brides and world travelers were generous in loaning their treasures for display. Scouts have been busy learning folk dances and songs characteristic of the country of their choice. Visitors may be greeted in Norwegian, French or perhaps Greek, depending on the booth they are visiting.

From 2 to 3 o'clock the stage show will be presented with a Scout movie adding to the program. There will be no charge for admission. Lunches will be sold by the Senior Troops.

John Deere Day Draws Big Crowd Here Wednesday

Parking space was at a premium Wednesday morning and afternoon in Thief River Falls when 1,400 farmers and their families came to the city to attend John Deere day.

The event was sponsored by the Amundgaard-Lunke company, which reported 1400 guests registered at the Falls theatre, where a program was presented, and at the store where lunch was served.

The program at the theatre included a Gordon family film, one on oddities in farming, dancers and singers and acts from vaudeville and TV.

New Church to Hold 1st Rites Palm Sunday

Mission Covenant Edifice on E. Third st. Nearly Finished

Rev. Elder Langager, pastor of the Mission Covenant church, announces that Sunday, March 15, will be the last Sunday worship in the present location. Besides the regular Sunday services, a Swedish service will be held at 3 p.m. with Rev. John Anderson of the Covenant church in Crookston as the main speaker. Other speakers will bring greetings and brief remarks. Special vocal numbers will also be in the Swedish language.

The evening service March 15 will be a joint service with the Church of the Nazarene of this city, Rev. Don Runyon, pastor. The Nazarene congregation has recenty purchased the Covenant church edifice on First and Markley. The chairman of the Covenant church, Donald Thyren, will present the keys of the church to the Nazarene church during the service.

The first worship services to be held in the new Mission Covenant church will be held on Palm Sunday, March 22. The cornerstone-laying of the church and the dedication of the new parsonage will be held Easter Sunday afternoon, March 29. The dedication of the church will be April 26. The public is invited to attend all services.

For over a half a century, gospel services have been conducted in the Mission Covenant church, on First and Markley in Thief River Falls. The congregation has had plans for building a new sanctuary for many years. However, the vision became a reality when a plot of land was purchased on East 3rd street in the Brairud Second Addition nearly two years ago. Ground breaking services took place last August, and since then a new edifice and parsonage has been erected.

TRF Boy Involved in N. D. Burglary

Action, if any, to be taken against a local boy, accused with four others in three burglaries of a Larimore, N. D., store last week has not been announced, according to authorities here.

The local boy, who was staying with relatives in Larimore, was apprehended here by Sheriff Charles R. Richards and returned to Grand Forks by Grand Forks county Sheriff Art Rike March 5.

The other four boys involved in the burglary were arrested in Larimore. Rike said they and the local youth broke into the Marshall-Wells Hardware in Larimore on three straight nights, taking about $60 in cash, a BB-gun and several boxes of 22 caliber cartridges.

Disposition of the case will be made in juvenile court in Grand Forks, authorities said.

Grygla Voters OK School Bond Issue Monday 362 to 70

Authorize Issuance of up to $100,000 in Bonds to Help Finance Addition

Residents of the Grygla school district voted Monday by a five to one margin in support of a proposal to issue not more than $100,000 in bonds to help finance the construction of a large addition to the Grygla school. The vote was 362 in favor and 70 against.

Mrs. Clara Boyum, principal, stated that it is hoped to start construction of the addition, providing six classrooms and a gymnasium, by June 1. It will first be necessary to move off the site three rural school buildings which have been used temporarily. These probably will be sold, it was indicated.

The 70 pupils in the district now attending school in a building three miles west of Fourtown, will be transferred to Grygla when the new addition is completed, raising the enrollment there to more than 230.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bothum of Karlstad visited Friday evening at the Frank Blazek home.

A permit was also given to each child which will entitle him to a free examination by one of the local optometrists in May or June. This permit must be presented to the optometrist at the time of examination.

Pink dental cards were issued to the children also. It is suggested that the child's teeth be examined by a dentist during the summer months. After examination, the dentist will sign the card and this should be brought to school when the child enters next fall.

Five Townships Vote in Favor of Fire Engine Deal

Endorse Plan to Join with Thief River Falls in Buying Fire Engine

Voters of five townships approved participation of their areas with Thief River Falls in purchasing a fire truck in March 10 balloting, unofficial returns indicated Wednesday morning.

Residents of Smiley, Silverton, Norden and Excel townships approved the expenditure of about $3,000 each and Agder township voters approved a levy on a mill basis which will raise about $1,200.

The city council on Feb. 23 assured representatives of the townships that the city would take part in the purchase of a fire truck, estimated to cost $18,000. The truck would be based in the city and would be manned by personnel from the city.

The city would contribute the balance needed for the truck's purchase less the amount that would be provided by trading in its 24-year-old truck. The truck would be partially equipped with equipment from the old truck.

At the March meeting of the Thief River Falls board of education Monday evening, final adjustments were made on the salary scale for the school faculty for the coming year, the total cost of the increases being estimated by Supt. Irwin Mickelson at approximately $30,850.

The pay boosts range from $175 per year in the case of teachers with three years training up to a maximum raise of $500 for teachers with extended experience, and with four and five years training.

Salaries for teachers with three years training will start at $3,625, advancing to $4,875 in the eleventh year. For teachers with four years training, the range will be from $4,050 to $6,050, and for those with five years training, from $4,250 to $6,250.

School administrators were granted salary increases ranging from $200 to $700 a year.

The resignation of two teachers and an administrator in the Thief River Falls schools were accepted by the board at its meeting Monday, and four contracts were signed with new faculty members.

The resignations were those of Kermit L. Eastman, director of elementary education; Carl Emmerich, art instructor at Lincoln high school; and Robert Lyon, Lincoln high school librarian.

Future plans of Emmerich and Lyon are not known, but Eastman will go to St. Cloud as director of that city's seven elementary schools. The move represents a substantial promotion.

Rotary Hears Outline of Plans for Junior College in This City

A junior college in Thief River Falls would have an enrollment of 200 students at the end of the second year of its operation and a total enrollment of 300 or 350 after it had been in operation for a few years, Dr. Milton Starekow, president of the board of the Thief River Falls school district told members of the Rotary club Monday at their regular luncheon meeting.

Dr. Starekow and Donald L. Olson, two of the most active members of the community in promoting a junior college here, emphasized that the college and the area vocational school would supplement each other. "The more education your children get, the further they will go in the world," Dr. Starekow said. "Every extra day they attend school, the better off they are."

A junior college here would offer two years of education above the high school level, according to Starekow, and the liberal arts courses would be of such caliber that credits earned here could be transferred in full to other colleges. In addition, terminal courses would be offered to train students for occupations in this area. Adult education courses would also be available.

Calling the junior colleges of the state in past years "stepchildren," Starekow said they had previously been set up by the communities at their own cost with no coordination and no state aid.

In 30 states, the junior colleges have been found to be the answer in higher education," the speaker said, and continued, "Here in the western part of the state, we have always been orphans in the matter of providing higher education for our young people."

Both Starekow and Olson emphasized that in the event the state legislature authorizes the establishment of a junior college in the city, such a facility could be built only if approved by two-thirds of the voters of the area.

Passage of the junior college bills by the legislature would mean that the $6 million would help 15 to 18 areas in contrast to the few areas which would be benefited for one biennium by the $3¼ million asked for the expansion of the University branch system, according to Starekow.

The widely-circulated preference list which puts a junior college in Thief River Falls in the twenty-second position in the ability to support a college and in the community's need for such a facility is completely unofficial, Olson and Starekow emphasized.

The junior college presentation was concluded with a request that interested parties contact their legislators at once. Final hearings on the junior college matter will will come up Monday.

In other business of the Rotary club, plans were discussed for the Rotary Ann banquet which will be early in April and the Rotary conference, which Supt. Irwin T. Mickelson and Milton Schlechter will attend in Fargo April 10-11, was also discussed.

Adult Delinquency

Until a few years ago, we never heard of "juvenile delinquency" which has become such a national problem and which is the subject of too many news stories.

Youngsters have always played pranks, involving themselves and others in minor (and some major) "scrapes' and, in general, displayed the normal reactions attendant to growing up.

I am not condoning the growth of these actions through the years which has resulted in a crime wave of major proportions. Rather, I am questioning the reasons for it.

After looking at the news for the past week, I wonder if it isn't time for the elders to take a closer look at themselves to see if they might be the cause of the action of these youngsters. Delinquency, either juvenile or adult, is caused by a disrespect for law, honesty and decency. If we ourselves have no respect for the things which we have until recently believed to be right and just, how in the world can we expect anyone else to have any?

The tendency to "see how far we can go without getting caught" seems to be growing by leaps and bounds. People who were, at one time, ruled individually by the ideas of right and wrong now actually applaud others who have been able to break or bend a law and "get by with it," then go out and try it themselves.

Officers, for some reason, never arrest any lawbreakers any more — they persecute those who are "just doing what others have been doing all along." Tickets issued for overtime parking, driving through stop signs or reckless driving are taken by their recipients as infringements on individual "rights" and the hero of the mob is the driver who can collect enough points for lawbreaking to have his driver's license revoked.

These same "heroes' go home, rationalize their actions to their families and cause a growing disrespect for laws which have been set up for the general welfare of the community, state and nation. How in the name of common sense can we expect a child from that home to have anything other than disrespect for the very rules which have caused this nation to grow and prosper in an atmosphere of peace and justice?

This aura of lawbreaking, minor as it may seem to the elders, will have a profound influence on the younger people; of this there can be little doubt. Couple this with what they read every day of the actions of nationally prominent people. Can there be any question of where the younger generation is getting its ideas of how much they "can get by with?"

This whole attitude of "do whatever you want, get as close to the borderline of the law as you can and squeal if you get caught" permeates every level of our society. Within the past few weeks, we have been treated to the news that the lawmakers themselves have again been revealed as filling their overgenerous payrolls with their relatives, renting out their porches as offices, then turning around and boosting their individual expense accounts by $14,000. This, they blandly tell us, has been done for a long time and is not against the law. No matter how you look at it, it is against the laws of honesty if not the written laws. It is not difficult to understand how these "servants of the people" are able to put away large sums of our money for the day when the voters get tired of their t-bone appetites on our hamburger incomes.

And, while we are bemoaning the younger generation's wayward habits, let us not forget that a small group of people of this generation, living in the never-never land of Hollywood, have done more toward tearing down the permanence of the institution of marriage than anyone else. Changing partners frequently and rapidly, even doing their "courting" before they have dropped their last husband or wife, the tawdry shortcomings of these "stars," so idolized by youngsters, are paraded before the public in stories planted by their press agents in newspapers, radio, magazines and TV. Is it any wonder that young people have warped ideas on what to expect from marriage and adult life?

The list of our own shortcomings stretches on and on. In private and public life, the older generation is leaving its offspring an inheritance which will result in nothing but even greater trouble than we see today.

Before we condemn the youngsters too quickly, perhaps it would be better if we first did a little straightening-out of our own. If "like father (or mother), like son (or daughter)" is a true adage, let us all start praying for a miracle to happen. We'll need at least one.

Public Opinion

Editor The Times:

On the first special meeting of the city council Feb. 9th, the city council admitted we did not need a storm sewer. On the Feb. 16th special meeting, they claimed we had to put in a storm sewer before we could black-top the streets. I tried to get the floor and tell them what I knew about black-topping without a storm sewer.

I spent four winters in Phoenix, Arizona, about a 3½-day drive. We took five weeks going and coming and spent an average of two weeks in each state, 15 states. As a member of the F.T.D., we always found some members of the F.T.D. who would spend several days taking us around the city to show us the business and residential sections. As you know, most of those cities are on light soil, the same as we have here on the hill. We saw black-top streets and miles of the the black-top running to the boulevards. When it rained the water would run down to the side of the black top and there it would go right down.

There were no curbing, or gutters. I saw in a few places a sump about 3 to 4 feet long set down in the ground with a storm sewer cover on it, and that would take care of the water. This would be on some unused intersections.

In short, we can black-top our streets north of Sixth street without a curbing or gutter. Probably on the whole territory, we would need 3 or 4 sumps. If those people down in the low land think there is any water coming from up on the hill, we could put in some sumps north of Sixth street that would take care of them.

I give warning to you people north of Sixth street to Eleventh street: Wake up! If you don't, in about three years from now, you will be walking out of your homes. These $14 they are now asking for is just a beginning. Next would be $266 a lot for a storm sewer and thousands of dollars for black-top, curbing and gutter, which is absolutely unnecessary.

So, I say, on March 17th at 8 p.m., meet up at the council chambers and tell them you will not pay them a penny because it is of no benefit to you. If you stay home, don't go hollering around town afterwards when it is too late.

Martin Bothun.

Editor the Times:

San Antonio, Texas

I love those dear hearts and gentle people who live and love in my home town.

It's almost four months since I left T.R.F. and am now at my son Major Maurice's home at Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, Texas. I have visited 6 of my children's homes, Audrey (Mrs. Don Corcoran) at Long Prairie, my next stop was at Margaret's home (Mrs. J. C. Hayes at St. Paul. Then I took a plane for Washington, D. C. where Frances (Mrs. Wm. McDonald) lives.

I believe the most enchanting places in our country are in the East and South. In Washington you can spend days and weeks visiting historical places and most of these give you a great thrill.

I have visited Mount Vernon, Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, Lincoln Memorial Bldg., the Washington Monument, the White House, National Capitol, the Supreme Court in session, both houses of Congress in session, the Smithsonian Institute and several others.

Called at Odin Langen's office to get my card for entrance to the House Chamber and here I met a fine looking young man from T.R.F., Gene Bratch who is on Rep. Langen's office staff. This young man is really a credit to Thief River Falls.

The McDonalds and I went for a drive thru the Blue Ridge Mts. of Va. These mts. are only 4000 ft. high with peaks up to 6000 ft. The beautiful Shenandoha Valley lies 2000 ft. below the Skyline drive.

Then Bill and I drove up to Baltimore a distance of 40 miles to see the horse races at the famous Pimlico race track. They really pack them in there, 14,000 people and most of them betting on the races. Bill and I placed small bets, but like most of them hit the wrong hoss.

On a Sunday Frances and Bill took me to Norfolk, 200 miles from D.C. where my boy Larry lives. He owns a modest $13,000 home, new and I shouldn't mention this for fear it will start some grumbling but he pays $135 per yr. taxes and they just put in curb and a new black top street and that will cost him $126 for an 80 ft. front.

Larry is moving back to Minnesota. He is taking over management of a drug store up on the Iron Range.

Friday this week my boy Harold is driving down from Dallas and the three of us are driving to Corpus Christi to fish in the big pond known as the Gulf of Mexico. Have a lot more to tell about but afraid they would clip the whole thing.

Will be home in three weeks so be on your good behavior.

Lars Hylden

Development Assn. Advised of College Plans Here Monday

Sentiment of Majority of 40 Persons Present Favored Jr. College Here

With no quorum of the board of directors present at the Monday evening meeting of the Northwest Development association in the city Auditorium, official action could not be taken to prepare a general resolution endorsing higher education in this section of the state.

A meeting has been scheduled for next Monday evening at the same location beginning at 8 o'clock to prepare the resolution and board members will be contacted.

The ten-county association meeting Monday night was attended by 40 representatives from Lancaster, Roseau, Red Lake Falls, Crookston, Viking, Goodridge, Fosston, Oklee, and Thief River Falls.

In general, the sentiment was overwhelming in favor of the establishment of a junior college in Thief River Falls and the retention of the agriculture college at Crookston. The merits of a junior college were discussed and backed by a majority of the representatives but A. O. Myrold, Crookston mayor, spoke in favor of the establishment of a branch of the University in his city.

According to Myrold, the agriculture college at Crookston is no longer needed and should be replaced by the University branch offering training in the liberal arts and for those who wish to take pre-professional work.

Bemidji, Crookston Win Region 1st Round

The Bemidji Lumberjacks of District 29 and the Crookston Pirates of District 31 won their first round games in the Region Eight basketball tournament staged on the UND fieldhouse court in Grand Forks on Monday night. Bemidji, the defending regional champions, utilized their strong rebounding, with Larry McDowell and Gary Strowbridge being effective on the defensive and offensive boards, and sharper basket-shooting to defeat coach Jack Junker's Newfolden Nordics, the champions of District 32, 67 to 55. Crookston, rallying for twenty-five points in the fourth period, overcame the Ada Vikings of District 30 to defeat coach Doug Johnson's club, 59 to 49.

Bemidji, with Strowbridge and Larry Higgins leading the scoring, pulled away to a 25 to 16 lead over the Newfolden Nordics in the first period: and added to their margin in the second period to hold a 40 to 26 advantage at the halftime.

The Lumberjacks outpointed the Nordics, 12 to 10, in the third period; but in the final stanza, the Newfolden team, with their fine junior forward, Don Engelstad, scoring eleven points, held a distinct edge over the Jacks, outscoring Bemidji, 19 to 15. Engelstad scored twenty points during the game to take high point honors, while Higgins, with 18, and Strowbridge, with 17, were the high-point men for coach Bill Fortier's club.

A thrilling fourth period rally provided coach Al Droen's Crookston Pirates with a 59 to 49 win over the Ada Vikings. The sturdy Ada team led throughout most of the game, holding period leads of 15 to 13, 32 to 25, and 37 to 34.

Moving into the final period, Crookston, on Bill Taylor's one-handed toss from the lane, knotted the game at 40-all with 5:50 to play. Rog McWaters's free throw gave the Pirates a 41 to 40 lead, with 5:15 to play; but the Vikings, on Gerry Nelson's jump shot, a pair of free throws by Dick Hennen, and a field goal by Merle Haas, gained a 46 to 41 lead with three minutes to play. Jerry Dahm flipped in a field goal, and McWaters, on a pivot shot, added two points, with 2:40 to play; and when Dean Lufkin dropped in a field goal, the Pirates took charge of the game. A flurry of Crookston baskets, with Dahm, DeBoer, McWaters and Taylor scoring, boosted Crookston into a 59 to 49 lead.

McWaters and Taylor, each with seventeen points, sparked the Pirates in their come-back triumph. Dick Hennen's 14-point effort was the only double-figure production for the losers.

Northrop Quintet Whips Knox 29-17

Indians Fail to Score in First Period of Game

The Northrop Indians, held scoreless the first period as the Knox Tigers took a 6 to 0 lead, bounced back in the second period, with Dennis Hanson scoring five field goals, to trail the Tigers by one point, 11 to 10 at the intermission. Hanson added five baskets in the second half as coach Phil Beadle's squad pulled away to a 29 to 17 win in a grade school league game played on the Knox floor Monday evening.

Knox PTA to Hear Greek Girl Monday

Mary Demetreliou to Talk at March Meeting

The Knox PTA unit will meet Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the school gymnasium.

Miss Mary Demetreliou, 18-year-old foreign exchange student from Greece, will speak about her home-land and the customs and educational system there. Miss Demetreliou is a senior at Lincoln high school and is making her home with the Dr. J. W. Ewing family while in this city. The high school sextet will also offer musical selections.

Hostesses will be the first grade mothers with Mrs. Ed Broughton as chairman. Other hostesses include Mesdames Joe Forberg, Sidney Johnson, Don Olson and Roy Holm.

Corporation Tax Due Next Monday

"Calendar year corporation Federal income tax returns are due to be filed on or before March 16," George O. Lethert, District Director of Internal Revenue, stated today. "Because the final filing day falls on a Sunday, the deadline for filing these returns is extended for one day to March 16." Inasmuch as individuals, partnerships and estates and trusts have until April 15, 1959 to file, there is some misunderstanding about the due date for filing federal corporation tax returns.

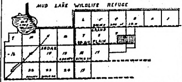
Washington PTA to Meet Monday

The Washington PTA unit will meet at the school gym Monday evening, March 16, at 8 o'clock. A speaker is being arranged for.

Entertainment will be in the form of several selections to be presented by a singing group from Lincoln high school.

At the close of the evening, lunch will be served and there will be a short social period.

New Hunting Grounds Proposed



This is the area proposed as the Elm Lake Refuge and Public Hunting Grounds in Marshall county. It comprises about 15,000 acres in Agdar and Grand Plain townships and borders the south edge of the Mud Lake National Wildlife Refuge. All of the area is tax forfeited land with the exception of 360 acres (marked x) which are privately owned. About one-third or less of the area would be set aside as a game refuge and the remainder would be open to public hunting, subject to normal state seasons.—Warren Sheaf cut.

Cage Tournaments in State Draw 430,000

By Art (Basketball) Johnson

Minnesota's annual high school basketball tournamenting —now in the regional stage— will wind up next week with a total attendance of about 430,000.

That's the outlook based on recent history. An estimated 280,000 fans watch the district eliminations, another 65,000 take in the region events and 85,000 attend the state tournament held each year at the University of Minnesota.

When this year's battling comes to an end on the final night of the March 19-20-21 state tourney, the new champion will have come a long, hard way. He will have emerged from a starting field of 486 teams comprising 10,000 boys playing 500 games.

Including the whole season's schedule, the 486 teams in their 32 districts play 9,500 games and score 750,000 points.

State titlist last year was Austin, which defeated Brainerd 68-63 in the finals of a tournament so closely played that just 29 points decided the winners in seven games—a spread of only four points per game.

The winner in 1957 was Minneapolis Roosevelt, which defeated Red Wing 59-51 to retain its crown of 1956, the year it set a national scoring record with a 101-54 victory in the finals. Earlier champions were Minneapolis Washburn in 1955, Brainerd in 1954 and Hopkins in 1953 and 1952.

In all, there have been five schools winning the title two years in a row—Moorhead, Buhl and Minneapolis Patrick Henry in addition to Hopkins and Minneapolis Roosevelt.

Highest scoring years of the state tournament were 1956 and 1957 when the 11-game cards resulted in total points of 1440 and 1441 — an average of 131 per game.

This year there no doubt will be at the least the usual number of surprises before the battling is over. Already—in the very first stages of the competition—such favorites as Hastings, Minnetonka and Brownton have been upset.

Local Girls Share in Concordia Play

Concordia College will present the first musical in Moorhead history March 19, 20 and 21, during "Greater Moorhead Days." "Showboat" has been selected as the first in what is expected to be a series of annual Broadway productions.

The Jerome Kern - Oscar Hammerstein II musical, based on the novel by Edna Ferber, will require a cast of 110 and a 35 piece orchestra.

Carol Bjorkman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Bjorkman, is in charge of announcements for "Showboat." Janet and Carol Torgerson, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Torgerson are both in the musical. Janet is an understudy for the lead role of Julie and Carol in charge of costuming.

The day's activities will be climaxed with a banquet at the Elks club rooms beginning at 6:30 p.m. Knights of Columbus members in the area, as well as their lady guests, are invited.

N. H. Kortuem will serve as toastmaster in charge of the banquet program, which will open with a prayer by the Rev. Paul Cardin, and a welcome by John McGinley, head of the local council. Guest speaker will be the Rev. Henry Rousseau of Argyle, state chaplain. M. R. Yutrzenka, district deputy, will speak also, while the closing prayer will be offered by the Rev. Keough Patnode.

CANDID COMMENT

by Mack Draper

Who, and what, is this group propagandizing our part of Minnesota under the high-sounding name "Citizens for Standard Time?"

Day after day, from station after radio station, our nerves are grated by the exhortation to write our state senators and representatives to protest turning the clock ahead to fast time for the summer.

Who are these people who stand to lose so much if the working people, who are bound to their work by the clock, are given an extra hour of daylight each evening in our short, precious summer months? What group has so much to gain by retaining standard time that they create the awful furor we must endure over the air waves?

Is it the farmer? I doubt it! While many farmers are opposed to daylight saving time for practical reasons of their own and are frank and honest about it, it actually is a convenience to them in some ways. The farmer, who works by the sun regardless of how we manipulate the clock, often cannot get into the fields until the dew has dried off. In any case he wants get to work as early as possible, yet very often has an errand in town before going into the field.

In this case DST would be a great convenience to him because the stores would be open an hour earlier, thus helping him get an earlier start in the field after completing his errand in town. The main inconvenience to the farm families of our area would be on the one evening each week that they must buy their groceries and do other shopping. If we have DST they would have to quit work an hour earlier on that one day each week. They certainly would not quibble over that one hour one day a week!

Of course the farmhand might want to get off an hour earlier —but that is something the farmer and hand could work out between them, without making a public issue of it.

It is inconceivable to me that our good farm folks raised all this fuss over DST—they simply are more considerate of their fellow men than that!

They certainly wouldn't want to deprive the working man, with whom they are allied politically, of the enjoyment of that extra hour of our fine Minnesota summer sunshine, in which to do his gardening, mow his lawn and be with his family for healthful summertime recreation.

In fact, I just can't picture the kind of person who would raise such a big fuss over such a minor matter. He really must be "small potatoes," don't you think?

It really doesn't matter so much whether we have DST or Standard time up here—but to some folks that extra hour of sunshine gained under DST will be about all they'll have free, except Sundays, and that hour really is quite precious to them.

We hope all you folks will think carefully before you write St. Paul to state your preference on this time business. Let's go by the Golden Rule in this matter of DST vs. CST. You COULD do someone a grave injustice otherwise!

FARMING TODAY

by your County Agent
Paul Stelmaschuk

Keeping Records Is "Investment" for Dairy Herd

If you give all your dairy cows the same feed, you're wasting money.

Cows need to be fed according to production. And to do this, you need to keep milk records on the individual cows.

By taking feed away from poor cows and giving it to the good ones, you can increase income from the feed.

Remember that every cow has an inherited ability to produce. If you feed a poor cow beyond her ability, she will waste feed. If you underfeed a particularly good cow, she's not making use of her ability.

The feeds you put into the grain ration depend on the roughage and the cow's production. Holsteins, for example, can produce around 25 pounds of milk on good roughage alone, but need grain to produce at a higher rate.

This means that costs will vary from cow to cow, because part of the feed goes for body maintenance. This portion gives you no return; it simply keeps the cow alive and healthy. It's what you feed her above this amount that produces milk and income.

The dairymen say that low-producing, poorly-fed cows may use three-fourths of their feed for body maintenance. A high-producing cow, on the other hand, may use only a fourth of her food for her own body. So it's obvious that high production per cow is necessary to make the most from the feed the cows get.

How can you find the good and the poor cows? One of the easiest and best ways is to weigh each cow's milk one day each month. Then you have the information to feed according to need.

The county agent's office has the Milk Record and Culling Guide and information on other DHIA record systems.

Laying Hens can be Confined to Small Area

Laying hens don't need as much floor space as was once thought.

One square foot of floor space is enough—if there is plenty of feeder and water space and good ventilation.

Until recent years, the common recommendation was two square feet per hen.

While confining birds to one square foot each may slightly lower egg production per hen, you'll make more total profit from the house, since you can keep twice as many birds this way. But make sure you have at least three inches of feeder space and one inch of waterer space per bird. Also, the house needs a ventilation system that will move three cubic feet of air per minute per bird.

Confining birds to such a small area is as feasible with a conventional floor as it is with a slatted floor arrangement. If you keep the litter clean and have good ventilation, conventional floors will result in eggs as clean as will slats.

A slatted floor usually has laths one edge, an inch apart, supported by two-by-fours either 16 or 24 inches apart. There is no litter. Manure falls through the slats onto the floor and can be cleaned whenever necessary.

It has sometimes been thought that closely-confined birds on slats would produce better on slats than if kept on litter-covered floors. But there is evidence showing this isn't necessarily so.

In an Illinois study, birds housed at one square foot per hen on conventional floors laid 5.6 per cent more eggs than birds on slats. Also, there was 4.0 per cent greater mortality on slats than on floors.

For birds housed at two square feet per bird, there was .2 per cent difference in egg production in favor of the slats—too small a difference to be important. At 1½ square feet per hen, birds on conventional floors laid 5.6 per cent better than those on slats.

Averaging all of these trials showed that birds on conventional floors laid 4.3 per cent more and had 4 per cent less mortality than birds on slats.

Slatted floors do have some advantages. They can help keep the house more sanitary and eliminate need for litter. On the other hand, if the manure is not cleaned out often, there will continually be strong ammonia fumes given off from it. While this doesn't seem to bother the birds, it makes it difficult for a person to work in the house.

Seed Treatment Pays Off

For what little it costs, seed treatment is one of the best investments you can make before the coming crop season.

That's especially true with seed which is low in quality to begin with.

You can prevent trouble with seed rot and "damping off" fungi in a number of crops by treating the seed now or any time before planting. The treatment often costs only a few cents per acre.

For cereal grains, use one of the volatile mercury type compounds, and follow directions closely.

Soybeans and corn call for one of the organic chemicals, such as captan (Captan or Orthocide), dichlone (Phygon), chloranil (Spergon), or thiram (Arasan or Thiram).

The "hot water" treatment is the one to use on crops like cabbage, cauliflower, turnips, rutabagas, Brussel sprouts and broccoli. This treatment is for internal fungus and bacterial diseases. Hot water treated seed is available from some companies. You can also do the job yourself. There are directions for this procedure in the "Commercial Vegetable, Insect and Disease Control Guide," now available in the county extension office.

Vine crops like cucumbers should be soaked in mercuric chloride solution, then rinsed in water. See the above "Guide" for specific instructions.

Both the mercuric chloride solution soak and the hot water treatment should be followed by treatment with one of the organic fungicides, after the seed is dry.

Bemidji Wins Regional Title 7th Time in Row

Bob Glas escorted the Bemidji Lumberjacks to an unprecedented seventh straight Region Eight basketball championship Wednesday night when he scored a field goal to tie the game at 46-all with five seconds to play, and when fouled on the play, Glas calmly tossed a left-handed shot into the west basket for the point to give Bemidji a 47 to 46 win over the Crookston Pirates in a pressure-packed regional finals game at Grand Forks.

The Crookston Pirates held a 44 to 38 lead with four minutes of play remaining, but a pair of free throws by Glas, Jim Vickery's rebound shot, and a pair of free throws by Gary Strowbridge, knotted the game at 44-all with forty seconds to play. Jerry Dohm, on a one-and one, marked up a pair of free throws on Glas' foul, and the Pirates held a 46 to 44 lead with 0:33 to play.

Rog McWaters had an opportunity to add to the Pirate lead, but his free throw try rolled off the rim. The Jacks then rushed the ball down the floor, and Glas, from the left side of the basket, shoved in the tying points on a field goal, and when fouled by Ken DeBoer (DeBoer's fifth personal) Glas had his game-winning chance, and he tolled the ball into the net.

Crookston, taking the ball out, heaved the ball out-of-bounds the length of the court, and Bemidji was awarded the ball. The ball was tossed in to Strowbridge and before a held ball could be called, the five seconds had ticked off ending the exciting game.

The Pirates took charge of the opening period of play, rolling up a 6 to 0 lead on baskets by McWaters, Dohm, and Dean Lufkin, and held a 16 to 9 advantage at the end of the period.

The Bemidji Lumberjacks, showing exceptional poise, rallied to overcome that Pirate lead, and, on a ten-point splurge late in the second period, moved into a 24 to 23 lead at the intermission. Jim Vickery notched three Bemidji field goals in the period, getting a pair of "fast break" sleepers, driving in for layups.

The Bemidji lead was shortlived, for the Pirates, opening the third period, picked up six points on a pair of field goals by Rog McWaters and a field goal by Lufkin to regain the lead, and coach Al Droen's maintained their lead to the end of the third period, having a 36 to 32 advantage as the quarter ended.

In the action-packed final stanza, Dohm notched a free throw for the Pirates; Strowbridge hit on a Bemidji jumper for the right; and Larry McDowell scored from close in. McWaters, who played a strong game for the Pirates, hooked a shot into the east basket, but Vickery's field goal pared the Pirate lead to one point, 39 to 38. McWaters scored two fielders on drive-in shots, and when fouled on his second goal, he added the point, giving Crookston a 44 to 38 lead with 4:20 to play. Bemidji, scoring nine points, then came on to win, 47 to 46.

Takes Newfolden Quint Wednesday Night 54-46

The Ada Vikings won the Region Eight consolation honors on Wednesday night by defeating the Nordics, 51 to 46, in a preliminary game to the regional championship tilt.

Coach Doug Johnson's Ada club, with Merle Hasz, Jerry Nelson, and Craig Bowyer, on the boards, controlled the ball off the defensive and offensive backboards, and with Dave Lambert scoring 18 points, and Hasz adding 16 points, the Vikings held a point-advantage over the aggressive Nordics throughout the game.

For coach Jack Junker's Nordics, junior forward Don Engelsrud tallied 16 points, and their play-making guard, Dennis Bakke, marked up ten points. Wendell Hagenbeck racked up 12 points on long tosses from the "outside" of Ada's defense.

Divisional Hockey Champions Awarded Trophies

Ending the city recreational hockey program Saturday night, March 7, these captains and co-captains of the three teams winning divisional championships accepted trophies on behalf of their teams.

With Quentin Jones, left, grade school athletic director, and Carl Wennberg, right, recreational hockey director are, from left to right: Larry Olson and Bob Stordahl, co-captains of the Knox grade school team, winners of the grade school championship; Elroy Frolland and Tony, co-captans of the Blackhawks, Midget division champions and Bill Dicken, captain of the Jets, Little League champions.

The Little League and Midget trophies were donated by Bill LaFave and the grade school trophy by Bjorkman's Clothing company.

Roseau's Jubilee Year

As far as hockey is concerned, this season, the 1958-59 season, can surely be called Roseau's jubilee year. Not only did Oscar Almquist and his Roseau high school Rams make a successful defense of their state high school championship (and marking up an undefeated season in the process), but the V.F.W. Midgets won the state title in the tournament held in St. Paul; and just last Saturday, the Roseau PeeWees, by a 2 to 1 score, defeated the Eveleth PeeWees for the state PeeWee hockey championship.

With all these victories, and championships, it is probable that the Roseau arena will require an addition to their trohpy case.

There isn't much to wonder about as to the success of these various hockey teams at Roseau. The community is dedicated to the ice sport, and they make an all-out effort to provide facilities for the youths in Roseau and the surrounding area to develop their hockey potential. Roseau organizations have built, or assisted in the building, of hockey rinks at Salol, Wannaska, and Malung. And these rural communities are producing hockey players.

Well, the better the hockey becomes at Roseau, the better is will have to become here and at Warroad and at Baudette and at Hallock and other places in Region Eight. And that's all to the good.

Singles Bowling Tournament Windup

The Northern Chevy's singles tournament, which has been in progress on the Family Bowl lanes for the past couple of months, will be concluded on Sunday afternoon when, at 2:00 P.M., John (Snort) Langseth meets Gene Leslie, the conqueror of Wally DuChamp, in a three-game total-pins match. There is a possibility that Al Holzknecht will provide a prize money pool for a sweepstakes match, with all of the tournament's contestants participating, to be held on March 22. The winner to collect the loot.

What was by all odds the most interesting and exciting match of the tournament was held last Sunday, with Gene Leslie scoring a three-pin win over Wally DuChamp, 585 to 582. Gene rolled games of 217-193-175, while Wally carded games of 169-214-199. That 48-pin deficit that he picked up in the first game proved too much of a handicap for DuChamp, although Wally did make a remarkable recovery, and, but for a "blow" in the 5th frame of the final game, he may hve caught and passed Gene.

There's not much doubt that

Gene and Wally are a pair of first-flight competitors.

Added Information

Young Bobby Stordahl gave us some further enlightenment regarding his hockey-playing cousins, Jim and Larry Stordahl of Roseau. Bobby stated that while it was true enough that Jim and Larry were born here, and had their births registered at the court house, here, the boys never lived here in town. At that time, the Clayton Stordahl family lived in Gatzke. The famil moved from the Gatzke area to Roseau in 1945 or 1946, and Jim and Larry received their schooling, and hockey training, at Roseau.

It appears that our claim to Jim and Larry is pretty tenuous. And as if this information wasn't deflated enough, Bobby added that he, Bobby, was born in Roseau!

Manitoba Junior Hockey Playdowns

The Winnipeg Braves and the St. Boniface Canadiens are engaged in a best-of-seven series to determine the Manitoba junior hockey title, and the Braves hold a three games to zero lead over the Canadiens.

The St. Boniface team, winners of the Manitoba junior championship last season, are coached by Bill Juzda. And, of course, local hockey fans can recall the days when bashing Bill Juzda played defense for the senior hockey Thieves.

And playing as wing for the Braves is Pat Angers, the former North Dakota freshman star from Miami, Manitoba. Pat isn't a stranger in these parts for he played a game or two of baseball with the Thieves. He played third base, showing a good arm, fine speed, and proved to be quite a threat at the plate.

Auto Industry to Aid with Safety Program

Automobile and tire companies once again are helping states to "Join the Circle of Safety" by making available 21 men to serve as special field representatives of the Inter-Industry Highway Safety committee during the 1959 National Vehicle Safety Check program, Donovan E. Clough, St. Cloud, state program chairman, announced today.

Raymond R. Fisher, Minneapolis, was assigned to Minnesota, Clough said. Fisher is area replacement manager for Chrysler Motors Corp., one of the nine industrial firms which are making members of their own staffs available for a three-month period.

Fisher will work closely with the field representatives of the Minnesota Safety Council in setting up community sponsors for local safety check lanes in Minnesota cities. Similar programs were held in 35 Minnesota communities last year as part of the national program in which over three million vehicles were checked for safe driving condition in more than 2,000 communities.

Clough said he anticipated the 1959 program, to be conducted during May and June, will encourage an even greater number of communities to carry out the theme of the program—"Join the Circle of Safety . . . Check Your Car—Check Your Driving—Check Accidents."

Check lanes are set up on city streets or in convenient locations where motorists are offered free and voluntary safety-checks of the 10 major items on their cars which affect safe driving.

The National Vehicle Safety-Check for Communities is sponsored by the Inter-Industry Highway Safety committee and Look magazine, with the cooperation of the Association of State and Provincial Safety Coordinators. State headquarters have been established in the safety division of the Minnesota highway department in St. Paul.

Farm Fire Losses Increase in 1958

Minnesota Fire Losses Total $1,708,000 in 1958

Fires took a heavier toll of farm property during 1958, according to Glenn Prickett, extension farm safety specialist at the University of Minnesota.

Prickett bases that statement on the annual report from the state fire marshall's office. A total of $1,708,000 worth of buildings and other property on Minnesota farms went up in smoke during the year. This is compared to $1,604,000 in 1957.

Prickett says the 1958 losses represent 495 reported farm fires including 174 barns, 120 homes and 201 fires in other farm structures.

Chief causes of the fires were: defective and misused electrical equipment; defective, overheated and exploding heating units; trash and rubbish fires, sparks from chimneys, tractors or other fires; spontaneous combustion, careless smoking, defective chimneys and lightning.

Most of these fires could have been prevented by removing the causes, Prickett says.

He also gives some pointers on what to do when fire breaks out:

1. Remove everybody from the building.
2. Call the fire department and other help.
3. Fight the fire with a lawn hose, if operating, or other extinguisher.
4. Keep a ladder handy to help fight the fire and to aid rescue operations.

32-lb. Northern Pike 14 Years Old

How old are big northerns? Hartford Kittel, fisheries biologist at St. Paul, says that he has aged ten lunkers this last year ranging in weight from 15 to 32 pounds. The biggest one—the 32 pounder—was 14 years and this was the only one in the lot older than 11 years. From the scales, Kittel says, it is possible to calculate how big the fish was at each year of life. From this it appears that the big ones are rapidly growing fish from the start. Here is the average length in inches of these big ones by years from their first through eleventh birthday: 9.0, 13.2, 17.7, 21.1, 24.2, 26.8, 29.0, 31.1, 33.3, 35.1, and 37.7. The 32 pounder was 45 inches long at 14 years.

The orchestral accompaniment will be furnished by the college community orchestra, Howard Mickens, conductor.

Highway Workers to Receive Honors for Safe Driving

Detroit Lakes Record Leads Four Maintenance Districts for 5th Year

Minnesota highway department employes will be honored in coming safety meetings for safe driving records in 1958.

Four maintenance district headquarters and three construction districts will be recognized for accident-free driving during the calendar year.

Top performance was shown in the Marshall maintenance district. Its 80 employes completed the year without being involved in a single motor vehicle accident with a state unit.

The other maintenance districts which experienced no preventable vehicle accidents during the year are headquartered in Detroit Lakes, St. Cloud and Mankato. This is the fifth consecutive year that Detroit Lakes has been in the top position for the maintenance division. St. Cloud also tied for first in 1957.

In the construction districts, Bemidji, Detroit Lakes and Willmar attained first place honors for 1958, the second consecutive year for the first two.

Highway department maintenance and construction employes were charged with 40 motor vehicle accidents during 1958. This was at a rate of two accidents for each 100 employes. The two divisions have a total of 2,245 employes in 16 maintenance and nine construction districts in the state.

Statewide Conference to Hear Noted Speakers

James Fogarty, dean of the school of social work, Fordham University, will address the 9 a.m. March 17 session of the 66th annual Minnesota Welfare Conference on, "Alcoholism and Mental Health," it was announced today by Ove M. Wangensteen, president.

Dean Fogarty replaces Denis Patrick McGenty, who was to have been the St. Patrick's Day speaker on the same topic. Mr. McGenty died suddenly of a heart attack in New York on March 2.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy will open the conference at 8 p.m. Sunday, March 15, in the main ball room of Hotel St. Paul, with an address on, "The Public Official in a Problem World." The four-day conference, which is expected to attract 2,250 interested citizens and professional social workers, ends on Wednesday, March 18.

Besides Sen. McCarthy and Dean Fogarty, there will be featured speakers daily in both morning and afternoon sessions.

Commissioner Morris Hursh, Minnesota department of public welfare, will discuss, "Major Legislative Issues in Child Welfare."

Problems of the aging, how to decide on whom to discharge from state institutions, integration of the American Indian, rehabilitating the disabled homemaker, are among the variety of topics of interest to both lay and professional delegates.

Seeing The Other Side

LEOPOLDVILLE — MARCH 3

Tomorrow I leave for Stanleyville, a 7-day boat trip up the Congo. The last days of this trip may be pretty long, but there should be interesting intervals along the way. We will stop at several native villages and one fair-sized city. These settlements, I am sure, will be quite different than hustling, bustling, very much metropolitan Leopoldville.

From Stanleyville I will fly to Usumbura on March 12, and on to Nairobi, the capital of Kenya, March 14. The mail service may not be good during the coming week, but the long days on the boat may be useful in putting together a large volume of notes.

This noon I lunched with Leopoldville Rotarians. The club has a membership of about 65, but the attendance generally totals well over 100, many visiting members being present. In the larger cities, and especially at the crossroads of the more remote places, these meetings are truly international.

The meeting today was long and leisurely, starting with cocktails at noon and ending a little before 3:00 o'clock. There was much time for getting acquainted and it was a very sociable gathering.

Especially interesting to me were two Americans, one a consulting engineer out of the New York office of the General Electric Company. The other was the West African representative of the International Harvester Company, with headquarters at Dakar. They had answers for a lot of questions.

The General Electric company representative had just returned from an inspection of the lower Congo where the Belgian government has authorized a construction program that may develop eventually into one of the world's great power developments. From Leopoldville to the Atlantic Ocean, a distance of less than 300 miles, there is a drop of nearly 1,000 feet, and considering the volume of water that surges over the rapids in this short distance, the potential for power is tremendous.

What chance does any American company have of getting a slice of a job of this kind. The General Electric man was not hopeful. He was sure American companies could not compete with foreigners from a price standpoint. American companies are at too great a disadvantage in labor costs and in taxes he said. Another factor is the practice of foreign companies in submitting combination bids. Cartels of this kind not only are authorized, but sometimes are subsidized in order to provide work. In the electrical field, this man said, American industry has been priced out of the world market.

The International Harvester Company agent had much the same story to tell, but he explained how the industry was meeting foreign competition by building factories in foreign countries. His company was doing a good business in Africa with farm machinery manufactured in Europe. They were turning out a stripped-down product that now is obsolete in the States. The tractors didn't even have cigarette lighters, he said, and I thought there was a note of bitterness in this wise-crack. However, he was having a tough time meeting General Motors competition in trucks, but looked forward to better times when his company, too, would be manufacturing their trucks for the foreign market in Europe.

What about the native revolution in Africa, we asked him. He yawned.

The natives are taking over the government of the Continent, he said, but he could see no reason why that should be disturbing to him. He was sure there would still be a market for machinery and he hoped to get his share of the sales.

We told him of our Sunday journey and the pessimistic outlook of the Belgian official who predicted the Whites would be out of Africa in ten years. The machinery salesman's answer was that this is the typical attitude of many of the official representatives of European governments. He agreed that in ten years all of these European officials would be out of Africa, but he was sure he and many other "Whites" would still be there.

Based on his direct contact with natives of Africa over a period of many years, and his observation of what is happening in those countries where the natives are now free and self-governing, he was satisfied that the Negroes of Africa want and need the Whites and will welcome their assistance during the difficult years of the transition.

They are friendly people, and given fair treatment they will be easy to get along with, he said. Their biggest problem will be to adjust their differences among themselves.

Asked for an opinion as to their capacity for self-government, he summed it up something like this: The natives of Africa, basically, are about like the rest of us Whites, Yellows and Reds. In intelligence some of them can be rated at the level of beasts. Others measure up to the highest levels of intelligence and have been handicapped mainly by lack of opportunity.

For being just another Rotarian, I thought this machine salesman was unusually intelligent.

Your Office in Washington

by Congressman
ODIN LANGEN

It goes without saying that the main foreign policy concern on Capitol Hill at the moment is in the Berlin issue. Although Khrushchev's attitude up until this time has been very wishy-washy — one day insulting and firm, the next day deceivingly cordial and willing to negotiate —the fact remains that he has threatened to turn over the Berlin entrance routes to the East Germans.

It is more than conceivable that this could bring about some sort of showdown. Meanwhile, the United States and her allies continue to explore every possible means of averting this through peaceful and just negotiations. Our policy, on both sides of the aisle in Congress and in all the allied countries, is one of firmness. This is a necessity in dealing with a foe such as the Kremlin — a foe which is like wheat rust, in that it thrives on slyly and silently eating away at things of value.

Response to H.R. 5060

We are receiving every day a considerable amount of mail pertaining to H.R. 5060 — the wheat bill which I recently introduced. It is extremely heartening to me to be able to report that this response, most of it from our Ninth District, has been overwhelmingly favorable.

The Veterans Administration

During the past week we have had the privilege of attending two events which were both concerned with the vital problems of veterans rehabilitation. The first was a reception for the Minnesota Congressional delegation given by members of the Minnesota Department of the American Legion who were in Washington for a conference on these matters. The other was a breakfast at which Sumner Whittier, administrator of the VA, spoke to us on the progress being made in the fields of help for the men who gave so much for our country.

Marshall County Honored

Congratulations are surely in order for Marshall county, which recently was given nationwide recognition by the Freedoms Foundation. It received a national award from the famous organization for helping to bring about a better understanding of the American way of life. Especially instrumental in this was the work of the Marshall County Statehood Centennial committee and the Marshall county Historical society.

Carl Sandburg Tape Available

Our office has obtained a tape recording of Carl Sandburg's Lincoln address before the joint session of Congress, and we will be more than happy to loan it to any school, church or civic group desiring to hear.

BILL WEBER, LOCAL NO. 1139 I.U.E., who was hospitalized three times in the past year, tells Joe Bergot, Director of Industrial Relations, how the benefits he received under Blue Cross and Blue Shield relieved his financial worries.

"Our employees who have been hospitalized really keep us sold on Blue Cross and Blue Shield!"
... says H. L. DONAHOWER, President, Standard Conveyor Company, North St. Paul.

"It's not at all uncommon," continues Mr. Donahower, "for one of our workers who has been to the hospital to stop by the front office on his first day back on the job and tell us how much he appreciates Blue Cross. One reason for this, we believe, is the wonderful way Blue Cross works to give care based on people's needs in the hospital."

For medical-surgical-maternity care, Mr. Donahower says, "With the welfare of our workers as our first concern—we chose Blue Shield. Members get worthwhile help on doctor bills, and, since our company pays for our employees' Blue Shield, the real dollar value of this coverage is of vital interest to us."

EMPLOYEES AND MANAGEMENT of thousands of Minnesota firms—from the largest to those with as few as five employees—know the value of these two outstanding health care plans. They depend upon Blue Cross and Blue Shield when sickness strikes . . . to help pay unexpected hospital and physician costs. If you don't have this vital protection, fill in and mail the coupon now. Remember, you don't have to belong to a group to enroll in Blue Cross and Blue Shield . . . the health care plans preferred by most Minnesotans.

WILDLIFE in Minnesota
by JIM KIMBALL

Substituting for Jim Kimball is James A. Lee, assistant director, division of game and fish.

Minnesota delegates attending the twenty-fourth North American Wildlife conference last week in New York City were treated to some fine papers dealing with the theme, "Resources, People and Space." New York City provided a timely setting for the conference theme, as its eight million inhabitants currently come to grips with a hosts of seemingly insurmountable problems attendant to so many people crammed into a relatively small area.

One of the highlights of the conference was a stimulating paper on "Resource Potentials in Polar Regions," by Dr. Paul A. Siple, who recently spent a year at the South Pole where temperatures tumbled to —100 degrees. "Our polar regions are only hours and minutes away," said Siple, "and no longer constitute a vast, uncharted area attracting only the explorer. Airlines daily cross the North Pole and now submarines have traveled under it." Siple explained that in a world where human populations are mushrooming, our polar regions offer untapped resources which will be badly needed. Coal resources in Antarctica may prove to be greater than previously thought. "The food potential to be found in our polar waters is tremendous," Siple pointed out, "and may become the breadbasket for much of the world's starving millions." Siple also indicated the need to regulate the exploitation of the polar fauna which could be jeopardized by future human activities in these regions.

Insecticides and pesticides came in for a great deal of discussion as authorities in the fields of agriculture, wildlife management and public health pondered the problems posed by an ever increasing use of these chemical controls. The need for stepped-up research on the many and varied effects of the 'cides was repeatedly stressed by the experts.

Deer who spend the greater part of their lives in water, was the subject of a paper by a Florida biologist. Charles Loveless, biologist in the Everglades, explained how white-tailed deer live and prosper in the vast expanses of the Everglades marsh. Only scattered tree islands provide any terra firma for the deer who in times of high water, live in water depths up to two feet. How do you hunt Everglades deer? Hunters in this region have designed and constructed air boats which take them out into the marsh where grasses stand ten feet high. High seats provide a view over the grass as the hunters head for the tree islands in search of deer. How big are the Everglades deer? Bucks go about 120 pounds, indicating they are considerably smaller than our northern deer.

The hopes and plans of the recently created outdoor recreation resources review commission, were discussed by the commissioner's chairman, Laurance S. Rockefeller. America's outdoor recreational resources will be inventoried and intensively studied by the commission during the next two years. A final report to the President will be in the nature of a blueprint on how to provide an outdoor future for the nation's expanding human population.

Wildlife problems in Kenya, East Africa, were presented by Noel Simon, chairman of the Kenya Wildlife society. Research to provide management techniques and methods are badly needed, explained Simon, who also pointed out the next five years could be critical for certain endangered species. American, Canadian, and United Kingdom game biologists are teaming up to save East Africa's once fabulous wildlife populations from disaster.

87 Moose and 596 Deer Counted at Mud Lake

The annual inventory of big game animals was taken at the Mud Lake National Wildlife refuge March 5, according to Herb Dill, manager. Pilot biologist Art Brazda and assistant refuge supervisor Harvey Nelson did the counting from the air.

Eighty-seven moose and 596 deer were counted. This compares to 97 moose and 325 deer last year. Counts for the last five years are:

Year	Moose	Deer
1956	88	637
1957	88	426
5-year avg.	89	529

The refuge moose population has become relatively stable, but reports of moose near Grygla, Wanaska, Gatzke, Middle River and Greenbush indicates a substantial population throughout this area.

Dill states that with more snow, more deer from surrounding country move into the refuge for winter. They are also more easily counted with heavy snow cover. These factors probably account for the smaller number of deer tallied in the years 1957 and 1958. Moose are larger and darker colored, and for these reasons few, if any, are missed on the counts.

All animals observed were in reasonably thrifty condition.

Selective Service Tests for College Men Slated Apr. 30

State Director Advises Men Seeking Deferment to Submit Applications

The Selective Service college qualification test will be given to college men April 30, Lt. Colonel Burley M. Reep, state director of selective service, announced today. The April 30 test will be the only test offered for the 1958-59 school year.

Scores made on the test are used by local boards as one guide in considering requests for deferment from military service to continue studies.

Reep pointed out that student deferments which test scores have helped determine since 1951 have been a major factor in insuring the nation's supply of specialized manpower. Many students deferred since the testing program was begun are today scientists, engineers and specialists in other technical fields and in the social sciences, teaching, and humanities.

Emphasizing that only one test will be offered, the state director warned students wishing to take the test to obtain 1959 application cards and other material from any selective service local board or the school which they are attending. Use of old application cards may result in students missing the test.

Men planning to take the test were urged by Colonel Reep to make early application. Applications must be postmarked not later than midnight Thursday, April 9, 1959. The test will be administered by the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey.

Predict Lower Price Props on Milk April 1

Minnesota dairymen Thursday were told to expect lower price supports on milk for manufacturing and butter fat after April 1.

The prediction came from Otis M. Reed, Washington representative of the National Creameries association, who addressed the 26th annual convention of Minnesota Dairy Products association in Hotel Lowry, St. Paul.

"It looks like Secretary Benson shortly will announce price supports about 10 cents lower than the current $3.06 a hundred pounds, which will mean about $2.96," he explained.

"I may be wrong," he continued, "but in view of Benson's attitude in regard to price supports, he'll undoubtedly set them at the minimum 75 per cent of parity. That's the same as now but the recently revised parity formula will cause the drop."

Reed said the National Creameries association had asked Benson to return prices to 1957 levels of $3.25 a hundred pounds of manufacturing milk (that going into butter, cheese, and other products) and 58.6 cents a pound for butterfat. Those levels were contained in price-freeze legislation passed by the last congress but vetoed by President Eisenhower.

Reed said it is unlikely congress will reverse Benson's dairy support levels or pass a bill freezing prices at present levels.

Two dates were chosen as possibilities, April 18 or April 25. Things are shaping up pretty good and speaking of 'shapes,' such shapes you have never before witnessed as those that will be shown at the Budget Fund dance.

The Deer Park 4-H club will have its monthly meeting at the Louis Mandt home March 10. Ramona Chervestad will give a project report and demonstrations will be given by Eugene and Marianne Radniecki and Carol Mandt. Each member will donate something for the evening's entertainment. Skits, music and readings will be some of the numbers. Mrs. Louis Mandt will be hostess.

Potato Growers Meet at Stephen Friday, March 20

To Express Opinions on Potato Marketing Policy Announced by Committee

Potato growers will have an opportunity to pass opinion on the marketing policy for the 1959 potato crop announced recently by the Red River Valley potato committee at a series of meetings beginning March 16. The meeting closest to this area will be held at Stephen filtration plant, March 20, at 8 p.m.

It was also pointed out that the meeting at Stephen will be an official election meeting to elect a director and alternate to the Red River Valley potato committee and potato growers association.

The marketing policy for the 1959 crop recommended by the committee and announced recently is as follows: It is the opinion and recommendation of the committee that the 1959 crop be marketed as U.S. No. 1 and U.S. No. 2, and if production is such that withholding a portion of the crop from the market seems advisable that this be done in a manner other than by withholding all U.S. No. 2's as was done this year, and, further, the committee believes that potatoes for use in processing should be treated independently of potatoes for the fresh market.

The movie, "For Your Potato Pleasure," which tells the story of the production and marketing of the Red River Valley potato crop, will be shown at each meeting.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Mark	9	[illegible]
Monday	Psalms	1	1-6
Tuesday	Psalms	119	[illegible]
Wednesday	Isaiah	7	[illegible]
Thursday	Amos	3	[illegible]
Friday	Deuteronomy	30	15-20
Saturday	III John	1	1-4

Of course I don't scare you. I'm only a little boy making believe I'm a big bad man.

Some day, though, I will be big. Some day this game might be real, 'cause even the biggest bad man was once a little boy. And who knows what made him go wrong? That's why early training is so important.

In church and Bible school we learn about God's kindness and love, and how we can trust Him for the things we need. We learn to want to help others, instead of hurting them.

Encourage the children you know to learn all the good they can. Make church and Bible school your family custom—please.

Proud Basketball Team

Open House Held For School District

The open house meeting of the school district held Saturday afternoon was a big success as the attendance was good. The school board and Supt. Orcutt were well qualified to explain what has already been done. Mr. Denbrook, representing the architects was also there to answer any questions which would come to mind. People certainly showed their interest in where their tax dollar should be spent as well as to the welfare of their children.

Pretty soon, we won't worry about frozen water mains and sewers for this winter, as the drifts are sure shrinking today. Can you peek over them yet Mrs. Kimbrough?

Support Pric on Milk, Cream Not to Be Cut

Secretary Benson Says Supports Won't Be Reduced in 1959

Area dairymen were cheered Thursday when Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson announced that dairy price supports will be kept at present levels during the marketing year beginning April 1.

A reduction of about 3 per cent could have been made under provisions of farm law. Present rates are $3.06 a hundred pounds for milk used for manufacturing purposes and 56.6 cents a pound for butterfat.

Supports could have been reduced to about $2.96 for the milk and 55 cents for butterfat.

Benson told a news conference, at which he announced the decision, that the dairy industry is in better balance with its market than in other recent years. Hence, he said, there was no need to lower supports further to discourage overproduction as he had done in recent years.

The present supports compare with $3.85 for milk and 69.2 cents for butterfat when the administration took over in 1953.

Supports have been reduced this year for wheat, corn, other feed grains, rice, peanuts, dry beans and cottonseed. Milk is the first product on which a cut would have been possible, to escape a reduction.

The present dairy supports reflected 75 per cent of parity when announced a year ago. Farm law sets 75 per cent of parity as the minimum rate. But since announcement of the present rates the parity price has declined. Hence, lower dollars and cents rates could have been set for dairy products beginning April 1. On the basis of present parity prices, the supports reflect about 77 per cent of parity.

Benson emphasized that his decision to make no change in the dairy rates was an economic decision based, he said, on a slight decline in milk production and in dairy cow numbers last year and an increase in population.

Government purchases of dairy surpluses so far this marketing year are about 25 per cent smaller than a year earlier.

Launderette Sets Its Grand Opening for March 18-19

Free Washing and Use of Dryers Is Offered to Introduce New Facility

To introduce the advantages of King Koin Launderette facilities to people of the area, free washing and the use of dryers will be offered during the grand opening of the self-service laundry this Wednesday and Thursday, March 18 and 19, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Twenty washers, eight of them of the nine-pound size and 12 of the 16-pound size, have been installed in the newly-erected one-story building at 119 Second st. W. across the street from the Arena. Eight 45-pound dryers, each large enough to dry three loads from the washers, will handle all the drying needs of patrons without delay.

Free soap and bleach will also be offered those who come to the two-day opening of the Launderette.

A number of people including representatives from the factory which manufactures the equipment, will be on hand during the opening to acquaint visitors with the operation of the machines. A limit of three washers of clothes to each visitor has been set to give everyone an opportunity to use the facilities.

The laundry, which has been in service since March 9, is completely unattended. All machines are coin operated, a change machine has been installed and soap and bleach are available in a coin-operated dispenser.

Baudette Council Lets Contract for Rainy River Span

Action Taken Wednesday Following Lengthy Delay After Receiving Bids

Contracts were awarded Wednesday to bidders on the long-planned bridge over the Rainy River at Baudette at a special meeting of the Baudette village council. The principal contractor, Barnett-McQueen, is being notified of the village's sanction of the immediate start of construction, says the Baudette Region.

Paper work and red tape of various kinds has been holding up a formal approval of contracts by Home and Housing finance agency, despite the fact that the agency had already forwarded contracts to the village for release.

However, agency officials have verbally assured the village representatives that their best action would be to formally award contracts, and notify bidders.

Recently the principal contractor had written that if there were much more delay in awarding, that the firm would be forced to either withdraw its bid or to raise the bid price.

Newfolden Lions Get School Vision Test Equipment

Dr. O. D. Beich of TRF Club Demonstrates New Apparatus Thursday Night

Dr. Orlon D. Beich, chairman of the sight conservation committee of the Thief River Falls Lions Club, demonstrated the new School Vision tester for members of the Newfolden Lions club at their regular meeting held Thursday evening in the Newfolden school. Also representing the local club were James Parkins, deputy district governor, and Clarence Mattson.

The club had just recently purchased the equipment for use in their school and also in the Holt and Viking schools.

President Dennes Borman stated that the eye tester would be kept in Newfolden. Several members of the club will be schooled in the operation of the equipment and they will be available to the schools to conduct the eye examination.

School board members Peter Tandberg of Newfolden, Orlin Ness of Holt and Percy Stokke of Viking were on hand to express their appreciation to the club for making the tester available to their schools.

Dr. Beich pointed out that the equipment is only for a basic eye test and that further examination by a qualified optometrist would be necessary for fitting of glasses. He also said that the equipment can be used to conduct basic vision tests for drivers and hunters.

Orville Elseth reported on developments in the proposed Tamarac, Middle River and Snake River Watershed. The club voted in favor of requesting an information meeting with officials of the watershed group.

Paul Sponheim Is Given Fellowship

Paul R. Sponheim, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Sponheim, Thief River Falls, has been awarded a Lutheran Brotherhood faculty fellowship to assist him in further graduate study. Sponheim has been doing advanced work at the University of Chicago since October 1957.

He is among 17 Lutheran educators and pastors who are receiving faculty fellowship grants totaling $23,750. Carl F. Granrud, president of the Lutheran Brotherhood, said the grants are part of the fraternal life insurance society's 1959 scholarship program totaling nearly $110,000.

Sponheim's award was recommended by the National Lutheran Educational Conference, an inter-synodical organization of Lutheran educational institutions with headquarters in Washington, D. C.

He was graduated in 1952 from Concordia college, Moorhead, where he was valedictorian of his class, and in 1957 from Luther Theological seminary, St. Paul where he ranked second scholastically in his class. Check Artist Creates Stir in City Friday

Minneapolis Youth Is Arrested Here for Forging Checks

A 17-year-old Minneapolis youth is being held by Thief River Falls police after the alertness of a local supermarket owner uncovered a very unusual case of check forgeries in this and other cities near here.

Thomas R. Whipple, an employee of a readers' service in Grand Forks, was apprehended Friday after he tried to cash a check on a local physician at the Piggly Wiggly supermarket. Gordon Ballingrud, manager of the store, became suspicious of the check and called Mrs. Milo Mochal, wife of the doctor, in whose name the check was made out.

Mrs. Mochal denied that her husband had written the check in payment for a magazine subscription so Ballingrud called police and through the combined efforts of the police, sheriff's radio network and the Pennington and Marshall county sheriffs' offices, Whipple was apprehended and the facts in the case uncovered.

At the time of his arrest Whipple was carrying additional checks and subscription orders written in the names of two other doctors, Dr. George Martin and Dr. Milton D. Starekow, all of which turned out upon investigation to have been falsified.

Whipple also had in his possession an order made out to Lloyd Bennes, a local businessman. This turned out to be a false order as well and further investigation showed the youth had already cashed a check on Bennes at the Hartz supermarket.

In their investigations the law enforcement officials uncovered a bizarre angle to what appeared to be a clear-cut case of forgery. The authorities found that the youth had not been passing the forged checks entirely for his own benefit.

Having experienced little success in the magazine sales business, Whipple was writing falsified orders and bogus checks. He was cashing the checks, turning in the money with the falsified orders and keeping only that part of the money to which he would be entitled as his commission in a legitimate sale.

Before his unusual scheme was ended in Thief River Falls, Whipple had already worked it several times, in Warren and Stephen, Minn., and Larimore, N. Dak. He was a member of a five-man selling crew operating in this area.

The other four members of the crew were completely cleared of any complicity in Whipple's doings and the money taken in Stephen and Warren was returned to the Marshall county sheriff's office.

The money which was acquired by Whipple through cashing of the bogus check against Bennes was also returned.

Strict Rules Cover Wheat Allotments

Culkins Asks Those in Doubt to Confer with County Office

Patrick W. Culkins, office manager of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, stated today that regulations under the 1959 wheat allotment program should be carefully reviewed by all prospective wheat producers before seeding operations are started this spring, because there is no tolerance permitted for either the allotment farm or the non-allotment farm.

In the event that the allotment is overseeded by one-tenth acre the producer sacrifices privilege of securing price support on his crop until the excess is disposed of by a specified date. This applies to the farm with an established allotment only.

On the non-allotment farm the acreage must be disposed of within nine-hundredths of an acre of the entire acreage becomes excess wheat and is subject to penalty and cannot be sold until the penalty is satisfied. In case the entire production is used for feed on the farm the penalty still applies.

Producers who have specific questions regarding wheat acreage in 1959 are invited to contact the county ASC office and clarify any misunderstanding that may exist regarding the 1959 wheat allotment program prior to seeding.

Information received at the county office, said Culkins, indicates that rumors are being circulated by some irresponsible persons regarding the over-allocation of funds under the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP). These rumors, he said, are false because this office as of the close of business Thursday, March 12, 1959 had a balance of approximately $13,000 still available for cost-shares under that program.

Producers who intend to cooperate under this program are again reminded that Friday, March 20, is the final date that requests for cost-sharing by the federal government for carrying out conservation practices on the farm will be accepted by the county ASC office.

Tax Collections Total $290,908 up to March 1st

Pennington county property owners paid a total of $290,908.33 in current real estate and personal property taxes in January and February, County Treasurer Ellsworth Jorgenson reported this week. The amount is slightly more than $30,000 higher than the figure of $260,310.14 for the corresponding period of last year, and reflects higher tax rates now in effect.

Mercury Drops to —2 This Morning

Minnesota Escapes Another Big Blizzard

Although the area was fortunate to miss the blizzard conditions which blocked roads in Nebraska, Iowa and Illinois and stranded thousands of motorists, the lowest temperatures of the month were reported Saturday and Sunday nights when —2 was recorded both nights.

Monday morning started under cloudless skies but the KTRF weather forecast called for cloudy with intermittent light snow today ending by late afternoon or tonight.

No important temperature change is predicted for today but a slight warming trend is expected tomorrow.

The high for today is expected to be from 20 to 35 degrees and the low tonight from 5 to 20.

Council Faces Busy Meeting Tuesday Night

Bids to Be Opened; May Also Dispose of Storm Sewer Issue

A full schedule has been planned for the city council for its regular monthly meeting Tuesday night beginning at 8 o'clock.

Consideration of bids for a new police patrol car is on the agenda as well as discussion on the purchase of an additional garbage truck.

Bids will be opened on five separate items for city use: a carload of power poles, estimated to cost $2,300, for use in electrical distribution; meter testing equipment estimated to cost $1,450; a six-cylinder dump truck of two-ton size for use by the street department; a six-cylinder truck of three-quarter-ton size for the parks department, and a building with toilet facilities at the Riverside tourist park.

Also scheduled for consideration is the matter of the construction of storm sewers in district three, one which has dragged on for some time.

An alternate proposal to build a system at a cost of $297,000 extending only up to and including the Sixth st. lateral was distributed to interested persons at an informal meeting March 2. According to the proposal, the system would be "so designed that, as the demand for street improvements in the area north of Sixth st. increases, the present proposed construction could be extended north to serve the balance of the area."

The proposal also stated that the only cost to property owners north of Sixth st. would be the difference in the expense of installing the larger mains necessary for future expansion of the system. This would amount to $14 for owners of lots 50 feet by 140 feet in size. Owners of property south of Sixth st. would be assessed the same amount ($266 for a 50x140-foot lot) as they would have been if the entire system had been built as originally proposed.

Soil Conservation Award to Clarence Peterson, Grygla

Chosen as Outstanding Conservationist in the Marshall-Beltrami Dist.

Clarence Peterson, Grygla farmer, was recently chosen as the conservation farmer of the year in the Marshall-Beltrami soil conservation district. Peterson was chosen for the award by the district's board of supervisors and was given a plaque furnishedby the Minneapolis Star and Tribune.

This annual award is given to the farmer, who in the preceding year has made the greatest progress toward using and conserving his soil and water resources in such a manner as to protect and improve them.

Mr. Peterson has a cash grain and livestock type farm of approximately 400 acres. On his farm he has installed about a mile and a half of open ditches to take care of the drainage problem. He has used crop rotations and fertilizer, with soil testing for fertilizer recommendations, to improve his crops and get the most return from each acre of cropland.

He cleared the woods and brush from his pastures and uses pasture rotation with fertilizer and reseeding when needed. Annually, he mows the pastures to provide fresh growth at all times and prevent the grasses from becoming rank and of poor quality.

Through the use of the crop rotations and rotation grazing and reseeding of pastures, he is incorporating all crop residues and plowing down green manure crops to add organic matter to his soils. The results of this are shown in better soil structure and greater water absorbing ability which reduces the amount of runoff water and lessens the danger of water damage due to water standing in the small potholes in the field.

Margaret Wayne Tells of State 4-H Speech Event

Margaret Wayne, Mavie 4-H club, tells in the following article about the state finals of the 4-H radio speaking contest held March 6 and 7 in St. Paul. Margaret was the first Pennington county 4-H'er ever to compete in the state finals. The contest has been held annually for the past 17 years.

The Brotherhood of Man was the topic of our speech contest this year and also the theme of our entire trip to St. Paul last Friday and Saturday.

We left Thief River Falls on Thursday noon so that we could get a good night's sleep before starting our exciting weekend. We girls were given excellent accommodations at Bailey Hall, a new dormitory at the University, St. Paul Campus.

Friday morning we went to North high school, which is one of the largest schools in Minneapolis. It has 2100 students attending it, which includes only the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grades. The building itself was not particularly impressive, as it was old and almost drab — but the students were what made the place tick. It was thoroughly integrated and the most democratic school I have ever seen. Because the school was so large, they decided not to take us through it, but instead showed us a film of their school which they had taken some years ago.

From the school we went to the Jewish Temple of Aaron, because the Minnesota Jewish Council was co-sponsor of the speech contest. This was particularly interesting to me as I had never been in a Jewish Temple before.

We also made a short visit to the capitol, but were unable to see the governor as he had been called out of town.

Bright and early Saturday morning, we had the speech contest. There were 37 contestants, so we were split into two groups and judged by two different groups of judges. Two contestants were chosen from each group to give their speech again before all six judges, and from these four, two were chosen as first and second place winners.

I think, what impressed me the most, was the banquet put on by the Jewish Council Saturday evening. There were some 250 persons invited to this banquet of which only some 20 or 30 were connected with 4-H work. The remainder of the group was made up of people from all walks of life dealing with better human relations, Negroes, Jews, Protestants, educators, industry, and many others were all represented. It made a unique banquet and impressed me tremendously. We then saw a film, "The Defiant Ones," and this fitted in very well with our brotherhood theme.

By Sunday morning we were all ready to go home after two days, crammed full of excitement and new experiences, we were pretty well bushed.

It was truly a thrilling experience, one that I'll not forget for a long time. I think the greatest experience we get out of such trips is the meeting and mingling with new people—carrying out this thing called brotherhood.

Public Opinion

Editor the Times:

There has been a recommendation made to Congress to find new ways to tax cooperatives. I wonder why? It couldn't be that Uncle is that desperate for revenue, I think not. But it does prove one point, however, that Co-op's are an important factor in our economy.

But what I don't understand is this. Our secretary of Agriculture, has always insisted that the government should quit running the Farmer's business, and that Farmers should solve their own problems. The only way in my opinion is through cooperatives, so we will have some control of production and distribution.

But now it is trying to close that opening by taxation. I do, however, agree on one point of the recommendation — that dividends should be paid. I believe five years, but not to exceed six years, should be the time limit on paying dividends. Otherwise a legal rate of interest should be paid on that dividend.

This is not only good business but will encourage more business. A youngster once made a remark that we don't need the farmers because we buy our milk and eggs from the grocery store. Sad, indeed, isn't it, that our youth are thinking in such a twisted manner, who will be our leaders of tomorrow.

Yours for a better understanding of Cooperatives,

Engval Christoferson,
Oklee, Minn.

Redistricting Bill Passed by Lower House

Seeks Submission of Constitutional Amendment in 1960

The lower house of the state legislature Friday afternoon passed a reapportionment bill, 73-53.

The bill now goes to the Senate. Hearings have been held before the Senate elections committee but no action has been taken.

The proposal follows recommendations made by a citizen-legislator committee by Gov. Freeman to study reapportionment.

The measure calls for submittal of a constitutional amendment to the voters at the 1960 general election, with redistricting to be carried out by the legislature in 1961.

If the legislature fails to reapportion, under the bill, a commission of judges is set up to do the job.

Further, the bill provides that the Senate would be reapportioned on population and the House on a population-area basis.

The House sent to the Senate a proposal to boost workmen's compensation payments for on-the-job injuries. It would raise the weekly minimum from $17.50 to $20 and the maximum from $15 to $57.

Legislative postal clerks fought a blizzard of mail on the daylight saving time issue. And the senate general legislation committee went to no-decision on it, sending to the floor three bills to ban DST, extend it on a statewide basis, and to let the voters decide the matter by referendum in the 1960 general election.

Sent to the house floor with slim chance to survive was a proposed constitutional amendment for 60-day annual legislative sessions.

A house civil administration committee was assigned study of lobbyist registration bills. The full committee approved creation of a state atomic energy board and began hearings on Freeman's state government reorganization proposal.

Beauty Tips from ME to YOU

Makeup can't change the shape of your face, but when it is properly applied it can make one look more youthful. Good points can be enhanced and less attractive points can be subdued.

The shape of your face should be taken into consideration before any makeup is used. Remember, the right shade of makeup is important.

Rouge is a most important item, for, properly applied it can do much to minimize facial flaws, but if it is applied too heavily or not placed correctly, it will make one look old or tired.

Be sure that you study the contours of your face. Properly applied, rouge can take years off your age and add sparkle to your eyes. Experiment with your makeup and seek counsel from your favorite operator as to its proper application.

No. Central Earns Profit Last Year

Net Earlings Are $108,000, Compared to $80,000 in '57

North Central Airlines, in its annual report to stockholders issued today, reported record 1958 gross revenues of $13,141,239; an increase of 22 per cent over 1957.

H. N. Carr, North Central president, credited the increase to a boost in all classes of traffic generated over the airline's nine-state system.

Carr said net earnings for 1958 after tax credits were $108,184; compared with $80,791 in 1957. Operating profit, after depreciation charges, was $157,850.

The report indicated that North Central has been operating on a temporary mail rate since November, 1956. When the final rate is established it will be retroactive to that date.

Carr said completion in January of a $1,340,000 financing program placed North Central in the strongest position in its 11-year history. Of that amount, $2,340,000 is going for purchase of five Convair 340 aircraft and related spare parts. The Convairs will go into service April 26.

North Central also widened its lead over the nation's 12 other local service airlines in volume of passengers, air mail and air express carried in 1958.

House Cleaners Warned of Falls

'U' M. Safety Specialist Suggests Precautions

Activities in sprucing up the house for spring brought a warning today from Glenn Prickett, extension safety specialist at the University of Minnesota, to take special precautions against falls.

Falls are still the number one cause of fatal home accidents in Minnesota.

Records for the last few years show that falls caused the death of over 300 Minnesota residents each year. Falls are also responsible for permanently injuring more than 1,000 Minnesotans and causing temporary injuries to more than 30,000 annually. About twice as many of the fatal falls occur from one level to another as on the same level.

Housecleaning is particularly dangerous as far as falls are concerned, Prickett points out, because of the necessity of climbing to wash windows, walls and ceilings, to take down and hang draperies and pictures. A sturdy step ladder is one of the best safeguards against falls. However, it should be high enough so it is not necessary to work from the top step, where it is easy to lose your balance. Avoid over-reaching from the ladder, too, Prickett warns. Move the ladder instead.

CANDID COMMENT

by Mack Draper

There are times when one wonders how the majority of people ever survived and grew up considering the evidence of stupidity of the human race set forth in some news stories we read from time to time.

In fact, some of the arguments involving this daylight saving time proposition are a clear indication some folks never have and never will grow up. Suffering succotash! Will someone, pray tell me, how the adoption of DST this summer is going to affect egg production? Until just recently I was unaware that hens could tell time except in terms of day and night. In the electrical age a lot of them are deceived even on this point.

Yes, the silly claim that DST will hurt egg production is one that has been set forth as a reason for not adopting DST—among other equally stupid claims in opposition.

Wisconsin, we note from a news story, has shoved the DST question into a box and nailed the lid on—the legislators there are wise enough to see the obvious advantages of DST to the majority of people and have made it clear that summertime DST is there to stay.

Wisconsin, too, is an agricultural state but DST hasn't hurt too much from outward appearances. We here in Minnesota are plagued by pressure groups claiming to represent agriculture, which I and many others doubt, despite the fact a majority of farmers are probably opposed to DST.

That non-farm groups are using the farmer to further their own selfish ends is indicated by such matters as the egg production drop being caused by the adoption of DST — any sensible farmer (and this, I think, includes most of 'em) knows a hen isn't affected when we set the clock ahead or behind. Some special group, with an axe to grind, is making capital out of farm opposition to DST.

This DST question raging in Minnesota could easily be solved if we were but willing to live and let live. As regards inconveniences caused by adoption of DST there aren't restricted to any one group. Nor are the conveniences. The city worker, who benefits most from DST, gets an extra hour of daylight to use as he pleases. It also means the farmer has an extra hour in the morning, before the dew dries off, to do errands in town. Without DST the stores wouldn't be open early enough for him—with DST he will find the stores open to serve him at such an early hour. This is a very clear-cut convenience, especially during haying and harvest.

As I said before, let's live and let live—if we think this thing out cooly and rationally we'll arrive at the conclusion someone has been making a mountain out of a molehill. For, in truth, the question of whether we should adopt Daylight Savings Time isn't so important that it should split the state into warring camps because some special group stood to lose a few dollars. And, I'm not referring to our good friends, the farmers!

The program had as its masters of ceremonies the senior Girl Scouts under the guidance of Mrs. J. W. Ewing, Mrs. L. Snetting, Miss Ann Garnaas and Mrs. Fred Mittelstadt. Lunch was also served by the girls of this group.

Nursing Home Group Opposes State Homes

The Minnesota legislature should carefully examine all phases of caring for the state's aged population before taking any action to put state or local governments strongly into the nursing home field.

This was the suggestion made in letter form this week to each member of the legislature by Minnesota Nursing Home association, which represents 137 private and voluntary (non-profit) nursing homes operating within the state. Signing the letter were Earle Leirfallom of White Bear Lake, association president and former state director of social welfare; and George Hedlund of Osseo and Max Shapiro of Minneapolis, co-chairmen of the association's legislative committee.

"There has been much discussion in recent weeks about the nursing homes of Minnesota, and proposals have been made to put the state and local governments strongly into the nursing home field," the letter pointed out.

"It is our belief that nursing home programming is a professional field to be projected on the basis of facts rather than politics. The Legislature should avoid going off in several directions during this session, but instead try to unify on a sound and well-planned course of action after an exhaustive study into the entire field has been made."

The association proposed that these significant developments in the nursing home field should be carefully analyzed by a long-range study group:

1—The new role of proposed federal loans in the financing of new nursing homes in Minnesota.

2—The tremendous boom in construction of private and voluntary nursing homes now underway.

3—The proper role of church and non-profit homes in the picture.

4—Comparisons between nursing home and rest home-care and facilities.

5—The arriving at reliable figures on comparative costs for private nursing home care, as compared to public care, "with proper consideration for all expense items involved."

March Is National Egg Month

March is being celebrated as National Egg Month because eggs are so abundant and reasonably priced. This should be good news for shoppers who are planning Lenten meals during the month. Large eggs are of high quality and are the best buy for consumers.

Value Plus Appetite Appeal

Eggs add value as well as appetite appeal to breakfast, lunch or dinner. They are an excellent source of high - quality protein and they're also an exceptionally good source of iron, vitamin A, thiamin, riboflavin, and vitamin D. And for the calorie-minded, it's good news that eggs are low in total calories. A medium-sized egg has about 70 calories.

Avoid Air Space in Freezing Foods

A good rule to remember in freezing any food is this: make wraps snug and tight, with as little air space inside the package as possible. Air space increase the probability of quality deterioration.

That's why ground meat will be better frozen in compact units rather tahn in patties. That's also why any food that's covered with a liquid or semi-liquid when frozen is likely to keep much better than it otherwise would. For example, cooked sliced turkey in gravy will keep longer than sliced turkey packaged alone.

Steps to Easy Ironing

Good light, an adjustable ironing board, a good chair and a place at hand to put articles after ironing—these are essentials if you want to save time and energy when you do the family ironing.

Iron sheets? If you prefer to have your sheets ironed, you can save time by folding each sheet, and ironing small, flat articles on it. The sheet will be pressed by the time the articles are ironed.

Efficient Cleaning

For efficient cleaning, empty your bag often. If your cleaner has a disposable inner bag, throw it away when it is two-thirds to three-quarters full. You bought a cleaner with this feature because you wanted conveniences. Now don't sacrifice efficient cleaning, to save the cost of a bag replacement.

See you next week.

The coin-operated laundry is owned by the Lark corporation, a group of local businessmen.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans' benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA contact representative at the Grand Forks VA office.

Q—I have just entered school under the Korean GI Bill. How long is the usual waiting period before receipt of my first GI allowance check?

A—Normally, about two months. Under the law, you may not be paid until after a month of classroom work is completed, and the law allows VA 20 additional days to process your certificate of attendance and to mail your check.

Q—Is there any deadline for filing a claim for VA disability compensation?

A—There is no deadline. A veteran may apply at any time. However, if an eligible veteran applies within a year from the date of his release from service, compensation may be back-dated to the day following his release from service. A veteran applying after he has been out of service a year may be paid only from the date his application was filed.

Q—I understand there is a new ruling whereby a disabled veteran may now get a head start toward rehabilitation by beginning vocational training while still a patient in a VA hospital. Will you explain this, please?

A—The new ruling permits training for veterans who are far enough along in their hospital treatment to be able to leave the hospital part of the day to attend school. Formerly, veterans generally had to be out of the hospital before they could start rehabilitation training.

Q—I'm a Korean veteran, holding GI term insurance. Is it true, that I now can convert my term insurance to a permanent plan?

A—Yes. Korean veterans holding term insurance with the letters "RS" before the policy number now may convert to one of six permanent VA plans.

Q—What is the deadline for getting a GI loan for a World War II veteran?

A—World War II veterans have until July 25, 1960, to apply for a GI loan, and up to a year after that in which to complete arrangements with a lender. Korea veterans have until 1965.

Q—If I take out the new GI insurance rider, which pays up to $100 a month for total disability after six months, will the amount my beneficiaries would get under the policy be reduced?

A — No. Disability payments made under the rider in no way decrease the amount paid to beneficiaries of your GI insurance policy.

Q—It may be necessary for me to borrow on my permanent plan GI insurance policy. Is there any special way I must pay back the loan?

A—Repayment of the principal on GI permanent plan policy loans may be made at any time the insurance is in force; amounts of $5 or even multiples thereof are acceptable.

Q — Does a veteran going to school under the Korea GI Bill have to report classroom absences to the VA?

A—Not if the course he is taking leads to a standard college degree or an advanced professional goal. Veterans in all other types of courses, however, must now report monthly classroom absences, under provisions of a new law. Veterans in trade or business schools, for example, will be required to report absences.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare
University of Minnesota

Children's Fears

Most children have fears from time to time, and most of the time they manage to outgrow them. But there are some kinds of fears that are especially hard to shake. Some of these are fears children pick up from grownups. We do not always realize, to what extent, our own fears are being passed on unconsciously to our children. A mother's fear of thunderstorms, black cats, darkness, insects, deep water or other things, can easily be picked up by her children. "Set an example of courage," seems like sound advice, if we want to save our children many needless fears.

Children are often frightened by what they hear adults talk about. One child developed a fear of the dark, when she heard her mother saying, "I must hurry home, it's getting dark." Or there is the parent who thoughtlessly threatens, "I'll call the doctor if you don't behave." Such remarks rarely bring about better behavior, but they certainly can contribute to a fear of doctors.

One little boy refused to go to school, because his parents had once threatened to send him away, if he did not do as he was told.

We can help our children overcome most of their fears. Pleasant experiences with ordinary everyday things keep fears from developing. One way of getting rid of a child's fear is to connect the object he fears with something he likes very much. For example, if our child is afraid of the dark, we can play "exploring" games with him in a dark room. "Treasure hunts" for candy may be a good reason for going into dark places once in a while. Playing with other children who are not afraid, helps to erase certain fears. The more a child knows about things the less likely he is to be afraid of them. Then, too, if we teach them ways of meeting the situations they fear, they may slowly overcome the problem.

Remember that a child's fear is real to him and that he needs our help in overcoming it. Laughing at him or ignoring his fears will probably make matters worse.

Thieves Down Pirate Club 7 to 3 on Sunday

The Thieves will be carrying a four-goal bulge as they meet the Crookston Pirates in the second, and final, game of the two-game total-goals Northwest hockey league finals here Sunday night. The face-off time for the game will be at 8:30 p.m. Sunday at the Arena.

Coach Paul Bedard's club gained this four-goal cushion by scoring a 7 to 3 win over the Pirates in a game played at Crookston on Sunday afternoon.

The well-played and hard-checking game found the Thieves moving into a 1 to 0 lead at the 7:52 mark of the first period when Darryl Durgin flipped a backhand shot past goalie Lyle Brekken and into the north net. Jim LaCoursiere, the Red Lake Falls athlete playing for the Pirates, evened the game at 1-all when he drove a hard shot, from 15-feet out, past goalie Jack McGill, with Ed Derosier setting up the play. The Thieves regained the lead at the 16:28 mark when Al Steenerson, from in close, banged a shot past Brekken, giving the locals a 2 to 1 lead.

Monty Markstrom, in the opening minutes of the second period pounced on his own rebound and shoved a goal into the south net, scoring at the 1:54 mark. After a pair of Crookston goals, by Mark Laliberte and Bill Conneran, had brought the game into a 3-all knot, Del Offerdahl, at the 13:41 mark, and Greg Ranum, at 16:16, sent the locals into a 5 to 3 lead. The Thieves never looked back.

In the final stanza, Gordy Bjerken and Glenn Carlson notched goals for the Thieves as the shorthanded Crookston club (the Pirates were without the services of their two "imports," Ger Beckstead and Jerry Frantzi) showed the effects of the furious pace of the game.

Goalie Jack McGill turned in another sturdy game for the Thieves, being especially effective in foiling the several breakaways that the Crookston forwards, Bob Caouette and Mark Laliberte, gained during the game.

The Times

Foiled Again

Not since 1951 have we had the pleasure of witnessing a Bemidji Lumberjacks basketball team being beaten in a Region Eight tournament game. In that year, coach Harold (Snooks) Sullivan's East Grand Forks team, with big Jon Haaven at center and scoring fourteen points, defeated the Lumberjacks, 40 to 37, in the finals of the tournament played at Bemidji. And it took some doing by Green Wave to defeat Bemidji on that occasion, for East Grand Forks, after gaining a 15 to 4 lead in the first period, were forced to "hang on" through a tense second half in order to rack up the victory.

For a few moments on Wednesday night we thought that we would experience another such happy event as the Crookston Pirates held a 44 to 38 lead with four minutes of play remaining in the regional finals game played at Grand Forks. But Bemidji, exhibiting fine tournament poise came up with nine "clutch" points to edge out Crookston, 47 to 46. Those final seconds of play were dramatic, and they will not soon be forgotten by the 6500 fans who were present.

While Bob Glas, who scored the field goal that tied the game at 46-all with five seconds to play, and whose free throw (he was fouled on the scoring play) provided Bemidji with the winning point, is being toasted and lionized by the Bemidji fans, we believe that Jim Vickery was the game's star.

Vickery was given the assignment to cover Crookston's stellar playmaking guard, Bill Taylor, and to prevent the Pirates' captain from scoring on his drive-ins or jumpers from the lane. To give you an indication of how closely Vickery shadowed Taylor, we will report that the Crookston player scored but one field goal, that at the 7:51 mark of the second period when he received a fast-break pass and dribbled in for a lay-up. That was the only shot that Taylor got at the basket during the first half. And in the second half he was limited to but three or four off-balance jump shots at the basket, none of which connected.

And in addition to his defensive assignment on Taylor, Vickery was a factor on offense, scoring twelve points on six field goals. Two of these field goals were especially "painful" to the Crookston fans, being scored on "sleepers" in the second period, the result of defensive lapses by the Pirates.

The Bemidji win gave the Lumberjacks their seventh straight Region Eight championship, breaking the mark that they held, at six straight, with the Moorhead Spuds. Moorhead, a member of Region Eight from 1925 through 1930, won the regional championships every year during that span. Bemidji started their current streak in 1953, and with but three seniors on this year's squad—Jim Vickery, Gary Strowbridge, and Dave Suman—and but one junior—Bob Glas—the prospects for the next couple of years have a Paul Bunyan aspect. Sophomores on the Bemidji squad are Larry Higgins, Larry McDowell, Spencer Price (Higgins and McDowell are starters, and Price is a first-line reserve), John Sessing, Lee Fawbush, John Sarff, John Phillips and Mike Barclay.

Bring on the Miltown.

The End of the Road

According to an item in the Winnipeg Free Press "Likeable Danny Summers, who has 811 games under his belt and gave his all in every one of them, has reached the end of the road for this season at least. Danny injured his left knee when he collided with a Calgary defenseman during a game on the Winnipeg Warriors' last road trip."

The article goes on to state that "In his 14 years on the hockey lanes, Summers played with the St. Louis Flyers, Indianapolis, Providence, Syracuse, Thief River Falls, and the Warriors.

"They're still calling Danny Billy Winters in the Thief River Falls area. Danny was suspended by the American League for failure to report to the Springfield Indians in 1953, and joined the outlaw States-Dominion league. He played under the monicker of Winters."

One of the highlights in his career was when the Providence Reds won the Calder trophy, beating St. Louis in overtime. Danny got the tying goal, and set up Terry Reardon for the winner. Says Danny, "That was the most rabid hockey town I've ever seen. When the game was over the fans tossed live roosters, Rhode Island Reds, on the ice, along with fish and other items. One of the other items was a fan's wooden leg, complete with sock and shoe."

Well, we surely enjoyed Danny's (or should we say Billy's?) season here with the Thieves.

Fox Intrudes in Home Near Grygla

A fox broke in through a basement window in the Ervin Vigen home near Grygla, while the Vigens were in town and their seven children were in school.

The intruder grabbed part of a sandwich from the kitchen table, jumped onto a bed and refused to abandon it when two of the Vigen children came home.

He ripped the bedroom curtain into shreds and then raced around the kitchen, chewing at the furniture until he was killed by a shot from Vigen's .22 rifle.

Roseau Six Bows to Thieves Friday 7-2

With their veteran goalie, Jack McGill, kicking out 48 on-goal shots, and with their forwards scoring three goals in the first period for a commanding lead, the senior hockey Thieves, in a game played at Roseau on Friday night, defeated the Roseau Cloverleafs, 7 to 2, in the second game of the two-game total-goals first round Northwest hockey league playoffs. The Thieves won the series by a margin of four goals, 15 to 11, and will now meet the league-champion Crookston Pirates in the playoff finals.

The Thieves lost the first game of their series with Roseau by a 9 to 8 score, and therefore entered the game on Friday night carrying a one-goal deficit. Glen Carlson, Cal Offerdahl, and Greg Ranum tallied first period goals for the Thieves.

The Thieves, leading by a 4 to 1 score, experienced several anxious moments early in the third period when Paul Bedard and Ranum were whistled off the ice on penalties, with Paul being charged with a hooking violation and Ranum with a tripping foul. But the locals, with Jimmy Reese doing some strong skating, held off the threatening Leafs.

The summary:

Knox Wins Grade Hockey Trophy

Ends Season with 9 Wins, Two Ties and No Defeats

The Knox Tigers, grade school hockey team won the Bjorkman trophy last week. Under the coaching of Paul Bedard and Art Cloutier, the Knox team has had outstanding success this past season. They have won every game except two games that were tied. Bobby Stordahl, their captain and high scorer, ranks at the top with 34 points.

In the first game of the tournament last Thursday, Knox edged out the Washington Wildcats 2 to 1. On Saturday night the Knox Tigers defeated St. Bernard's 3 to 2. This was an over time tilt, and Bobby Stordahl scored the three goals for the Knox Tigers. This was a very exciting game because, with three minutes to go, the St. Bernard's Broncos tied it up with a long slap shot. In the first overtime with 15 seconds left, Bobby scored again for the "hat trick" with an assist from Larry Olson.

Stelmaschuk States County Has 2,750,000 Bu. of Stored Grains

The 4-H leaders discussed the clean grain program at their monthly meeting Monday. Several University of Minnesota specialists and an industrial representative presented information on why the clean grain program is needed and how 4-H clubs carry it out.

Harold Peterson, extension grain specialist, pointed out that a great accumulation of grains has occurred across the county. The per capita grain in storage in the U.S. is as follows:

Corn	2.4 bu.	9.1 bu.
Wheat	1.3 bu.	5.03
Barley	0.5 bu.	1.00
Oats	1.8 bu.	1.71

The 1958 figure shows a total of about 18 bushels of grain per capita in government storage, excluding sorghum.

County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk pointed out that Pennington County also has large amounts of grain in storage totaling about two and three-quarters million bushels. It is imperative, he said, to protect the investment that farmers and citizens have in the grain. This can be done through a clean grain program.

John Lofgren, extension entomologist stated that methoxychlor and malthion are good grain bin sprays to control insects. Insects need moisture and temperature to increase in numbers and by watching the grain bins closely the grain can be protected against insect losses.

Max Amberson from Peavey Elevators reviewed the 4-H'ers role in carrying out a clean grain program. This can be a special project or it can be part of another project such as grain, health, home yard improvement, etc. Rubbish piles cleaned up in the spring eliminate rodent-harboring places.

Berkeley Peterson, discussed various methods of controlling rodents. Bait stations using Red Squill, ANTU, Zinc phosphide, and DDT poisons give a quick kill. When rodents get bait-shy, he said, switch to anti-blood coagulant poisons such as Warfarin, Pival, and Fumarin. Rodent and bird-proofing of granaries using hardware cloth or tin is also necessary to keep the grain clean.

The program was completed by two demonstrations. Shirley Fuller of the Steiner club demonstrated on the making of quick breads. Margaret Wayne of Mavie demonstrated "Milk Drinks."

The play and music contest was set for the week of April 13. All leaders are asked to inform the extension office by March 20 whether their club will take part in the play and/or music contest.

Times Cartoonist Is Named Head of National Society

Mort Walker, whose cartoon strip "Beetle Bailey" appears in the Thief River Falls Times, has been elected to head the National Cartoonist Society for the coming year.

Walker was elected president of the society in a secret mail ballot by its 450 members who live in nearly every state of the Union and nine foreign countries. He will be installed in office at Brooklyn, N. Y. on March 25th.

In the space of seven years, the Kansas-born artist has skyrocketed to the very peak of the cartoon world with his strip about the gawky, permanent yardbird of the Army which has become one of the two most popular comic strips in the world today. It is distributed by King Features Syndicate to more than 700 newspapers.

Use Certified Seeds, Farmers Are Advised

Think twice before planting seed from your own bin this spring.

This seed may be the poorest you can get. And seed from your neighbor may be no better.

On the other hand, you stand the best chance of getting a good crop by buying certified seed from a good dealer, according to County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk and extension agronomists at the University of Minnesota.

They point out that poor seed is really mighty expensive. It means risking poor stands, introducing more weeds, and getting a poor yield.

In spring, 1956, the Minnesota Department of Agriculture made a survey of seed which farmers were putting in their drill boxes, right out in the field. Of samples where the farmer was using his own seed, 22 per cent contained so many weed seeds that, had it been offered for sale, the seed would have violated state law.

Of seed from neighbors, 24 per cent would have violated the seed law. But only 10 per cent of seed from dealers was in violation.

Put another way, only a little more than three-fourths of the seed was of salable, or good, quality where seed came from the same farm or from a neighbor. Nine-tenths of seed from dealers was good quality.

Yet, despite the difference, more than 76 per cent of the farmers were using their own seed and nearly 15 per cent got it from their neighbors. Less than 8 per cent bought their seed from seed dealers.

One seed sample from a farmer's own bin had 180 Canada thistle seeds per pound. At this rate, the farmer would plant 13,000 Canada thistle plants per acre—a disastrous price to pay for using his own seed.

There are also large differences in yield from one variety to another. University trials around the state in the last three years with oats showed a difference of 26 bushels per acre between the lowest and highest yielding variety. Here's what this shows: It pays to know what variety you are planting. And plant varities with good yield records in comparative tests.

Seeing The Other Side

COQUILHATVILLE, BELGIAN CONGO

John Hughes, staff correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor, says truthfully that "to the African traveler, memories of Leopoldville are unusually sweet. Perched on the bank of the swirling Congo River, it exudes an air of continental charm."

There is much contrast between this "most modern and impressive city in Africa" and the facilities of the river boat that now is taking me eastward to Stanleyville. Here an electric fan is helpful, circulating the hot, humid air of the river, but it is not air-conditioning. The food is good, and ample, but the climate is not conducive to heavy eating.

Looking back to lovely Leopoldville, I can report that it is also a nervous Leopoldville. There is an undercurrent of tension that no doubt dates back to the violence of January 4. That Sunday night uprising was strange in several respects.

Several thousand young Negroes participated but it is said to have been spontaneous and without plan. The attack was not directed at the White section of the city, the property destruction being limited to the area occupied by homes and apartments recently built for Negro workers, and the mission and social services established for their benefit. Small business places, service stations of various kinds, some of them operated by natives, were demolished.

The demonstrators were not armed and the uprising was mainly a rock-throwing affair. In some instances the contents of dwellings were piled up and burned. One male social worker was killed and three White women, also social workers, were attacked. A large number of the rioters were killed and several hundred were arrested. There are conflicts in the reports on members, but that is not important. Official reports are said to have been toned down.

The January 4 outbreak was serious and if it had been organized it could have been much more destructive. The possibility that such uprisings may occur again casts a noticeable shadow over the people of the city, both Blacks and Whites.

Belgians, generally, admit that the days of the government, in its present form, are numbered. Europeans in the government service see themselves out of jobs in the next few years.

But while private citizens are not hopeful of the colonial status being maintained for long, they are nevertheless optimistic about their own future in a native-controlled government. They believe there will be a need for their services in the administration of the Congo's far-flung industrial activity for many years to come, and if the transition from colonial status to native control follows the pattern that seems to have been established in other countries of the continent, they probably are correct in this conclusion.

It is significant that foreign capital is not being withdrawn from the area because of the changes that are in the making. There are enormous investments of foreign capital that have made the Belgian Congo one of the richest countries in Africa. Reports indicate that further expansion in several important industrial fields are still being given serious consideration.

But not all the investments in the economic development of the Belgian Congo have been made by large corporations. There are thousands of Whites established here in little industries of their own development, and in the aggregate, these small operations add up to an impressive total in the commerce of the Congo and in the employment of its native people. The passenger list of this river boat includes a husband and wife who probably are typical of many of these small, successful operators.

Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse M. DeBrobandere operate a plantation and lumber mill back in the bush on a branch of the Congo about 200 miles east of Leopoldville. Alphonse is a Belgian. Lily is English. Their's is an interesting story that fits into the pattern of possible future developments in a national land-use program. From both the economic and social standpoint their operation probably is more significant than some of the huge mining and industrial operations that command more attention.

Alphonse, now in his middle 50's, is an engineer professionally and came here in that capacity for the company that operates the river shipping industry. In 1948 he and Lily decided to try their hand at lumbering. They bought a tract of land that had a good stand of mahogany, about 600 acres of jungle. There is a cash market in mahogany and they could survive the early years. They had no experience and little capital, but this lack was offset by an abundance of courage and determination. They now look back on ten good years.

Alphonse and Lily own their original 600 acres which now is nearly cleared and is being put into coffee. They expect to harvest their first crop this year from trees planted three years ago. Each year the coffee acreage has been extended and they look forward to this becoming their main activity.

Their lumber business, in the meantime, has not been neglected. Each year they have bought the ripe trees on tracts of about 500 acres. This gives them enough annual production to keep their saw mill busy. Their operation now gives employment to about 150 natives in a remote area where no other employment opportunities exist.

It has been a slow process, with a lot of discouragement along the way. In some respects it resembles the kind of small operations that grew into large farms and ranches in the development of our own West.

Alphonse and Lily have accumulated some wealth but it is represented largely in what they have in their plantation and lumber operation. That has value only as it is worked and made productive. It is not easy to find buyers for such an operation, as our own farmers know too well.

Africa has been good to Alphonse and Lily. They are happy with their accomplishment and look forward to a retirement that will be less arduous—and less hazardous.

There is another important phase to this story. Africa has been good to them. Have they been good to Africa? Let's take a look at that side of the story.

YOUR SENATOR REPORTS

from the Desk of SENATOR HUBERT H. HUMPHREY

Small business difficulties—Much is yet to be done if the economic, social and political forces which have created the artificial handicaps to small business are to be rolled back and the independent small businessman is to be protected against the crushing impact of monopoly and of a hard-money Administration. Last year, small business failures among the nation's 4 million small businessmen were the highest in 25 years. Yet, without the initiative, the ingenuity and the competitive spirit of the small businessman, our country would be hard put to maintain a free and competitive economy.

Tax relief — In January, I joined Senator John Sparkman, chairman of the Senate Committee on Small Business, in introducing a series of bills which would provide additional tax allowances on reinvestment of income. This week I headed a seven-point Small Business Opportunity Program with a bill which would release substantial capital to small businesses by replacing the existing corporate normal tax plus surtax with a graduated income tax—resulting in taxes as high as one-third, for corporations with net income of $10,000 or under. Sixty percent of all American corporations, by the way, fall into this category. Small businesses find it difficult to borrow money at reasonable rates and are therefore forced to rely increasingly on "retained earnings" to finance continuing operations and to expand capacity. The wage-earner has a real stake in the adequate financing of small businesses, which is demonstrated by the fact that almost 55% of all persons employed in manufacturing are employed by small business.

Anti-monopoly action — Three of the seven provisions of the new program strengthen the anti-trust laws. One would remove all doubt that it is illegal on the part of major suppliers to require their lessees and contract dealers to waive their legal rights to sue for damages resulting from their suppliers' anti-trust violations. A second would guarantee that a small businessman could sue for treble damages under the anti-trust laws even when the Justice Department concludes an anti-monopoly of restraint-of-trade case with a consent judgment—increasingly the custom. Thirdly, I propose that anti-trust judgments and orders be regularly published in the Federal Register—permitting full public view of the offenses and the penalties meted out to anti-trust violators.

Cut-throat competition — Two of the seven bills would give additional protection against cut-throat price competition—prohibiting "loss leader" sales of merchandise under the "delivered cost" to a dealer, and strengthening the prohibition against sales at unreasonably low prices where the effect may be to injure competition.

Highway condemnation — Seventh in my Small Business Program is a bill to assist an estimated 50,000 small businessmen who are expected in the next few years to be forced to relocate by condemnation procedures under the Federal Highway construction program. It would extend the existing Disaster Loan Program of long-term, 3% loans to small businessmen caught in the middle of this Federal program, through no fault of their own, exactly as similar loans are provided to small businessmen suffering from the effects of earthquake, flood, or other natural disaster.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

There is at present before the state legislature a program of bills designed to improve traffic safety that should receive serious attention and support. Letters I receive from citizens of Minnesota indicate that they are deeply interested in improving our safety record. I hope that the legislature will respond to public sentiment by enacting a constructive package of safety laws.

Driver Education

There is one bill that would require every high school district to provide a complete driver education course for all persons between the ages of 15 and 18. Most people favor this measure, but there is not so much agreement on how to pay for such education. Our proposal is to add an additional dollar to the cost of license plates, and another is to add a small tax on motor vehicle insurance premiums.

Some Bills Unopposed

Some of the safety bills seem to have no opposition, and should pass without any controversy. One such bill would make it illegal for anyone to drink intoxicating liquor or non-intoxicating malt liquors in motor vehicles on highways, or to carry open bottles in motor vehicles. Another would prohibit the placing of various objects in any position in any automobile where they might possibly obstruct the view. When this bill passes we will no longer see toys, charms, and other such articles hanging from rear view mirrors.

Tests for Intoxication

One of the most controversial of the safety bills is that which would make chemical tests for intoxication compulsory after an accident in which there is reason to believe intoxication may have been the cause. The concept underlying this provision is that when a driver would apply for a driver's license, he gives his implied consent to the law which would require such a test. In the event that he should later refuse to take such a test under circumstances where it would be required, he would have to forfeit his driver's license.

Such "implied consent" laws, requiring chemical tests for intoxication, are in effect in several states, and have been held to be constitutional. Some people oppose this bill in Minnesota because they believe it would violate the rights of individuals. I believe it would be a good law and that the added protection that citizens would have against tragedies caused by drunken drivers would more than offset the restriction on individual freedom. After all we have all accepted the principle that our freedom to act must be limited to prevent our causing injury to others. And such tests would prevent innocent drivers from the charge of being intoxicated.

Safe Vehicles

I have strongly recommended a law that would require certain safety equipment, such as padded dashboards and seat belts, on all cars sold in Minnesota. Such a bill has been introduced. Another resolution has been introduced to memorialize Congress to set safety standards for vehicles throughout the United States.

Another bill is aimed at the enforcement of vehicle safety requirements that now exist by requiring periodic inspection of all motor vehicles to make sure that brakes, windshield wipers, lights, and all other safety features are in good working condition.

Safe Drivers in Safe Cars

An important proposal is one tha would empower the Commissioner of Highways to require vision tests and written tests of applicants for renewal of drivers' licenses. This would help to insure safe drivers as well as safe cars.

It takes a BIG bowl of Breakfast Food!

It does take a big bowl of cereal to meet the needs of the 33,000 northern Minnesota families who depend upon iron mining and related industries for their livelihood.

Your Minnesota neighbors in the Iron Country eat millions and millions of bowls of hot and cold cereal each year, and they spend nearly $500,000 for these cereal products.

The Iron Mining Industry, in producing iron ore, provides jobs for thousands of people in northern Minnesota—jobs which, in turn, provide markets for Minnesota farm products—markets right within Minnesota's own borders.

THIS WAS TRANSPORTATION?

Falling from one of these "high wheelers" didn't hurt you — but landing did!

The Velocipede in the picture was built in 1878, had the first ball bearings, wire wheels and solid rubber tires. It became popular in the 1880's and millions of them were sold.

Since the pedals were directly on the axle, the big wheel made it necessary to pedal less rapidly than with the earlier models.

State Bar Assn. Gives Advice on Income Tax

(This is the seventh in a series of articles on Income Tax. These articles are made available as a public service by the Minnesota Bar association, public relations committee.)

Standard Deduction

The standard or optional deduction is permitted for a taxpayer who does not wish to itemize his personal deductions. Before determining the amount of the standard deduction all deductions in connection with a business and expenses in connection with property owned to produce rents or royalties are deducted from gross income. The difference is adjusted gross income.

The standard or optional deduction is permitted for every taxpayer whether he has deductible personal expenses or not. It is limited to ten per cent of adjusted gross income or $1000 whichever is less. It is a substitute for personal deductions such as medical expenses, charitable contributions, taxes and interest.

Personal v. Business Deductions

Personal deductions are identified as those permitted by the law which are not related either to the taxpayer's business or to his investments. It is important, therefore, to keep in mind that if an automobile or a home is used partly for business and partly for personal purposes, items such as gasoline taxes, license fees, real estate taxes and mortgage interest are part business and part personal deductions. The part which is business can be deducted before you arrive at adjusted gross income. It is only the personal part that is substituted for by the standard deduction. You may find that it will save taxes to separate the business and the personal parts, itemizing the business part but taking the standard deduction rather than itemizing the personal part.

Although using the standard deduction saves time in preparing your tax return it may result in your paying more taxes than you owe. Always total your personal deductions and compare that total with your standard deduction before you make the choice. Some method of recording deductible expenses as you pay them will make this task much easier, and it may surprise you when you find how much you have paid in taxes, charitable contributions, interest and for other deductible purposes. Especially if you own your own home, you will ordinarily find it to your advantage to itemize your deductions rather than to take the standard deduction. Later articles will discuss various types of deductions and the rules you should follow to increase your deductions and reduce your tax.

(This column, based on Minnesota and Federal law, is written to inform, not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of a trained expert who knows the facts, because the facts may change the application of the law.)

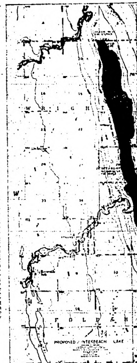
Lake Site



Shown here is the area which would be covered by the Interbeach Lake proposed for flood control and water storage in Marshall county. If established, the lake would extend north and south from the Middle River and would serve as a reservoir for spring run-off water which would be released during the summer months. It would be about 9 miles in length and from ½ to ¾ mile in width. Still in the talking stage, the lake is subject to approval by county residents. Before any action can be taken on the proposal, hearings will be held throughout the county to determine public opinion, benefits and possible damage. The lake would be established from a standpoint of soil and water conservation rather than recreation since it would not be of substantial depth for most recreational purposes. Establishment of a watershed is the first step in the program with the lake as a possibility in the watershed program. Thorough discussion will take place before any action is taken.

Curley Tables His Motion

The other night at the Rices', Curley was shaking his head over "young people," his daughter in particular.

"Can't tell her a thing," said Curley. "She wants a dining room set for a wedding present, so I said her mother might let her have ours. Beautiful set, too, only she claims it's 'out of style,' can you beat that?"

"Now, Curley," said Mrs. Rice, "you ought to know better. My mother gave us that set when we got married and I told her the same thing!"

From where I sit, no two people have the same taste in clothes, furniture — or beverages, for that matter. But we should all have respect for each other's preferences. For example, maybe you like tea or milk. Me, I prefer a glass of beer. That shouldn't prevent us from being good neighbors. Let's not be so "set" in our ways that we can't live with our differences.

U. S. Road Spending to Hit $11 Billion

1959 Total Increased Thru Federal Program

A record high of $11 billion will be spent for roads and streets by all units of government in 1959, according to E. Ray Cory, president of the Minnesota State Automobile assn.

"More than $7 billion will be spent for capital outlay—primarily construction and acquisition of right-of-way," Cory said. "The remainder will go for maintenance, now running over $2 billion annually, for administration, interest and retirement of obligations.

"Total road and street spending this year represents an increase of about 10 per cent over last year's expenditure figure of slightly under $10 billion," the AAA official added. "This increase is largely due to increased payments of federal funds under the greatly expanded national highway program which will more than offset a sharp drop in expenditures for toll facilities."

The total debt outstanding for highway purposes increased by $838 million in 1958 and has been predicted to increase an additional $738 million this year to a total of nearly $13 billion.

"This figure is almost equally divided between toll-facility debt and obligations for toll-free facilities," Cory said.

Chiropractors of State Adopt Code for Use of X-ray

Chiropractic doctors, who comprise the second largest group of users of X-ray in Minnesota, have adopted a 13 point code-of-use in order to minimize the possible effects of radiation, according to Dr. Jay R. Kallestad of Minneapolis, chairman of the radiation committee of the state chiropractic association.

"While X-ray and fluoroscopic apparatus must be properly shielded to avoid X-ray effects according to law, we believe utmost care should be taken by every user of such equipment," said Dr. Kallestad. "We have therefore released to all chiropractic doctors in the state a list of 13 requirements in the use of X-ray machines. Furthermore, we are establishing our own policing plan to insure the observance of these rules."

Congress Votes Hawaii Statehood

Several Months Needed Before Becoming State

Hawaii, paradise of the Pacific, won statehood Thursday.

Only a day behind the U. S. Senate, the House voted overwhelmingly to make Hawaii the 50th state. The vote was 323-89.

It was a ringing answer to Hawaii's half century of pleas and dreams for a place in the Union.

The statehood bill sailed through the Senate Wednesday night, 76-15. Now it goes to President Eisenhower.

There is no question of Eisenhower's signing it, or of Hawaii's accepting its terms.

But as in the case of Alaska last year, technicalities will take time. So it may be late July, possibly October, before Hawaii becomes a state, Territorial Gov. William F. Quinn said he is inclined toward the slower schedule but others will press for fast action.

In the sisterhood of state, Hawaii will rank 47th in size, 44th in population.

BOCK BEER

Bock beer is a springtime brew. There are enough versions of the origin of bock beer to entertain or confuse anyone. But the most widely accepted version is that it was first brewed in 1200 A.D. in Einbeck, Germany. Gradually the name changed to ein bock, which is German means "a goat." Hence the goat on bock beer displays.

Beer Spice Cake

This tasty spice and date cake has the piquant tang of beer added to it: Cream together ½ cup butter or margarine, and 1 cup brown sugar until light and fluffy. Stir in 1 lightly-beaten egg. Sift together 1½ cups sifted flour, 1 tsp. each of baking powder, cloves, cinnamon, allspice, and ¼ tsp. each of soda and salt. Sift dry ingredients again, over 1 cup each chopped walnuts and dates. Add to creamed mixture alternately with 1 cup beer. Pour batter into greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Bake 50 minutes or until done at 375° F.

How to Pour Beer

The best way to pour beer is to place the neck of the bottle or lip of the can over the edge of a wetted glass, and then tilt to a high angle, so the beer gurgles into the glass and a fine, dense, textured head results.

Compliments . . . 4 hours after painting!

By Harley Kelly

your hometown Paint Expert

The best thing about painting . . . whether it's a room or the whole house . . . is showing it off to your friends and hearing them say nice things about the job. Usually you have to wait for a whole day before the job is dry . . . but not with Supermix 4-Hour Enamel!

On inside jobs, this paint dries to a soft gloss just 4 hours after painting, ready for all the compliments you deserve. Yet unlike many so-called "fast-drying" paints, it flows on easily, "works in" beautifully.

Another thing, the colors (18 of 'em) keep their beauty; the white doesn't "yellow up"; and the blacks don't dull.

FREE! HAWAIIAN VACATION!

Enter our "Name the Paint" Contest. Nothing to buy. Fun. Come in for your entry blank and all the dope.

The vehicles in Supermix 4-Hour Enamel are of the durable Bakelite type of resins for the power to stand long exposure and abuse. Best of all, it sells for a good deal less than enamels of comparative quality.

Generally speaking, Supermix 4-Hour Enamel is suitable for all interior and exterior uses. It does a fine job too, on cars and lawn furniture. All in all, it's one of the finest paints we carry . . . at a price you'll like. Think about it for your next painting job. And think about us if you want some free painting help.

Director of Internal Revenue

"I'm in the best position to know how cooperative earnings are taxed!"

"I pay them!"

That's right! Cooperative earnings belong to this farmer and his neighbors who buy from the cooperative. The refunds received from the cooperative are treated just like any other item of income. There's even a special line provided in the federal income tax form for such refunds.

Cooperatives are simply departments of a farm business. A farm operator may have one such cooperative department for purchasing supplies, one for marketing grain, one for marketing milk, one for producing and distributing electric power . . . or one of several other types depending on the needs of the farm business. In each case, where the savings made by these departments add to the farmer's net income, they are taxed at the same rates we all pay.

In addition, the cooperative itself pays taxes under the same laws, at the same rates, in the same manner as any other corporation.

Architect Voices Preference for Site in Outlying Area

Building and financial committees were named at the first meeting of the [illegible] board of directors of the Valley Christian Home Sunday afternoon and the possibility of locating the new home on the outskirts of the city was discussed with an early announcement promised.

According to Waldie Christensen, chairman of the board, Randall Noper, Donald Thyren and Christ Anton will serve on the building committee and George Betto, Martin Gulbranson and L. B. Hartz will be members of the financial committee.

The meeting was attended by Marvin Denbrook of the architectural firm of Wells and Denbrook, Grand Forks. Denbrooks discussed the subject of the building's location expressing preference for sites outside of the busy downtown area.

He also recommended the formation of the committees to begin immediate work on the study of actual building plans and to negotiate with the FHA for the funds required in addition to those contributed through the local campaign.

The 13 directors present at the meeting were Christ Anton, George A. Betto, Waldie Christensen, Olger Green, M. C. Gulbranson, Carl Johnson, Herman Kjos, Randall Noper, Harry Oen, Rufus Olson, John Steiger, Joseph Swan and Donald Thyren.

In addition to the board members, the meeting was attended by Stuart McLeod, city campaign chairman; Art Bartelson, county chairman; Jim Roche, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and Alfred N. Larson, superintendent of the Valley Christian Home.

Two Local Banks Offer Scholarship

To Help Finance Student at Ag School in St. Paul

For the past nine years, the bankers of Minnesota have been encouraging young men who plan to farm to acquire as much education as possible beyond high school. As a result, a scholarship is available in Pennington county to a young man who intends to make farming his life career.

The local banks have each contributed a proportionate share to a fund that will send one young man to the School of Agriculture on the St. Paul campus of the University of Minnesota for a two year non-degree course. The fund provides $200 each year to the man selected.

The main object of the program is to select a man who has no plans to pursue a course leading to a college degree or has no plans of any kind regarding education beyond high school. Information and application forms are in the hands of the county agent, the vo-ag instructors and Northern State bank and Union State bank of this city.

N.W. Law Officers to Make Intensive Drive on Juvenile Drinking

County sheriffs and peace officers from Northwest Minnesota picked five major problems to discuss at a meeting in Roseau Thursday. Their talks resulted in a plan for greater uniformity and efficiency in law enforcement for this part of the state; and for more integrated use of police radio, says the Roseau Times-Region.

Named biggest headaches for law officers were juvenile drinking, violations of legal hours by dance operators; petty larceny; illegal juvenile driving and a general shorage of enforcement manpower.

They agreed that the letter of the law, which reads that dances shall stop promptly at 12 p.m. Saturday nights and 1 a.m. week nights, will be uniformly enforced. Discussion revealed that when a number of dances are held in a county it is impossible for the sheriff to keep tab on every one. Therefore some may run later than the legal hour.

They agreed that dance "cops" should be made responsible to the sheriffs and that frequent "spot checks" will be made in all the counties. They will often be made by officials of several counties working together whenever it is felt this is necessary, they agreed.

They pointed out that wedding dances and so-called "party dances" are supposed to close at the legal hour. Whenever money is passed at a dance (and that includes passing the hat) it falls under state law, they said. Having a barn dance and calling it a party will not enable operators to permit dancing past the legal hour, the officials emphasized.

Juvenile drinking came in for extensive discussion. One sheriff reported he had apprehended one car of teenagers with 72 cans

A total of 206 identification numbers were mailed out Tuesday by the Thief River Falls fire department to as many farms in North and Rocksbury townships, which receive fire protection from the local department, it was announced today by Fire Chief Roy Langevin.

The numbers are printed on tabs, and in an accompanying letter Langevin asked that they be attached to the farmer's telephone, so that in the event fire breaks out, he can call the fire department, giving the number of his farm. The department has a record of the location of each numbered farm, enabling the firemen to find it without detailed instructions.

Junior College Bill Advances in Lower House

Appropriations Committee Is Now Studying Measure

Gov. Freeman's proposal for a six-million-dollar construction fund for expansion of junior colleges in the state Monday was approved by the house education committee.

The bill now goes to the house appropriations committee for study.

The Liberal-controlled education committee approved the bill to provide state funds for expansion of present junior colleges and for construction of new ones. The bill calls for a 50-50 matching basis with the local municipalities.

A similar bill has undergone extensive hearings in the senate education committee, but no action has been taken.

Supporters of a resolution calling for establishment of four-year University of Minnesota college branches at Morris and Crookston failed Tuesday in an attempt to get a vote on the matter by the Senate education committee.

Decision was delayed until the next meeting of the committee after Sens. Gordon Rosenmeier of Little Falls and Donald Wright of Minneapolis questioned whether the taxpayers are prepared to underwrite the cost.

Dean Theodore H. Fenske of the university said, in response to questions, that university regents have adopted a resolution expressing willingness to convert the agricultural schools in Morris to four-year colleges if money is provided.

The resolution before the committee proposes starting college courses in the fall of 1960.

Council Says Go Ahead with West Storm Sewer

Group Unanimously in Favor of Project South of Sixth st.

The Thief River Falls "Battle of Bunker Hill" is over at last.

Despite some individual threats of impending violence and legal action, the city council voted 5-0 Tuesday night to direct the engineer to draw up plans and specifications for the construction of a storm sewer system for district three in accordance with the alternate proposal presented at an informal meeting March 3.

Council president Bob Carlson limited discussion on the subject to a half hour with the preface that there had been prolonged discussions previously which had given all interested parties an opportunity to present arguments. Reviewing the alternate proposal, he called for further discussion.

Protestors were in the majority and were again led by Martin Bothun, 941 Arnold ave. N. Bothun again vehemently protested against any assessment of property north of Sixth st. which, he claimed, would not be benefited by the project. Charging that the project was being put through to enable the engineer (D. H. Stewart) to collect a $25,000 fee, Bothun warned the council, "Don't try to come up and collect from me." Calling the area south of Sixth st. "unsanitary," Bothun directed the council to "work down there where they need it."

He was followed by others, one who presented a petition with the names of 47 residents south of Sixth st. who objected to the construction and assessment. One member of the audience, a pensioner, declared that he could not pay the assessment and would sell his house and move out of town if the project was approved. Others claimed that their property would not be benefited.

A representative of the Great Northern Railway company again registered his firm's objection on the grounds that it would cost more than the benefits which would be derived.

The resolution to direct the engineer to prepare the plans and specifications was offered by Alderman Roy Lee and seconded by Alderman S. A. Honebrink. There were no abstentions or opposing votes on the roll call.

Following the vote, protestors slowly left the council chamber still voicing their disapproval of the project and the city council and threatening law suits and violence if an attempt was made to collect the special assessment.

The alternative proposal approved by the council calls for the construction of a storm sewer system in district three up to and including lateral on Sixth st. The project, which has been estimated to cost $297,000, calls for raising $140,000 by special

Check Rocket Before Firing

With Richard Twaddle, left, science instructor of the Goodridge school, these members of the science club prepare the "Big Rajah I" for firing Wednesday afternoon. Andy Wells, second from right, the rocket's designer and builder, checks the radio transmitter in the nose of the rocket as John Lease and Gerald Kiesow, other club members, look on. The "Rajah", after a brief flight, landed in the street in front of the Elg garage.

Goodridge Pupils Fail in Attempt to Launch Rocket on Wednesday

"Big Rajah I" blasted off its launching pad west of the Goodridge school Tuesday afternoon at 1500 hours, did a 90-degree turn, dropped its radio transmitter and crashed into the street in front of Elg's garage.

"Rajah" was the brainchild of Andy Wells, a 10th grade pupil in the Goodridge school and a member of the school's science club which has a membership of three boys and four girls.

An ambitious undertaking, the latest in a series of four rockets, was 3½ feet long, contained a transistorized radio, and a parachute to bring it to earth safely and three smoke trailers to make it visible in flight. Earlier smaller rockets had all had successful flights and it was hoped that the Rajah would climax all the efforts.

In a plexiglass tube on the nose of the rocket was the homemade radio, powered by three penlite batteries to send a signal back to the crystal receiver in the "blockhouse." The main body of the rocket, a piece of electrical conduit of one-inch diameter, was loaded with the propellant charge—a five-pound mixture of sulphur and zinc dust. The three-foot parachute, which was to be released when the rocket reached the end of its flight, was checked and the wires from a six-volt battery and Model T coil, were laid to ignite the rocket.

With John Lease, Gerald Kiesow and Richard Twaddle, science instructor of the school and sponsor of the club, Wells went through his check list and the immediate area was cleared of spectators.

Following the count-down, the rocket's designer and builder closed the switch lighting the rocket. For a brief moment, it remained on the stand, then with a terrific roar blasted into the air, did a 90-degree turn close overhead and headed for the downtown district of Goodridge.

Wells and Lease went northeast in search of the radio transmitter and Twaddle went southeast in search of the rocket itself.

"The equipment must have thrown it off balance," Twaddle explained later. "We'll get that fixed up and I know that Andy will have better luck next time."

Chamber to Hear Backers of Sales Tax This Evening

Two Minneapolis Men to Present Arguments; Rep. Wichterman May Oppose

Two advocates of the enactment of a Minnesota sales tax as a means of lightening the increasingly heavy burden of property taxes will present their arguments at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce this evening at 6:30 in the Elks club rooms.

J. M. Roche, chamber secretary, stated that the speakers will be John Barker, chief tax accountant for General Mills, Minneapolis, and Wm. Krog, Jr., field representative of the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce.

At its February meeting the local chamber heard arguments against a sales tax presented by Rep. Ben Wichterman of Plummer. Roche said that Wichterman also had been invited to share in tonight's discussion, but that there is some doubt that he will be able to leave St. Paul now that the lower house of the legislature has inaugurated evening sessions.

Native Tells Rotary about Life in Iceland

Coming from the nation of Iceland, Gimur Josafatsson may be expected by many from this country to feel right at home at this season of the year but the tall, young merchandising trainee amused the Rotary club Monday noon when he said that he was "not used to this terribly cold weather."

Josafatsson, who hails from the town of Hveragerdi inland from the nation's capital city of Reykjavik, is in the United States for a one-year study of merchandising techniques. Prior to coming to Thief River Falls in January, he spent four months studying hard lines merchandising. Following four months here at Penney's, he will finish his study with four months training in supermarket operation. He is sponsored by the American Scandinavian foundation.

Rotarians heard Josafatsson describe his country as a nation half the size of North Dakota with a total population of 165,000. First settled by people from Norway in the ninth century, Iceland was a republic which came under the Norwegian and Danish flags, but again became a republic after World War I. The average January temperature is 30 degrees, and in July is 52 degrees. The country has many volcanoes and water from hot springs is used to heat many homes and to warm swimming pools.

Iceland has no railroads but many automobiles, no illiteracy and never has there been a case of kidnaping or bank robbery, according to the speaker. Many American products are in use in the country which has not had unemployment since 1940.

Questioned as the the growth of the nation, Josafatsson said that many young people left Iceland 80 or 80 years ago to live in Canada and the United States but that much of this emigration has stopped. He cited the growth of population from 98,000 in 1920 to 165,000 today.

Skiing is the most popular winter sport, he said, and little skating is done because of the warmer temperature.

The Rotarians set April 6 as the date for their annual Rotary Ann banquet and also discussed participation in the annual Athletic banquet.

Sheriff's Police Chiefs of Area in Session at Roseau of strong beer, two fifths of vodka and a fifth of whiskey. Most of them were under 16. "This problem does not restrict itself to delinquents," he said, "most of these kids were from good families!"

Late dances increase the possibility of juvenile delinquency, the men agreed.

A crackdown with full prosecution of those procuring or furnishing intoxicants to juveniles was declared as was full prosecution of the juveniles caught drinking. The officers felt that publication of names of offenders served a useful purpose.

More routine checks of teen drivers will be made to see that they are complying with the law which says no drivers under 17 may be on the roads past midnight unless accompanied by an adult.

Police radio will play an increasingly important part in the area plan. Officers plan to use the network to give immediate notice of burglaries and other offenses in their particular areas. They will also keep note of strange licenses and co-ordinate information obtained through the state highway patrol network.

They will also be on immediate call to assist one another in order to concentrate forces when there is need.

A coordinated effort against petit larceny will be made by all enforcement officers in the area. Non-matching hubcaps and other items will be checked and sources checked down, they agreed.

The meeting, first of its kind in this section of the state, was hosted by Roseau County Sheriff Paul Knochenmus and was attended by Carl M. Knutson, sheriff of Polk county; Oscar W. Erickson, sheriff of Marshall county; Charles R. Richards, sheriff of Pennington county; L. M. Graham, Minnesota Crime Bureau; Milan R. Sorenson, deputy, Marshall county, Elton C. Cummings, chief of police, Thief River Falls, Theodore J. Heyen, chief of police, Warren; Hector Reese, chief of police, Greenbush, and Carl Erikson, chief of police, Roseau.

Variety of Offenses Bring Men into Court

Monday's session of municipal court featured appearance of 12 persons with a wide variety of charges lodged against them as they faced Judge H. O. Chommie.

LaVerne Rambeck, city, pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and was sentenced to 90 days in jail, suspended, $6.50 costs paid; Loren Jasperson, Plummer, pleaded guilty to the same charge and was fined $15 plus $5.50 costs. Both the above were brought to court by Sheriff Charles Richards.

Also brought by Richards was Thomas Whipple, 17, Minneapolis, who was arrested last Friday for alleged check forgery. Whipple's case was transferred to juvenile court due to his age and action will be taken later this week, according to Probate Judge Herman Kjos.

The lone highway patrol case was that of Russell R. Rux, rt. 5, who was fined $5 plus $4 costs for not displaying 1958 license tabs.

City police cases accounted for the balance of the hearings. Larry Wold, city, paid $5 fine plus $4 costs after pleading guilty to making an improper U turn.

William H. Watzke, city, pleaded guilty to failure to display 1959 tabs and was fined $9, as was Ralph R. Hill, city. However, due to circumstances Hill's fine was suspended.

Hilliard Koop, rt. 5, and Clarence R. Wangsness, rt. 1, Henning, Minn., each pleaded guilty to speeding and were each fined $10 plus $4 costs.

Roy F. Gjovik, Strathcona, pleaded guilty to failure to yield the right-of-way and was fined $10 plus $4. Gjovik was involved in an accident which led to the charge against him.

Allan A. Hamilton, Roseau, forfeited bond of $19 on a charge of possession of beer by a minor. David L. Rogers, city, pleaded guilty to a speeding charge and was fined $20 and on the additional charge of running a stop sign was fined $9.

In a special hearing held before Judge Chommie Tuesday, Cyrus F. Hesse, rt. 3, Red Lake Falls, pleaded guilty to driving under the influence of liquor and was fined $100 plus $5 costs and his drivers' license was revoked.

In a special hearing Wednesday, after a plea of guilty to assault by the defendant, Judge Chommie sentenced Frank Rohrer, Goodridge, to 15 days in jail plus $4 costs, paid. Rohrer's term was suspended on conditions set forth by the judge.

Council Approves West Side Storm Sewer Project

assessments. A 50 by 140 foot lot south of Sixth st. would be assessed $266 and one north of that line would be assessed $14 to pay for the oversizing of the mains to provide an outlet for future expansion of the system to the north.

In other business, the selection of an alderman to replace Stan Sandvig, whose resignation became effective March 1, was unresolved when the interpretation of the law regarding the council vote was brought up. Olaf Dahlen, 113 Arnold ave. No., and Ralph Hunt, 111 Horace ave. N., were nominated and the vote was 3 to 2 in favor of Dahlen. Alderman Al Rau and E. B. Benson claimed that a majority of the entire council of six members was necessary to elect Dahlen and Alderman Roy Lee, S. A. Honebrink and council president Bob Carlson affirmed their belief that a majority of the present council of five members was all that was necessary. In absence of Robert Wurst, city attorney, the vote was allowed to stand until an adjourned meeting March 23.

The bid of the General Electric company of $7,100 to rewire a generator at the power plant was accepted by the council in preference to the bid of the Westinghouse corporation of $7,848 for the work. The bid of R. E. Burmeister Electric company of $1,591.20 to furnish meter testing equipment was also accepted.

Low bidder on a carload of western cedar poles for the distribution of electric power was the W. H. Electric Supply company of Fargo with a total cost of $1,962.40. Other bids were $2,218.20 by the Duall Service company, $2,256.20 by J. H. Baxter and Co., $2,135.60 by Thompson-Stolle, $2,310 by MacGillis and Gibbs company and $2,063.60 by Joslyn Manufacturing and Supply.

All bids for two trucks were tabled until the adjourned meeting March 23. Bids received for a two-ton truck for the street department were; $2,924 by Tunberg Motor company, $2,880 by Forkenbrock Motor company, $2,976 by Northern Chevrolet, Inc., $2,995 by Gustafson and Son, Inc., and $2,960 by the Wiener Top and Body Works.

Bids received for a three-quarter ton truck for the park department were; $2,398 by Northern Chevrolet, Inc., $2,422.85 by Forkenbrock Motor company, $2,366 by Tunberg Motor company, and $2,530.20 by the Wiener Top and Body Works. All bids included the trade-in of the present truck.

Three bids for work on the comfort station at Riverside park were accepted and work will begin on the facility as soon as frost is out of the ground. Victor Besanson's bid of $4,263.78 for the general contract was accepted as well as the $2,490 bid of the Ripley Plumbing and Heating company for the plumbing work and the OP Electric company bid of $153 for the electrical wiring. The comfort station, was recommended five years ago but action had never been taken to carry out the project.

All bids for a new police car were rejected by the council which proposed that the present car be overhauled. The purchase of a two-way radio for installation in the personal car of the police chief to be used during periods of extra demand was approved.

The council approved the engineer's plans and specifications for putting the fourth filter bed in the water treatment plant into operation and called for bids for equipment and piping. Bids will be opened April 21.

The application of Edward Fisher for the position of janitor at the liquor dispensary was approved effective April 1 and the final reading of the amendment to the city ordinance for better control of dogs was made.

The application of Howard Sletten to move a house from the site of the new Hartz warehouse to 1217 Duluth ave. N. was approved as well as his application to make $1,000 in improvements. Other permits approved included one by the First Baptist church at 414 Horace ave. N. to build a $39,000 brick-faced church on the present basement; one by Kenneth Muzzy, 205 Markley ave. S., for a $2,000 addition to his dwelling; Peterson-Biddick company application for a $500 improvement to its main elevator consisting of a nine-foot addition to its top; and the application of the Aaseby garage for $11,000 in improvements consisting of new walls and the replacement of the roof.

Two licenses were approved by the council in final action. The application of Harwood F. Olson to do electrical work was approved as well as the application of Ole Fladeland to operate a taxi service.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor The Times:

There have been some pretty tall stories told about logging.

I don't know if I am able to top them.

Fifty-two years ago an Dec. 12, a man named I. Can. Haulitt, a log hauler and a heavy loader, but I don't think he had fifty-two thousand feet on the load.

The load was so heavy that when it passed over the road, the road sank down so the trees that were standing along the road leaned over so much that they blocked the road.

So I. Can. Haulitt could not get back to camp and he must have decided to take a short cut through the woods. It was never known what became of him until three years ago, when some berry pickers found remnants of his outfit in a blueberry swamp.

This story is rather short so I will supplement it with another.

There were three lumberjacks sitting on the sidewalk. Talking about strong men, one said: "You know, I have a brother who is so strong he can pick up a railroad steel, lay it on his shoulder, carry around, then lay it down and twist it up like it was hay."

"That's nothing," the other man said," I got a brother who is so strong he went out in the woods, took two oak trees, one in each hand, rubbed them together until they were all sawdust."

"Oh, that is nothing," the third man said, "I got a brother who is so strong he will go out in the pasture and take two bulls, one in each hand, rub them together till they are all bullburger."

Come to think that these tall logging stories add up to just a lot of bull-burger.

Editor The Times:

I got quite a charge out of Mack Draper's candid comments last week, in which his plea was for the practice of the Golden Rule in favor of daylight saving time. I am sure the Golden Rule needs to be quite elastic so that it is able to stretch across the prejudices and predilections of those who want to apply it.

From where I sit I do not see how you can make more daylight hours than what there are, regardless what time you call it. Soon daylight will start at 4 a.m. with our present time. The only trouble is that too many townsmen don't have enough initiative to get up and enjoy it. You take Mack, for instance, why couldn't he get his lawn mower rolling an hour before breakfast. It would be good for him and he would come in and eat his eggs and bacon with zest. If the grass was wet, he probably could rummage around in that back shed and find a pair of hunting boots.

Surely by his own yardstick it should not be too much to expect him to cut his two-by-two lawn on the dew when he wants to add an hour of dew cutting to a farmer's many acres of both grass and grain. Or if his petunias need weeding or he wants to add to his soil depleting acreage by puting out an asparagus bed, what better time could he find than that hour before he goes to work.

I like to work in the early morning and when I drive for some distance, the hours from four to eight a.m. are the best hours of the day, but when it comes to doing the many farm jobs that take sufficient cooperation of the sun for doing—that I will leave to Mack. Now if he cuts his grass before breakfast this summer, I am sure he will be in a better position to speak for the farmer next year than he was last week.

Last summer I tried to find a way to best live in a world of artificially created time. I tried keeping my watch on standard time and I tried calling 1 o'clock DST noon hour, but in the end I found myself so interrelated to other segments of the community that in some operations I found myself with forenoons so short that it was hardly worth going to the fields and afternoons that were long and tiring.

According to the Minneapolis Tribune survey, four-fifths of the farmers were against DST and agriculture is still a major business in this State. I hope you farmers will make your wish felt in St. Paul and I also hope that my business friends will start their interpretation of the Golden Rule from the farmers' point of view.

Lester Gustafson Named President of Knox PTA Unit

Miss Mary Demetrellou, Exchange Student Here, Tells of Life in Greece

Knox PTA met on Monday evening in the school gymnasium with Dr. Dan Greene presiding. Rev. Joseph Swanstrom led in devotions.

Officers elected for the coming year include: President, Lester Gustafson; vice president, Jack Edmiston; secretary, Mrs. Loren Adolphson; and treasurer, Mrs. Arnold Larson.

Dr. Greene presented some recommendations from the Thief River Falls PTA council, among which the council advises that 10c be set aside from Knox PTA dues next year to be used for a local scholarship fund. All local schools are asked to participate.

The program was introduced by Gene Manning and included several musical selections by the high school girls' sextet composed of Gloria Bushaw, Yvonne Olson, Carol St. Martin, Rosemary Stoske and Judy Anderson. Accompanist was Shirley Peterson.

Guest speaker was Miss Mary Demetrellou, 18-year-old foreign exchange student from Patras, Greece, who is making her home with the Dr. J. W. Ewing family while in this city.

Miss Demetrellou gave an interesting description of her homeland, stating that her native city, Patra, has a climate similar to California. She had never seen snow before coming over to this country. Homes in Greece do not need heat as there is mostly sunshine and the coldest weather is 30 degrees above zero.

Regarding education, 80% go to Greek high school, while 40% continue through college, she said. The educational system differs from ours in that each student takes 13 subjects and there are no elective subjects.

In Greece, the method of studying is different as students have to memorize their lessons after which they go up on a platform and recite them from memory. Miss Demetrellou said that this was difficult with subjects such as geometry, algebra, chemistry or physics. Students can also attend the vocational schools located there. Miss Demetrellou stated, that when 13 years of age she studied the same book as the seniors use here now.

Tribute was paid to her foster family and teachers by Miss Demetrellou. She said that everyone has been very willing to help her understand American customs, the American family, etc.

Coffee was served by the 1st grade mothers, and the traveling cookie jar was won by Mrs. [illegible]'s 1st grade room.

CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Thief River Falls, Minnesota

Pursuant to adjournment the Council of the City of Thief River Falls, Minnesota, was called to order at eight o'clock P. M., March 2, 1959 in the Council Chambers, without a quorum. Alderman Rau and Carlson were present. Aldermen Benson, Honebrink and Lee were absent. The meeting was intended to continue the hearing in the matter of proposed construction of Storm Sewers in Storm Sewer District No. 3.

The President stated that due to lack of quorum no official action could be taken at this time.

Approximately 40 interested parties were present. City Engineer D. H. Stewart was present and filed a Memoranda on Proposed West Side Storm Sewer Project, dated March 2nd and explained to the persons present that the Council is now considering construction of the system up to and including the 6th Street Lateral which would eliminate basement flooding and construction under this proposal would be so designed that as demand for street improvements in the area north of 6th Street increase, the present proposed construction could be extended north to serve the balance of the district. The memoranda set forth a total cost of the project at $297,000.00, with credit for municipal State Aid and general obligation of $102,610.00, less Trunk Highway Share and Municipal State Aid of 453,659, leaving a balance to be assessed of $140,410.00. A 50-foot frontage lot in the area would be assessed at $200.00, with an assessment of $44.00 for a 50 x 140 foot lot to be levied against properties in the area north of Sixth Street, the approximate cost of oversizing present construction to accommodate future extension of the system.

A written protest was filed with the Clerk by Martin Bothun, dated March 2nd, stating objection to any assessment against his property 911 North Arnold Avenue, in connection with such proposed construction. A petition was also filed with the Clerk by Felix Chambois, Marvin Borgen, Irvin Brenna and others, residing in the area south of Sixth Street, protesting any assessment against their properties as proposed.

The meeting and hearing was then declared adjourned to March 17th, 1959 at eight o'clock P.M.

Sportsmen's Club Met Tuesday Night

Orville Hanson Takes over Treasurer Duties

A considerable amount of business was disposed of at the regular monthly meeting of the Pennington County Sportsmen's club held Tuesday in the lower assembly room of the city auditorium. Approximately 65 members were in attendance.

Among the more important matters disposed of was a discussion of the club's charter and by-laws. Incorporation of the club was approved by the members, this not having been previously done.

A club treasurer was appointed, this not having been done at the annual election held last fall. Named to the post was Orville Hanson of the Northern State Bank. It was also announced that club jacket emblems were available and several were sold to members present at the meeting.

Plans for the future also came up for discussion. Two committees were named, a land committee to look for a future clubhouse site, and a promotion or ways and means committee to lay plans for the proposed clubhouse. No definite date for construction has been set but other groups have been contacted for possible cooperation in the project.

A conservation film, "This is Our Land," was shown and Russ Cullins entertained the members with music and imitations following the business session. A lunch was served after the meeting.

Third Event's Trophy Winners

By a 9 to 8 score the Ray (Streamline) Olson rink defeated the Everett Kompelien rink to win the third event honors in last week's bonspiel. The Ray Olson rink, left to right, Mrs. Charlie (Hazel) Smith, Charlie Smith, skip Ray Olson, and John Jaranson.

Sweepstakes

The Northern Chevrolet's singles bowling tournament, bowled in the Family Bowl lanes for the past month or two on a weekly schedule, came to a close last Sunday with the John (Snort) Langseth vs. Gene Leslie match. Langseth piled up a 597-pin total to edge out Leslie who rolled a 588-pin total, by nine pins.

Leslie, having a "blow" and a pair of splits, chalked up an ordinary 169-pin score in the first game of the match, and when Langseth rolled a consistent 194, Gene found himself with a 25-pin deficit. The two bowlers cracked the 200-pin mark in the second game, with Snort having a 214 and Gene a 201. As they entered the third and final game of the match, Langseth held a commanding 35-pin lead, but Leslie gave it a good try as he rolled a fine 218 score to Langseth's 189.

On Sunday afternoon, according to present plans, all eleven of the original starters—Ambrose Wysoski, Lloyd Samuelson, Del Harbott, Jesse DuChamp, Marv Washnesky, Leif Erickson, Pat Poole, Phil LeGault, John Langseth, Wally DuChamp, and Gene Leslie—will compete in a three-game total-pins free-for-all, with the winner gathering in the prize money. Sunday's session should provide some top-flight bowling.

In Retirement

The Times carried an item on Monday stating that William H. (Chesty) Halbert of Drake, N. D., had, after a 45-year career the Soo Line, retired.

Chesty, of course, is well-known to the railroad fraternity in these parts, and he is especially well-known to the old time baseball fans here. Halbert, a native of Pennsylvania, came up here in 1913 and immediately made a name for himself on the baseball field. Chesty was a stellar southpaw pitcher, and in addition he was a slick and graceful first baseman, and a strong batsman. He must be rated with the city's all-time baseball greats.

Prior to his World War I service, Halbert was signed to a Pittsburgh Pirates baseball contract. Unfortunately Chesty suffered an arm injury during the Allied games in France, "throwing out" his arm while pitching and winning a game on a cold and damp autumn afternoon.

Well, we hope that Chesty has a long and enjoyable retirement.

The All-Regional Team

A canvass of the regional basketball scorebook, and after a discussion on the abilities of the various players that participated in the Region Eight tournament at Grand Forks, it's our opinion that the following boys would make a representative all-regional team: Don Engelsrud, Newfolden, forward; Gary Strowbridge, Bemidji, forward; Merle Hasz, Ada, center; Roger McWaters, Crookston, guard; and Bob Glas, Bemidji, guard.

Engelsrud, a junior, had a 20-point effort in the Nordics loss to Bemidji in a first round game, and in the consolation tilt, against Ada, he scored 18 points. Strowbridge, a senior, proved a steady scorer for the winning Bemidji team, tallying 17 points against Newfolden, and scoring 14 points in the finals against Crookston. Hasz, a powerful player and a strong rebounder, spearheaded the Ada Vikings.

McWaters, playing with his left shoulder in a harness, was the high scorer for coach Al Droen's Crookston Pirates, scoring 17 points against Ada in the first round, and 16 points against Bemidji in the finals. Glas, of course, scored the game-winning points for Bemidji, but those three points were only part of the 14 that he tallied against the Pirates. Against Newfolden, in a first round game, Glas scored 15 points.

We would also add to this team, for special defensive assignments, Bemidji's Jim Vickery. And, too, we should find a place on this team, for his playmaking ability, and rebounding strength, for Crookston's Billy Taylor.

A Thankless Task

Alan Adams, coach of the Prowler varsity basketball squad for the past five years, last week tendered his resignation as cage mentor to Superintendent Irwin Mickelson. Adams, while giving up his coaching duties, will remain on the high school faculty.

Since George Lee coached the Prowlers to a state high school basketball title in 1938, and then moved on to Eveleth, the Prowlers have had six basketball coaches.

John Lindenmeyer succeeded Lee as football and basketball coach, and held the job for three years before being called into war service. Harry Newby was here for a year, and then, after Willard Kottke had been engaged as coach and had been here through the football season and barely into the basketball season, he, Kottke, received his "greetings" and left for army duty.

Glenn Hanna, the former Moorhead high school coach, replaced Kottke. Following the war, Lindenmeyer returned for two years of coaching, but then he resigned to return to Air Force duty. Bob Nick became Prowler cage coach, and handled the reins for six years. Ralph Skay put in one year as basketball coach, and then, in 1954, Adams picked up the coaching duties.

During the five years that Adams has been at the basketball helm, the Prowlers have marked up 60 victories while losing 47 games. The won-and-loss records of the Prowler cagers since 1954 are as follows: 8 and 12 in 1954-55; 11 and 10 in 1955-56; 15 and 9 in 1956-57; 12 and 11 in 1957-58; and 14 and 5 in 1958-59. The Prowlers of 1956-57 won the 31st district title and were regional runners-up, and the 57-58 club was district runner-up.

Athletic coaching, and basketball coaching in particular, is a thankless job.

D. Offerdahl Tops Thieves Scorers in Season's Play

Wingman Accounts for 22 Points; Al Steenerson Is 2nd and Markstrom 3rd

DelRay Offerdahl, right wing on the Gordy Bjerken line, led the senior hockey Thieves in point-scoring during the Northwest hockey league season, compiling a point-total of twenty-two, having eight goals and fourteen assists.

Al Steenerson proved to be the club's leading goal-getter, with the smooth-skating wingman having a total of nine goals, which with his eleven assists, gave him a point-total of 20.

Marvin (Monty) Markstrom, centering the Darryl Durgin and Glenn Carlson line, had a point total of eighteen, scoring eight goals and having ten assists.

Durgin and Carlson, who joined the club midway in the season, were in the lower levels of the scoring ladder.

Apathy Is Threat to Gains in Polio Fight, Says Health Agency

Recent progress against paralytic polio is threatened by the fact that only half the U. S. population under the age of 40 has had the full series of Salk inoculations, Health Information Foundation declared in New York.

In its monthly statistical bulletin, Progress in Health Services, the Foundation pointed out that the number of cases of paralytic polio rose in 1958 after declining each year since the introduction of the Salk vaccine in 1955.

"Public apathy about the injections may be an unfortunate result of scientific progress," said George Bugbee, Foundation president. "Recent advances against polio have been so striking that many people may look upon it as a disease of the past."

Up to a few years ago, the Foundation reported, "Polio was a widespread and constantly increasing danger, and little could be done to control it." The number of cases in this country rose steadily through the first of the century, reaching a peak of almost 58,000 in 1952.

With the coming of the Salk vaccine, however, the incidence dropped sharply, and in 1957 only 5,500 cases (including 2,500 paralytic) were reported. "The evidence is now overwhelming," said the Foundation report "that the full series of three or more Salk inoculations provides a high level of protection from paralytic polio."

"Provisional figures for 1958 indicate that the number of case rose to more than 6,000, including 3,100 paralytic cases. Most of last year's victims were persons who had not been fully vaccinated, and local epidemics were concentrated among the less advanced socio-economic groups, where levels of vaccination were lowest.

"The major problem today is to bring the benefits of the Salk vaccine to the entire population, especially those under age 40," the Foundation stated. Estimates by the National Foundation for the end of 1958 indicates that 41 million persons in this age group had not been vaccinated at all, and an additional 16 million were incompletely vaccinated."

Minnesota Leads All States in Sale of Fish Licenses

Because 1,053 more fishing licenses were sold in Minnesota than in California, Minnesota was enabled to top the list of states in fishing licenses sold, during the fiscal year 1958. Leading all 49 states Minnesota sold 1,409,751 fishing licenses during the fiscal year 1957-58 with California a close runner-up with 1,408,698. Wisconsin with sales of 1,111,579 and Michigan with 1,109,434 took third and fourth places. Last state on the fishing pole rung was Delaware reporting 11,322 sales.

Hunting licenses showed a national decline of 154,000 for the same period.

Minnesota, reporting sales of 509,369 hunting licenses for the fiscal year of 1957-58, retained its ninth place, with other states. Michigan lead the states with hunting licenses sales totaling 1,154,851.

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service reported a combined total of 34,941,729 licenses sold to sportsmen in 1958 exceeding all previous records.

State Pedestrian Deaths Drop in '58

Total Is 101, Compared to 104 Previous Year

Despite the highest toll of traffic deaths for any year, when Minnesota totaled 707 traffic deaths last year, the number of pedestrians killed in traffic dropped from 104 to 101, roughly three per cent. This compares with a three percent rise in total fatalities from 685 to 707.

Motor vehicle accidents involving pedestrians rose 156, from 1,751 in 1957 to 1,907 during 1958. The number of pedestrians injured increased 10 per cent as 182 more persons were reported injured, reaching a total of 1,896 in 1958 compared to 1,174 in 1957.

The Minnesota Highway department reported that pedestrian error played a large part in the accidents, as 1,090 of the 1,907 pedestrian accidents reported to its Accident Records section occurred between intersections at times when cars were going straight.

Nine fatal accidents occurred when cars were in backing or turning movements.

The 1958 total of 101 was the lowest since the middle of World War II and continues the downward trend in pedestrian fatalities, which had ranged up to 180 during the late 1940's.

Pastors Told How to Get Social Security

Clergymen who have not previously exercised their option to obtain old-age, survivors, and disability insurance coverage under the provisions of the Social Security Act, and wish to do so, have until April 15, 1959, to file Waiver Certificate Form No. 2031 with the department of internal revenue.

Any minister or member of a religious order who has been duly ordained, licensed, or commissioned, and has not taken a vow of poverty, who files the Form 2031 with the internal revenue service by the above date will be mandatorily covered beginning with the year 1956, as well as for subsequent years for which he may have net earnings of $40 or more, any part of which is from the exercise of his ministry.

In figuring the amount of his net-earnings, the clergyman should include his regular remuneration received from his church, fees which he receives from the exercise of his ministry, the rental value of his parsonage or rental allowance he receives as part of his compensation, and and value of meals and lodging furnished him for the convenience of his employer.

If the clergyman does file the Form 2031 Waiver Certificate on or before April 15, 1959, he will also have to file amended Federal tax returns for 1956, and 1957, to include reporting his earnings as self-employment income for social security credits for those years, as well as pay the social security self-employment taxes.

The maximum amount of self-employment income to be reported for 1956, 1957 and 1958 is $4200 per year; the self-employment tax rate for 1956 is 3%; 3⅜% for 1957 and 1958. Beginning with 1959, the maximum earnings amount is increased to $4800 per year; and the self-employment social security tax rate will be 3¾%.

Seeing The Other Side

APPROACHING STANLEYVILLE
Tuesday, March 10

Alphonse and Lily Brobanders have done well with their lumber operation, and as their coffee acreage increases they expect their plantation to provide an additional source of income. The Congo has been good to them.

How good have they been to the Congo and for the natives in the remote area of the bush country in which they are the only white settlers in an area of more than 1600 square miles? This is an interesting question.

Up to now their income has come almost exclusively from the sale of mahogany. Their lumber comes from lands rented on an annual basis from the government, subject to strict government regulation and selective cutting. It takes about 500 acres a year to keep their mill operating. For this they pay a small annual rental. The main cost is the tax they pay on the basis of the volume of their harvest. Each tree is measured and each section of each tree carries a number. The Belgians are thorough.

Along with the selective cutting there is a program of reforestation, maintained as a government service.

It appears, therefore, that this lumbering operation is not destructive. No natural resource is being depleted. Alphonse says it takes from 80 to 100 years to grow a mahogany tree—a short time by the standards of Minnesota. Here, however, the trees grow all of the year. He says the area he has been harvesting will be much better mahogany land 50 and 100 years from now.

Alphonse and Lily employ about 150 natives and it is fair to ask if these natives are treated fairly. That is a difficult question to answer.

The fact that the operation has survived is proof that these white people have been getting along fairly well with their neighbors—considering the fact that they are the only whites in an area inhabited by thousands of natives, most of whom are not anxious to work. Alphonse points out, and truthfully I am sure, that the natives do not need to work. Nature, for centuries, has provided them with their simple needs. They hunt and fish, and eat of the fruits of the forest. Shelter is not an item of expense and clothing is no problem. The slight seasonal changes are taken in stride.

It therefore is understandable that in an operation of this kind, under such conditions, there has been a big labor turn-over. Many natives have hired out but after a short trial period they have decided in favor of the primitive life.

But many of the present employees have been on the company payroll a long time and they have developed a liking for pay days. For them the cost of living is not great. Working in the jungle, the fruits of the forest are still available to them. They have learned how to operate machines and to drive trucks and tractors. To some extent they probably have developed a [illegible] sense of superiority. They have acquired bicycles and a few other gadgets of civilization.

Perhaps these few will serve as the leaven that eventually will leaven the whole loaf. These bush negroes are the cousins of those who are workers in Leopoldville. I had occasion to see some of them in action.

From my hotel room I had a close-up view of a building operation. Two 8-story buildings were getting their finishing touches. I watched one crew of workers erect the steel scaffolding for the stucco men who were to start at the top and work down. On another section the stucco men were already doing their jobs. Through the open windows I could see other mechanics at their jobs, painters and carpenters, for instance.

The thing that impressed me about this performance which I observed off and on over a period of two days, was the fact that during all of that time I did not see one white boss or supervisor. Of course they were in the background, but the important thing was the fact that these workers, not more than one generation out of the bush, had made considerable progress in adjusting themselves to modern methods and in learning useful trades.

Native workers are protected by government-imposed minimum wage regulations. By our standards they are shamefully low. In the bush the minimum is 16 francs for an 8-hour day. In Leopoldville this minimum is 45 francs. A franc is worth two cents in our money. The wages are not high. The standard of living is low.

But this is the scale we must keep in mind when we consider the question of what contribution to the Congo and its natives may have been made by Alphonse and Lily. The success which they have enjoyed cannot be attributed entirely to the low pay scale. Other whites, many of them, have failed where Alphonse and Lily have succeeded.

My guess is that the success of Alphonse and Lily can be attributed mainly to their own effort and good management under extremely difficult conditions. They are rugged individualists. I am sure they are here solely for the purpose of serving their own best interests. They probably pay no more in wages than the government or circumstances require. They do not have the altruistic approach and I am sure Alphonse is a stern task-master. Lily is not a silent partner in the management of the operation. I gather that for them success will be measured almost entirely in terms of wealth and the advantages wealth will bring them.

I emphasize these things because I have them very much in mind in trying to determine whether Alphonse and Lily have been good for the Congo and its people. My present thinking is that they have made an important contribution and that the net result of their achievement will be good.

They are somewhat in the position of our pioneers who pushed out beyond the frontiers to lay the foundations for great future developments. There must be a lot of steel in the makeup of such people in order to survive.

Alphonse and Lily cannot take their plantation with them if they wish to leave. It has value only as it is worked and remains productive. There are few customers for operations of that kind and if it were to be sold it would bring far less than its real value. And by converting an area of jungle into a productive plantation they have established a pattern that will encourage others to similar ventures.

For a few of the natives this operation probably has served a useful purpose as a vocational school. For some it has brought greatly expanded horizons. It is natural for all of us to resist change, and the natives of Africa resist change. But we should not expect the impossible from them in making an adjustment in one generation to that which we accomplished only by centuries of trial and error.

School Milk Program

Some concern has recently been called to our attention relative to the special school milk program. This is the program which helps provide milk for children in nursery, elementary and secondary schools, as well as those in child care centers, settlement houses, summer camps, and similar nonprofit institutions devoted to the care and training of children. The program first went into effect in 1954, and was extended last year for three years. However, the funds allocated last year have already proven inadequate to the rising number of children, and 38 states are facing a deficit for this fiscal year. Because of this, I introduced a bill last week, H. R. 5414, which will provide additional funds for the program to erase this year's deficit and provide for the increased enrollments which the next two years will bring. I feel this is a good proposal, for the special milk program helps our nation in two ways. It provides for the health of our schoolchildren at the same time it is aiding in keeping our dairy surpluses down. To put it another way, either we keep an adequate supply of milk moving into our schools, or we use the money to purchase and store surplus dairy products under present price-support programs.

A "First"

For the first time in the history of the United States we do not have an incorporated Territory. This came about last week when the Congress voted to make Hawaii the 50th State of the Union. The history-making approval came quickly and overwhelmingly by a vote of 323-89 in the House.

YOUR SENATOR REPORTS
HUBERT H. HUMPHREY

Fiftieth State—Congress acted last week on the admittance of the 50th of these United States to the Union, with swift determination and great enthusiasm. Almost 600,000 Hawaiians have long waited for this moment, and we who have been the friends of Hawaiian statehood and who sponsored the bill this year which has now been sent to the White House, are deeply pleased and gratified. Our fellow Americans in Hawaii richly deserved statehood.

The State of Islands — The string of mid-Pacific islands that make up our new sister-state of Hawaii is not simply a vacation area of unique charm and beauty, it is our major naval bastion in the Pacific, and has a bustling and active and vigorous society in its own right. Yes, it produces a million tons of sugar each year, and exports almost 31 million cases of canned pineapple. But it also has an important livestock industry, a manufacturing industry producing about $102 million in goods last year, and recently there have been discovered important deposits of the key mineral, bauxite. Its 6,423 square miles make it larger than Delaware, Rhode Island or Connecticut, and its population exceeds that of five present states. In the same time that you can fly from Boise, Idaho, to Washington, D.C., you can fly to the capital of our new State of Hawaii.

Pacific melting pot—One-third of the Hawaiians today are of Japanese ancestry—the famous Nisei of World War II who fought so valiantly for the United States. Next largest group are the white-skinned Caucasians, with about one-fourth the population, about 18% are either Hawaiian or part-Hawaiian, while about 6% are of Chinese ancestry. While there is not complete freedom of racial discrimination, Hawaii has gone a long way toward the goal of demonstrating to the world that peoples of differing racial backgrounds can live together not only in peace but in real harmony and fellowship.

Crowning of long effort—For over 100 years—since 1851—the people of Hawaii have sought admittance to our Union. It took them almost 50 years just to become officially annexed — in 1893. By 1900 they had become an organized Territory, and since 1903 every Hawaiian territorial legislature petitioned Congress for admission to statehood. In 1919 the first Hawaiian statehood bill was introduced in Congress. Since election to the Senate in 1948, I have consistently supported the cause of Hawaiian, as well as Alaskan, statehood. Twenty-one Congressional investigations since 1935, countless official visits and studies, and innumerable articles in magazines and newspapers have finally been capped by legislative determination. I am proud that the overwhelmingly Democratic 86th Congress has the distinction of bringing Hawaii into the Union at last.

HOW MUCH IS YOUR TV SET WORTH?
It would take a lot of money to make most folks forego the entertainment they get from their TV sets. But how about when your TV picture tube goes dead? How much will it be worth then?
If your only interest is getting back a picture without regard for the quality of that picture, you can save money by buying a cut-rate, off-brand picture tube. But nationwide tests show that the average brightness of cut-rate tubes is so low, you might set your TV reception back as much as five years.
If you want up-to-date performance—pictures that are brighter than when your set was new—we recommend a Sylvania Silver Screen 85 picture tube.
Picture tubes used in today's TV sets are much brighter than they were five years ago. And seven out of ten leading TV manufacturers use Silver Screen 85 picture tubes in their new TV sets.

Maintaining State Roads Cost $16 Million

The Minnesota highway department during 1958 spent $16,022,000 for highway maintenance, of which $11,879,000 went for routine maintenance operations to keep the highways throughout the state in year-round driving condition, according to a report just issued by George A. Meskal, highway maintenance chief.

The routine-maintenance figure includes such expenditures as $4,284,000 for maintenance and repair of roadway surfaces, shoulders and side approaches, $2,526,000 for clearing vegetation and debris from highway right-of-way, $2,168,000 for snow and ice control, $790,000 for erection and maintenance of highway signs and markers, and $483,000 for painting traffic and guide lines on highways.

The total expended for the year was virtually the same as for the year 1957, though variations existed in the costs of the different services.

Removing ice and snow cost half a million dollars less in 1958 than in 1957, due to the relatively mild winter weather during 1958. But the more than $2½ million required to remove vegetation and debris from the right of way of highways throughout the state during 1958 represented an increase of $372,000 over the 1957 figure.

The $483,000 expenditure for painting traffic and guide lines on highways was 50 per cent higher than the 1957 cost. However this higher figure included the painting of white lines at the edges of highways, in addition to the center guide line, in certain areas on an experimental basis during 1958. Public reception of this safety measure, of great help to night driving, has been so favorable that the Highway department is planning to expand its edge striping activities during 1959, Meskal said.

In addition to these routine maintenance expenditures, the Highway department spent $2,701,000 for special maintenance operations such as bituminous surfacing repairs, seal coating, flood damage repairs, and concrete joint and crack renovation. Also expended was $1,439,000 for betterments, which include necessary improvements on roads which though seriously deficient will not be reached in the regular construction program for some years.

List Beaver & Otter '59 Trapping Season

The 1959 trapping regulations for the taking of beaver and otter were announced today in St. Paul by James W. Kimball, game and fish director.

In general, beaver may be trapped in that portion of the state north of trunk highway 210 beginning at Breckenridge and terminating at Duluth from Apr. 4 to May 3, both dates inclusive. South of this line, beaver may be trapped from April 4 to April 26.

Otter may also be trapped in that portion of the state north of trunk highway 210 from April 12 to April 26, both dates inclusive.

Areas closed to the trapping of beaver and otter include certain townships in Cook county; certain townships in the Land-O'Lakes state forest in Cass county; certain canoe routes in St. Louis and Cook counties; all areas under the administration of the state parks division; and certain townships in the Chengwatana state forest in Pine county.

The following state-owned game refuges and public hunting grounds will also be closed to the trapping of beaver and otter: Carlos Avery (sanctuary only); Roseau River (sanctuary only); Rothsay (sanctuary only) Mille Lacs; Hubble Pond; Thief Lake (sanctuary only); Superior federal refuges, No. 4 and No. 9. The following wildlife management areas are also closed: Klinker Marsh in Murray county and Altona Marsh in Lincoln county.

Beaver may be trapped within the Mud Lake, Rice Lake, Upper Mississippi, and Tamarack National Wildlife Refuges under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Not more than ten (10) beaver, and not more than three (3) otter may be taken by any one licensed trapper during said seasons.

It is unlawful to set or tend any trap set for wild animals between the hours of 6 P.M. and 6 A.M.

State game officials point out that 21,590 beaver were harvested in 1958, the highest on record. Some 565 otter were also reported trapped during 1958.

Donald Blaser, state fur specialist, reports that the heavy beaver harvest last fall, combined with the widespread freeze-out of beaver ponds this winter, has reduced the statewide beaver population. He reports ice penetration in beaver ponds around the state at between 40-45 inches. This freeze-out is occurring principally in the central and northern parts of the state. Muskrats are likewise suffering from the thick ice cover.

Blaser reports a twenty-seven percent decrease in the beaver population along the routes annually censured by airplane.

Average density of population ranges from less than 5 persons per square mile in Canada, Australia and many colonial areas to 500 or more in the United Kingdom, Belgium, the Netherlands, Germany and Japan.

Lower Spring Egg Prices Forecast

'U' Marketing Economist Says Egg Output Is Rising

Prices paid to Minnesota egg producers between April and June will most likely be lower than they were during the same period in 1958.

And while these prices may improve somewhat between July and September, they still won't come back to last year's levels for the same period. Because of a record late hatch in 1958, layers will stay in comparatively heavy production into this fall. As a result, egg prices also will very likely not show any improvement between October and December of this year, in comparison to 12 months earlier.

This sumary of the egg price outlook comes from William H. Dankers, extension marketing economist at the University of Minnesota. He points out that egg production for the first half of 1959 will be about 3 per cent above the same period a year ago. Cause of the increase is more total laying birds and a slight increase in number of eggs laid per hen, compared to last year.

No increase is expected in the demand for eggs, explaining why prices will be lower.

Because of declining egg prices in the early part of this year, Dankers says the 1959 spring hatch for laying flock replacement will probably be 5 to 8 per cent under the 1958 hatch. This should result in higher egg prices early in 1960, compared to what they are now.

Cerebral Palsy Tabulation Made

Report Shows Pennington County Has 19 Cases

The emergence of cerebral palsy as a major crippler throughout the nation is gaining public notice as individual states begin to tabulate the toll. Cerebral palsy is the result of an injury to various cells of the brain, usually before, during or shortly after birth.

Figures released for the first time March 11 at a cerebral palsy workship in Minneapolis show that there are close to 4,000 known CPs in Minnesota. Incidence of cerebral palsy in the state is about on a par with the estimated national average, the survey shows, with a rate of1.3 survey shows, with a rate of 1.3 per 1,000 pop.

Pennington county lists 19 known cases for an incidence rate of 1.47 per 1,000 population.

No. Central Plans Freight Service Starting June 1

North Central Airlines, for the first time in its 11-year history, will carry air freight, beginning on or about June 1, Frank N. Buttomer, vice president, traffic and sales, said today.

Buttomer said an air freight tariff is being prepared and will be submitted to the Civil Aeronautics Board 30 days before the starting date for the new service, as required by law.

Charles B. Vesper, the airline's manager of tariffs and schedules, said North Central's will be a general commodity tariff with no specific items, at least for the present. Following approval by the CAB, the rates will be distributed to each of the 65 cities on North Central's system.

Secy. of Defense to Address GOP in Minneapolis

At the moment that international tension is mounting over the Berlin situation, the man who can speak with inside accuracy on United States position is coming to Minnesota to describe the government's official thinking.

He is Neil H. McElroy, secretary of defense, who will address Minnesota's "Victory in Sixty" Republican dinner Monday, March 30, at the Leamington Hotel in Minneapolis.

Elmer L. Anderson of St. Paul is chairman of the dinner which is expected to draw attendance from throughout the state.

Sunday is a Special Day

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Sunday is a special day for Sheila. She likes to go to church.

For one thing, the church is beautiful. Sheila likes to look at the soft light filtering through the colored glass windows. She likes the delicate scent of the beautiful flowers, and the majestic tones of the organ. She likes to sing, too, and she knows several hymns "all the way through," even without the hymnal to guide her.

She particularly likes this season because she knows that Palm Sunday is a time for special rejoicing in the Church.

Sheila feels the way she does because her parents have taught her that going to church is a privilege and a joy. Is Sunday just another day for your child, or is it—as it is for Sheila—a special day?

OVER THE BACK FENCE

By STAN PETERSON

In the northwest corner of the county courthouse ground floor is a room which contains only a number of glass-fronted display cases and a few other items.

The room was taken over just last summer by a group of people who have been charged with the responsibility of preserving one of this area's most important and interesting assets — the history of its land and people.

The fact that the room is almost devoid of items is no reflection on the interest and energy of the Pennington County Historical society members. For years they have wanted to begin a collection of interesting historical items but have never had a place where an exhibit could be established. Now, such a location has been given to them and they are facing the task of gathering articles which could become one of the most interesting attractions in the area.

History to many of us, unfortunately, evokes only memories of a badly-taught school subject which was concerned more with memorizing names and dates of obscure persons and places than it was with the lives and adventures of the majority of the people of those times. This, I have been told, is no longer true and it is well that the change has been made for no one should go through life without being aware of his roots in the past.

This is not written for the hard-headed modernists who ridicule or ignore those who have worked for the blessings we have today but are concerned only with what will happen today and tomorrow. This is written for those of you who know of the past or would like to know more about it so that this heritage may be passed on to your children and your children's children.

In the homes and buildings in this area are thousands of items of historical interest, many of them fast deteriorating to the loss of everyone, many unrecognized as historically valuable and many which will, some day, be thrown away or destroyed by those who value only those things which are new and shiny.

Individually, these things mean little to their owners but, gathered into one place where they could be seen by many, they would become a treasure which could never be replaced.

From one standpoint, we are fortunate. This area is comparatively new and many of the items which date back to the first settlers and the Indians before them are still in existence. We are also fortunate to have so many different nations represented in our population — Norway, Sweden, Finland, Poland, France and many others. Each of these peoples have contributed much to the area's culture and should be represented through items of clothing, domestic goods, photographs and papers and the tools which they used in bygone years to make this area what it is today.

We have the romance and history of lumbering, pioneering and of hunting and trapping from which to draw, just to name a few. Many of us, new to the northwestern Minnesota area, have little knowledge of the background which we have inherited and there will be even more in the future who would wonder at the criminal waste which will be our responsibility if we do not do something about it now.

If there are things around your home which you think should be preserved as historical evidence of your family's part in the building of northwest Minnesota, articles which you treasure enough to want a permanent place for them in the community, will you do yourself and your community a favor by calling Judge Paul A. Lundgren, chairman of the committee which will gather these historical items?

Every day we delay the collection of these articles means the loss of part of our history. Other communities have well established museums. Is our area to be content with a roomful of nothing but empty display cases?

A new film that explains how the second leading cancer killer among women—uterine cancer—can be virtually wiped out with the aid of a simple detection examination will be shown in Thief River Falls Wednesday evening, April 1, at the Washington grade school gymnasium, the Cancer Society here announced today. A local physician will be present to answer questions.

Produced for the American Cancer Society and entitled "Time and Two Women," the film is part of a broad program to speed the attack on uterine cancer. The ACS launched the attack on this site of the disease in 1936.

Mortality from uterine cancer has dropped more than 40 per cent in the 25 year period of 1930-1955, but it still claims the lives of some 16,000 women annually, the ACS reports.

Mrs. Olaf Dahlen, volunteer cancer-education chairman for Pennington county said the film would spearhead a community-wide drive to persuade all women over 21 to have annual check-ups that include the cell examination for uterine cancer. This examination involves microscopic study by a pathologist of cells cast off in body secretions.

Wiseth Proposes New Tax Measure

Bill Would Reenact Old Moneys and Credits Tax

A proposal to reimpose the 3-mill moneys and credits tax which was repealed several years ago, was introduced in the state Senate last week by Sen. Roy Wiseth of Goodridge.

He said he had received estimates the tax would bring in about five million dollars a year.

"When we need money so badly," he added, "we should consider every possible tax source."

One objection to the old law was that collection of the tax was in the hands of local assessors and that information about bank accounts became public. The Wiseth bill would have the proposed tax reported and paid to the state tax commissioner as the income tax is.

Odin Langen, who is returning from Washington to the Ninth district during the Easter recess of Congress, late last week accepted an invitation to address the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce in the Elks club rooms Thursday evening, April 2, at 6:30. Check Forger Sent Back to Red Wing

Thomas Whipple, who was arrested for check forgery in a unique case of its kind Friday, March 13, appeared in juvenile court here Friday and was sent to Red Wing as a parole violator, according to authorities here.

Whipple was writing falsified magazine subscriptions, along with forged checks, which he cashed here, keeping his commission on the "sales" and sending the rest of the money in with the phony subscriptions.

He was arrested due to the alertness of a local supermarket owner, who put police on his trail. His subsequent arrest uncovered the strange case of forgery, not only here but in Warren and Stephen and in Larimore, N. D., where he worked as a member of a magazine subscription firm.

The speed with which Whipple was apprehended is shown by the fact he had not yet been placed on the state list of wanted persons as a parole violator at the time he was arrested. He had violated his parole by leaving his YCC placement in the Twin City area to work for the subscription firm in the Red River Valley area.

Five Speakers Discuss Sales Tax for C of C

Arguments for and Against Proposal Offered at Meeting

Two advocates and three opponents of the enactment of a Minnesota sales tax presented their arguments at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Thursday evening in the Elks club rooms. Approximately 50 members heard the discussion, over which Sig Quam, chamber head, presided.

Supporting the sales tax were John Barker, chief tax accountant for General Mills, and Wm. Krog Jr., field man for the Minneapolis area Chamber of Commerce; and opposing it were State Rep. Ben. Wichterman of Plummer, Gerald Heaney of Duluth, prominent DFL party leader and adviser to Governor Freeman; and Norris Ellertson of St. Paul, deputy commissioner of agriculture.

At the start of the discussion, President Quam stated that the chamber was not taking any stand on the sales tax, but merely wanted bring information to its members.

John Barker, the first speaker, said that income taxes and property taxes in the state are above the national average, and are heading upward. He added that if a three per cent sales tax be enacted it should eliminate the present taxes on household goods, agricultural products, livestock and farm machinery, and, in part, the tax on business inventories.

The personal property tax, said Barker, is unfair and is difficult to assess, and that the sales tax

Minnesota to Be Featured in N.Y. Times March 29th

Picture Section of 16 Pages to Tell Advantages of Living in Minnesota

Minnesota will unfold the story of its expanding industrial opportunities in a 16-page magazine section of the New York Times Sunday, March 29.

Representing the largest single publication effort of the state's intensive promotional program to attract new industry, the section will reach a nation-wide audience with the story of why Minnesota is an ideal choice for new businesses and branch expansions.

The entire section depicts and discusses the many potential advantages for industry in Minnesota, such as the high quality of skilled workers, the numerous industrial sites available, transportation, climate, recreation, educational facilities and so on.

Published under the direction of James W. Clark, state commissioner of business development, and William Farrell of the industrial division, the New York Times magazine section contains several photographs in full color, including some beautiful Minnesota vacationland scenes. The cover of the section relates Minnesota to a map of the United States as a natural transportation center of the world.

Cooperating with the state in this major effort are many local business firms and several governmental agencies.

According to Mr. Clark, this Minnesota industrial story will reach a readership of more than one million in 11,000 cities constituting the most important business, industrial, and financial centers of the United States.

Beauty Tips
from ME to YOU

By JO ANNE WEDUL

Here are some makeup memos that I hope will help you in applying your cosmetics:

If you have a round face, blend your rouge high, close under the eyes, fading out the color in a line with your eyes.

Oval face, blend rouge from the center of your cheeks outward toward the hairline.

Heart-shaped face, blend rouge slightly downward to give width at the bottom half of your face.

Square face, blend rouge close to the nose, high above the center of the cheeks. Fade it out completely in line with the ends of the eyebrows.

Long, slender face, blend rouge in a soft, shadowy pattern just beneath the eyes. Blend outward and downward. More color gives an appearance of width at the center of the face.

Perfect paint for bath and kitchen!

by Bud Kelly
your hometown Paint Expert

About this time of year we hear a lot of customers say, "I'm thinking of painting our bathroom," or "I'm getting tired of the color in our kitchen."
It's nice to be able to recommend a paint just made for this type of job — our Supermix Satin Finsh.
First of all, it gives a lovely, soft finish you can live with a long, long time — without any of the harsh glare you get with some paints. Second, it takes washing beautifully, and stands up to the moisture so often found in bath and kitchen.
The majority of gloss wall finishes are traditionally hard to work, with a lot of "pull" under the brush; or they dry with laps and brush marks; or settle hard in the can. But not Superbix Satin Finish. It goes on like silk with brush or roller, levels out smoothly and "hides" the old surface completely.

FREE! HAWAIIAN VACATION!
Enter our "Name the Paint" Contest. Nothing to buy. Fun. Come in for your entry blank and all the dope.

Do you know why? Supermix Satin finish has specially treated linseed oil, and the color includes the newest type of lithopone, which gives unusual hiding power and coverage.
You'd think, with all its quality, Supermix Satin Finish would cost a lot. But you'll like the price. And we like to help with all the painting advice you want.

'U' Man Studies Budget of Agriculture Dept.

How does the U. S. Department of Agriculture spend its funds?

Does it all go for farm price support programs?

Definitely not, according to Luther Pickrel, extension economist at the University of Minnesota. He points out than many USDA expenses include services that benefit the public generally, and not just farmers alone.

According to estimates, the budget for the 1959 year will total around $7.3 billion. This would break down about like this:

1. Corporation and other revolving funds, $4.6 billion. This includes $3.1 billion for price supports and related programs and about $1 billion for foreign sales for surplus commodities. Other items in this category: International Wheat Agreement, $64 million; emergency famine relief, $105 million and National wool act, $21 million.

2. Appropriations for regular activities, $1.9 billion. Included in this section are the conservation reserve, $141 million; acreage reserve program payments, $712 million (to fulfill contracts written last year); agricultural conservation program, $230 million; acreage allotments, $40 million, and marketing quotas and sugar act program, $68 million. This section also includes funds for the Agricultural Research Service, Extension Service Soil Conservation Service and Farm Coop Service.

3. Loan authorizations, $590 million. This section is for Rural Electrification Administration, and other miscellaneous loan programs.

4. Permanent Authorizations, $188 million. The major item in this section is costs for removal of surplus commodities.

Pickrel says it's often hard to determine how much of the foreign sales appropriation will be paid in dollars or services. So the net cost for that item is not exactly known at present.

He also points out that consumers get the main benefits from programs involving research and agricultural extension work. This is because improved technology in agriculture has resulted in output increasing faster than demand, meaning lower prices to consumers.

Farmers, on the other hand, also need to recognize that they have received benefits from a vast number of federal expenditures not included in the agricultural budget, Pickrel concludes.

Co-op Shippers Hear Reports of Successful Year

Fred Koop Reelected to Board of Directors at Meeting in Court House

Members of the Thief River Falls Co-op Livestock Shippers association heard reports on a successful past year's business at their annual meeting Friday afternoon at the court house. Alfred Solem, president, conducted the session.

Fred Koop was reelected to the board of directors. It was reported that Maynard Wedul is returning to this city to go into business with his father Arnt Wedul, trucker-manager, and that the truck line will be operated as Wedul & Sons.

County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk spoke on the need for more livestock in this area and the need of better pasture management and soil testing. Arnt Aune, agriculture instructor at the area vocational school, told of his work with cooperating farmers, and urged the importance of carefully kept farm records.

Harry Oen reported on the recent annual meeting of the Central Livestock assn. of St. Paul, and Carl Spong of Central asked support of cooperative agencies to get the best prices when selling farm products.

Door prizes were awarded and lunch served at the close of the meeting.

No. Central Vice President Flies over 50 Airplanes

North Central Airlines' vice president, operations, Alvin D. Niemeyer, is adding the twin-engine Convair 340 to a list of more than 50 airplanes he is qualified to fly.

Niemeyer, 57, one of America's aviation pioneers, has logged more than 10,000 hours of flight time in more than 34 years of piloting aircraft ranging from the open-cockpit, fabric-covered biplanes of the 1930's to the modern airliners of the 1950's.

Niemeyer, who took over the mial run flown by Co. Charles A. Lindbergs after "Lindy" made his famed New-York-to-Paris flight in 1927, is checking out in North Central's newly-purchased Convairs in current pilot transition classes. The radar-equipped, pressurized airliners go into service on 18 per cent of North Central's nine-state system April 26.

Going Camping is Tiring

Farm Loan Agency Reports for 1958

N.W. National Assn. Made Loans of $437,800

Purchase of land, refinancing indebtedness, and improvements to land and buildings were among the major purposes for which farmers in this area obtained long-term credit from the Northwest National Farm Loan Association of Warren during the year ended December 31, 1958.

Harold Sorenson, secretary-treasurer, said the association loaned $437,800 during the 12 month period. This money was obtained by association members in Marshall, Kittson, Roseau, Red Lake and Pennington counties.

Since 1945 the Northwest NFLA has extended $1,526,288 in credit to farmers in this area. Sorenson said the association's outstanding loan account on December 31 stood at $2,555,239 which compares with $2,493,013 on the same date in 1957.

National farm loan associations in Minnesota closed $24,315,900 in long-term land bank loans during 1958.

Oklee Man Pleads Guilty to Driving while Drunk

A citizen's complaint about a pick-up truck parked without lights on highway No. 1 about two miles west of the city resulted in a drunken driving charge against an Oklee man and also solved a hit-and-run mishap the same man had been involved in earlier last Wednesday night.

Julian P. Stennes, Oklee, was found sitting in his parked truck by Sheriff Charles Richards, after the sheriff had been requested by the highway patrol to investigate the citizen's complaint of an unlighted vehicle parked on the road.

Investigation of the truck at the time of Stennes' arrest revealed he had recently been involved in a collision. Thursday morning, after Stennes spent the night in jail here, a call came in from Ed Stanina, city, saying someone had hit his car early Wednesday evening while it was parked on W. Eighth st. between Knight and Main avenues N.

Investigation showed the Stennes truck to be the other vehicle involved. The left rear of Stanina's car sustained about $25 damage, while the Stennes truck sustained about $30 damage.

In municipal court Thursday afternoon Stennes pleaded guilty to driving under the influence of intoxicants and was fined $100 plus $9.30 costs by Judge H. O. Chommie and his drivers license was revoked.

Danger Seen in Social Security Liberalization

Unless Social Security benefits are held at present levels, the nation's economy could be put into jeopardy, says the managing director of the National Assn. of Life Underwriters.

"For the first time in history," said Lester O. Schriver, Washington, D.C., "American voters can vote themselves raises without the slightest idea of where the money is coming from. This 'something for nothing' philosophy has ruined other nations and it can ruin America."

Schriver, addressing Minnesota insurance men in Minneapolis, said that Social Security already is committed to pay out some 300 billion dollars more than has been collected.

"If suggested liberalizations are enacted, they could wreck the entire economic system," he said. "Further increase of benefits also would be a radical departure from the American way of life."

Goodridge Plant Holds '59 Meeting

Report Reveals 154,567 Lb. Butter Churned in '58

The Farmers Cooperative Creamery association of Goodridge held its annual meeting Saturday afternoon in the community hall, and heard the reading of the annual report by James Salveson, plant manager.

Clarence Peterson was elected to the board of directors to succeed Otto Zinter. Guest speaker at the meeting was Wm. Henderson, Marshall county agent, while Goodridge high school musicians presented several selections.

The annual report revealed that the creamery in 1958 churned a total of 154,567 pounds of butter. An average net price of 60.02 cents per pound was paid for all butterfat in cream and 77.21 cents for all butterfat in milk.

Lunch was served following the meeting by the ladies aid of St. Ann's Catholic church.

Daylight Saving Time Measure Apparently Dead for '59 Session

The state Senate Thursday passed the Vadheim-Murray bill to ban daylight saving in Minnesota by a vote of 37-29.

The measure now goes to the House, which has taken no action on daylight saving. It is believed likely the House will take similar action to that of the Senate.

Still pending in the Senate are bills to authorize the statewide daylight saving and for a referendum on the question at the 1960 general election.

Daylight saving supporters have predicted that they can persuade enough senators later to switch their votes to pass the statewide fast time bill.

Sen. Leslie Westin of St. Paul said he was sure the result would come as a shock to the citizens of Minnesota. He pleaded with rural senators not to deny people of the metropolitan area the right to daylight saving.

The Vadheim-Murray bill repeals both the 1957 statewide fast-time law and the law enacted earlier in that session to permit the Twin Cities metropolitan area and the city of Duluth to adopt fast time.

Sen. Louis Murray of East Grand Forks, co-author of the bill with Sen. Joseph Vadheim of Tyler made his closing appeal in these words:

"We country boys aren't going to be taken in by the city slickers. Stick to your guns and we've got 'em licked."

A resolution calling on the University of Minnesota to establish college courses at agricultural schools in Crookston and Morris was approved Friday by the Senate education committee.

The resolution was amended to eliminate a request that college courses be started in the fall of 1960. This would leave timing to the discretion of regents.

After the vote, Sen. Robert Dunlap of Plainview, chairman of the committee, said he had "some reservations" about the matter and indicated he might oppose the resolution on the floor.

Sen. Harry Wahlstrand of Willmar said he feared the proposal would mean expansion of public higher education at the expense of grade and high schools.

Crippled Children May Attend Camp

Parents Urged to Apply Now for Easter Seal Camp

Parents of crippled children who want to refer their youngsters to Camp Courage, the Easter Seal camp for handicapped youngsters near Maple Lake and Annandale, should write for application blanks right away.

The announcement was made by Toy Jambeck, director of the special camp.

"Requests for application blanks should be addressed to the Easter Seal office, 420 East Lake St., Minneapolis 8, Minn." Jambeck said, "and should be received at the office by Friday, April 3."

Referrals for children who could benefit from the program come from parents, public health nurses, physicians, school authorities and from Easter Seal volunteers, Jambeck said. He said some 450 handicapped youngsters and adults are expected at Camp Courage again this year.

Camp Courage is just one of the many services for thousands of Minnesota's crippled children and adults supported by the 1959 Easter Seal Appeal, which ends March 29. Others include a special camping program for speech-handicapped youngsters near Stillwater; support of seven rehabilitation centers; distribution of wheelchairs, walkers, hospital beds and other special equipment; employment of the handicapped; research and parent and professional education programs.

Koop is the father of Hillard Koop, 1959 chapter star farmer.

Wichterman charged that the sales tax is not based on ability to pay, and that it raises the prices farmers must pay. He said the Benson farm program is to blame for low farm income rather than high taxes, and he asserted that the sales tax would cost this area much more than Freeman's tax program.

Next speaker was Wm. Krog Jr. who said that 20 or more industries had been lost to Minnesota during the past several years due to unfavorable tax climate. He stated that a sales tax is paid only once, while personal property taxes are paid every year.

Gerald Heaney, tax adviser to Governor Freeman, outlined the governor's program calling for higher income taxes, a withholding tax and higher levies on certain items such as cigarets and liquor. He said this program is sound and equitable, and added that no member of the legislature to date has revealed any intention of introducing a sales tax bill. Heaney stated that 45 cents out of every dollar levied in state taxes is returned to local communities.

Ellertson commented briefly on the effect of the sales tax on the farmer.

Referring to the withholding tax asked by Freeman, John Barker pointed out that it would hit only the wage earner and not self-employed persons.

At the opening of the meeting, President Quam announced that the local chamber was one of 17 in the nation to receive a citation from the U.S. Chamber of Commerce for its record of outstanding achievement in 1958. Quam presented the citation to Harley Kelly, last year's president, who stated that the award was due to excellent teamwork on the part of officers and members of the chamber.

Koop, speech award, and Roger Rupprecht, crop award.

Named chapter sheep farmer was Hilliard Koop, 18. Young Koop is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Koop and has a record of outstanding achievement in his projects, which include grain and poultry raising. Oats grown by Hilliard yielded 118 bushels per acre in 1958 and his total earnings last year were $1241.10.

He has demonstrated high leadership qualities as vice-president of the Lincoln high school chapter of the F.F.A., president of Walther League at St. John's church and is active in other affairs. He sings in the school chorus and is a letterman in track.

The appreciation speech to the parents was made at Thursday's banquet by Koop, with his father, Albert, giving the response.

Just before the closing ceremony, Ramstad presented chapter advisor Jon Metuzalem with a surprise gift in token of appreciation for his efforts with the chapter the past year.

Public Opinion

Editor the Times:

Send Mack out here, he's sadly in need of education on the merits of C.S.T. We'll see that he gets up at 5 a.m. like we do from April through Sept. and I'll wager that he'll see enough of that "fine Minnesota sunshine" without messing up everybody elses life and schedules.

A few days of real work from 5 a.m. to 10 p.m. and Mack will be glad to have that extra hour of darkness to sleep. There are plenty of daylight hours, all they have to do is get up to see them.

Let's leave the Golden Rule as it is and include the clocks, too.

CANDID COMMENT

by Mack Draper

Well, unless the House decides the state Senate's action in the Daylight Saving bill isn't to its liking, the DST argument is over for at least two more years. So, I have little to say on that subject this week. But, just because that subject is not under discussion is no sign it's dead—nor am I clamming up because I got the pants roasted off me in last Thursday's public opinion column.

In fact, I think it was a very cleverly written letter from Mr. Koglin (or was it from Mrs. Koglin? I can't remember for certain). Anyway, unless something drastic is done Mack Draper will mow his yard (measurement 100' by 135') one hour later by the evening sun, an hour earlier by the clock. But not at 5:30 a.m.—we folks in town are more considerate of our neighbors than that. Only a very stupid, inconsiderate lout would fire up a power mower and wake the neighbors for blocks at that ungodly hour.

There are people in this world that would do that, of course, but include us out! We city folks at least TRY to live by the Golden Rule as much as others will let us.

Ah, but spring is in the air—at least they tell us spring came Saturday. Hope you didn't get your proboscis frost-bitten sniffing that fresh spring air—fresh from the Arctic, that is.

Won't be too long though, until we'll be able to exercise our green thumb again. We don't have a very large garden, but after living in an apartment eight years before coming to Thief River Falls, we certainly appreciate it. We find it quite worthwhile, too. There's something about home-canned vegetables that you just can't buy on the grocer's shelf. We try to restrict our planting to those things which produce most in the least space so we can have plenty in summer and enough to can besides.

We wonder though, what those tiny little worms are that continually play hob with our onions and radishes. We love both but have had little success because of those blankety-blank worms.

We also wonder why our tomatoes seem to have such a high acid content. They are delicious when eaten fresh, but when canned they are awfully acidy. Maybe some old hand can furnish the answer to that one. We've been able to have fresh tomatoes from our garden as late as Thanksgiving the past two years, believe it or not.

There's something else we noticed that comes up about every spring—the young fellows somehow get the idea that E. Third st. is a race strip. We've seen several cars go by that looked like they might be getting up toward the open-road speed limit. That we can do without.

Oh yes, there's one more thing—have you found a little red tag under your wiper blade lately? A word to the wise should be sufficient . . . in short, the police have been marking cars the past two weeks and are enforcing the parking ordinances.

Yes, spring has sprung and most of the folks who took winter vacations in the sunny South are probably back by now. Must be nice to be able to take off like that in winter. The Missus' sister, who lives in Tucson, says she knows of some northern Minnesota folks who spend every winter down there in their own homes, and of others who spend several weeks there each winter even though they don't own homes in Tucson. These are all rural folks who aren't tied down on their farms during the winter months, of course.

We also note from our correspondent's column that a goodly number from around here go South for the winter. That certainly is nice, some day we may try taking our week off in the winter ourselves. However, we who are slaves to the clock must usually get our sunshine here in the few hours we get off during the summer months and are tied down making a living the year 'round otherwise. That goes for working people and business people alike here in town.

Food for thought — a philosopher once said, "Amusement is the pleasure of the man who cannot think." We're certainly living in a pleasure-mad world these days, are we not?

The Board of Education of Independent School District No. 564 met in special session at the City Council Chambers in the City Auditorium, Thief River Falls, Minnesota, on February 23, 1959 at 8 o'clock p.m.

The meeting was called to order by President Starekow. The following members of the Board were present: Thompson, Olson, Howick, Burtness and Pearson. Superintendent Mickelson was also in attendance.

A presentation was made to the Board, and others in attendance, by the City Council indicating that the cost of construction, and financing thereof, of a building at the airport, suitable for part use as an A & E School would be as follows:

The Board was further informed that on the basis of a $30,000.00 bond issue at 4% it would require payments of $222.00 per month for 15 years to liquidate the obligation, in addition to which the sum of $25.00 per month would be required for insurance coverage, thus bringing the total monthly payments to $247.00 per month over the 15-year period.

Upon receiving this information, the matter was discussed by the members of the School Board. The Board being unanimously favorable to the proposition, President Starekow was authorized to and did inform the council that the Board would approve entering into a 15-year lease at a monthly rental of $247.00 per month.

We were further informed that it would be necessary to obtain special legislation in connection with the matter and that steps to that end would be taken immediately.

There being no further business, the meeting adjourned.

TRF Thieves Win N.W. Hockey League Title

Coach Paul Bedard's Thieves won the Northwest hockey league playoff title on Sunday night when they scored a decisive 11 to 6 win over the Crookston Pirates on the Arena ice. By virtue of their 7 to 3 win over Crookston in a game played at Crookston a week ago, the Thieves entered Sunday's tilt here with a four-goal "cushion," and by scoring their 11 to 6 triumph over the Pirates, the locals won the two-game total-goals series by an 18 to 9 score.

The Thieves bounced into an early lead in Sunday's game, getting three goals in the space of twenty-one seconds in the opening minutes of play. Gordy Bjerken tallied the first goal at the 1:08 mark; Glenn Carlson slapped in an angle shot at 1:25; and on a fine two-man play, Darryl Durgin on a pass from Monty Markstrom, dented the laces at the 1:31 mark. The Thieves, with that 3 to 0 lead, never looked back, having a 7 to 3 margin at the end of the first period, and a 9 to 4 lead at the end of the second stanza.

Tom Conneran lifted the Pirates' hopes in the opening minute of the third period when, at the 0:28 mark and the 0:34 mark, he whipped in a pair of Crookston goals to pare the Thieves' lead to 9 to 6. Gordy Bjerken, at the 11:37 mark, and Carlson, a minute later, added markers to boost the Thieves' lead to 11 to 6.

The ice sheet, which was remarkably good at the start of the game, became heavy in the third period and much body contact resulted. On a couple of occasions, tempers flared and the officials were forced to whistle roughing penalties. Mike McMahon of the Thieves and Dave Bang of the Pirates engaged in a brief setto; and Cal Bradley and Conneran also had a shoving session.

Temperature Hits Chilly —11 Friday

Coldest Day for March; Mercury at 42 Sunday

Following the lowest temperature of the month, a -11 Friday night, temperatures in the area were on the upswing again over the weekend and, despite a biting wind most of the day, a 42 was posted Sunday.

Mostly fair weather is predicted for today turning partly cloudy and cloder tonight. Tomorrow is expected to be clear and a little colder.

The high predicted for the state today is near 40 in the northeast to near 50 in the southwest. Lows for tonight are expected to be from 22 to 28.

The temperature this morning at 9 o'clock was 30 degrees.

Marshall Co. Load Limits in Effect

Sheriff Erickson Says Law Will Be Enforced

Seasonal load restrictions on Marshall county and town roads will be enforced from March 20 to May 15 by the Marshall county sheriff's department, according to Oscar Erickson, sheriff.

"No person shall operate any vehicle or combination of vehicles upon any county or town roads during the period between March 24 and May 15 where the gross weight on any single axle exceeds 8,000 pounds," Sheriff Erickson said. This excepts roads on which higher load restrictions are posted.

"We advise drivers of all trucks, school buses and other vehicles to weigh in at the nearest scale in order that they may comply with the seasonal load restrictions," he added. "All violations of road restrictions should be reported immediately to the sheriff's office by calling Riverside 2-3121 in the day time and Riverside 2-2561 at night, or 2-2021.

The show, sponsored by Ward's and the Coast to Coast store, also featured sporting equipment, power mowers and equipment for outdoor living.

Bud the Scorer

Donald (Bud) Brossoit, a Prowler hockey star in 1945-46, and later a top-notch performer with the senior hockey Thieves, won the scoring honors in the U.S. Central hockey league this season. Brossoit, in his fourth season with the Rochester Mustangs, has crammed a great amount of hockey into his 30 years of life, and he appears to be getting better with age. Bud was undecided about playing hockey this season, but he was finally persuaded to sign a Rochester contract.

Playing at a wing, Bud pushed home four goals in the Mustangs' 20 to 4 win over the St. Paul Capitols in the final game of the season, overtaking and passing teammate Arley Carlson to gain first place in the league scoring race. During the season, Brossoit scored a total of 33 goals and had 19 assists, giving him an aggregate point-total of 52, two more than Carlson's total. Bud was among the league's top ten scorers all season, but it was only in the last few weeks that he moved up into contending position. He capped his scoring championship drive by marking up four consecutive "hat trick"—three-goal—performances.

Other former Prowler hockey luminaries playing with the Rochester team, and who finished ~~in the league's top ten point~~ getters were Derwood (Swede) Lund, who tallied nine goals and had 24 assists for 33 points; and Marv Jorde, who tied for tenth place with 11 goals and 19 assists for 30 points. Swede finished in seventh place in the individual scoring race.

And that national senior hockey tournament that was held in Green Bay's Brown County Memorial arena this past weekend must have seemed like "old home week" to the former Prowlers who competed. The defending national champions, the Rochester Mustangs, have Brossoit, Lund, Jorde, Bob Helgeland and Brad Teal in their lineup. And the host club, the Green Bay Bobcats, have center Jackie Poole and goalie Jack Hoppe on their roster.

A Word from Connie

Our comments on the 1945 Prowler hockey team a couple of weeks ago, and mention of their participation in the first official state high school hockey tournament, has elicited a welcome letter from Connie Stanbridge of Sheridan, Wyoming. Stanbridge, who is proprietor of a glass shop in Sheridan, was civilian coach of the 1945 Prowlers. In his letter, Connie remarked on the unbounded enthusiasm of that squad, stating that "I do not believe that I have ever known a hockey team that had so much enthusiasm to play. We practiced from 7:00 a.m. to 8:00 a.m., because they would not give us any time in the evening, only after 10 p.m. and that was too late for the boys."

"What made it such a good team is I never had a poor turnout at practice, and Carl Anderson (the Auditorium janitor) used to leave the side door open in the city hall because some of the boys must have gotten there by 6:00 a.m. They were always giving me a few choice words for being so late, and I was always there by 6:45 a.m."

Connie forwards greetings to his many friends here.

Miscellany

Barbara and Joey Poole have named their young son Robert Michael in honor of Bob May, the North Dakota Sioux hockey coach. . . . The Bill Juzda-coached St. Boniface Canadiens were sent to the sidelines in their best-of-seven series for the Manitoba junior hockey title, losing to the Winnipeg Braves by a four games to one margin. . . . Gerry Lavergne, who was a stick-handling wizard with the senior hockey Thieves some years ago, is the playing coach of the St. Pierre Canadiens, an intermediate division team. The team is engaged in the Provencher league playdown finals, but they are without the services of Lavergne who is out of action because of an injury.

Wayzata Wins State Basketball Honors

In semi-finals pray on Friday night, Wayzata defeated the defending champion Austin club, 55 to 52; and Carlton edged out North St. Paul, 50 to 49.

In the consolation bracket, played on Friday afternoon, Hawley defeated Mankato, 67 to 64; and Granite Falls scored a one-point win, 66 to 65, over Bemidji.

Job Placements by State Agency Are up

Non-farm job placements by the Minnesota Employment Service last month were 66 per cent above the year-ago total and represented the best February figure since 1953. It was announced today by Frank T. Starkey, commissioner, Minnesota department of employment security.

The 33 state employment service offices found people for 6,508 jobs this February, which was 287, or 4.6 per cent more than in January and 2,575 above the Febraury, 1958 figure, Starkey pointed out. Last month's total was the highest number of February placements made by state offices since 1953, when the figure was 7,622.

For the first two months in 1959, job placement figures, at 12,729, are 47.5 per cent above 1958 and the highest Jan.-Feb. total since 1953, when 14,034 placements were made in the two-month period.

"This increase not only reflects the added emphasis being placed by our employment offices on the function of finding jobs for people," Starkey said, "but also is an indication that more and more Minnesota employers are turning to the State Employment Service for assistance in hiring the right people for the right jobs." Starkey indicated the placement figures were particularly encouraging, considering that many jobs in recent months have been filled by call-backs by employers.

Meanwhile the department's most recent inventory of job openings indicates a shortage of workers in occupations in Minnesota which are quite general nationwide.

The inventory shows an ever increasing demand for social workers as well as a steady demand for engineers in all classes, nurses, technicians, mathematicians, statisticians, stenographers, and secretaries and typists; as well as machine shop trade openings which are on the increase. Details on these and many other job openings are available at the local offices.

Starkey said that employment activity in the local offices of the state employment service throughout Minnesota is on the increase and will gain additional monmentum as weather moderates and outdoor work commences.

The department is currently busy on recruitment of college and high school students for seasonal non-farm jobs for camp and resorts and is exploring all possible employment opportunities for students, Starkey indicated.

Cow Testing Boosts Profits

Twice as much profit per cow as the Minnesota average — that's the production in the Skaar herd in Freeborn county. The herd has been on a testing plan since World War I and testing is one reason for the high average. From left are Chrisy Skaar, his Grandfather Chris, and Lester Perschbacher, local DHIA supervisor, taking samples.

State Farmers Cite Cow Testing Benefit

If you're wondering about the value of dairy record systems listen to some of the Minnesota farmers using them.

University of Minnesota extension dairymen point to several examples of how records have helped farmers make big increases in dairy profits.

Take, for example, the Skaar herd near Hayward. Last year, their 26 milking Guernseys averaged 428 pounds of butterfat and a return of $285 per cow above feed costs. State average is 245 pounds fat and a return of $130 over feed. This herd is one of the first to join Freeborn county Dairy Herd Improvement association No. 1, the oldest in the state.

Then there's a case in Winona county, where John H. Nahrgang and his son, John R. have been testing milk constantly since 1924. For about 10 years or more, their cows have produced at least 100 pounds fat above the state average.

In McLeod county, brothers Howard and Donald Schutte last spring used DHIA records to find and sell 17 poor producers. Getting rid of these "cull cows" and replacing them with good heifers raised the herd's butterfat average by close to 50 pounds per cow.

These three cases were with Standard DHIA testing. Now let's look at Leo Blashack, in East Ottertail county, who has used the new Dairy Record and Culling for a year. With help from this plan, Blashack has sold his poor producers and increased herd production by 12 to 15 per cent. The Culling Guide involves taking milk weights for each cow one day each month. A chart then gives you an estimate of the total production for the month and for the entire time during which the cow has been milking.

The local county extension office has full information on both Standard and Owner-Sampler DHIA plans, and on the new Dairy Record and Culling Guide.

50 Million under Age 40 Haven't Had Polio Inoculation

Life Insurance Company Joins Campaign to Urge Completion of Salk Tests

One of the nation's largest life insurance companies mounts a campaign this month aimed at helping to reach the 50 million Americans under age 40 who have yet to take or complete Salk anti-polio inoculations.

Dr. Norvin Kiefer, chief medical director for the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the U.S., emphasized that "there are two ways to develop immunity to polio; either by contracting the disease, or by being vaccinated. One way is often drastic, sometimes tragic. The other is painless, cheap, and safe. Which will you choose for yourself and your family?"

As president of the National Health Council, Dr. Kiefer recently presided over a national conference to see what can be done to deal with the rise in polio cases. The New York meeting was called at the request of the U.S. Public Health Service, the American Medical Association, and the National Foundation.

"A discouraging fall-off in the Salk inoculation program following its introduction in 1955 was undoubtedly responsible for the rise in polio cases last year," Dr. Kiefer said. Nationwide, the 1958 polio rate was more than 40 per cent higher than the year before.

Was the Salk vaccine a failure then?

Emphatically not, medical experts say. Studies show that very few of the 1958 victims had ever received the Salk vaccine. Last year's polio outbreaks were among the unvaccinated. The challenge this year, they feel, is to vaccinate the unprotected.

Seeing The Other Side

USUMBURA, MARCH 13

The last letter was written on the Congo and mailed at Stanleyville, where I spent only one day, the boat being behind schedule. This is written at Usumbura, capital of Ruanda-Urundi, still a part of the Belgian Congo, but at an altitude of 2500 feet and with a very comfortable climate. Tomorrow I fly to Nairobi, capital of Kenya, and, once again I will be back among English-speaking people.

With two weeks of experience among the French-speaking people of the Congo, I feel that I am making some progress in the mastery of the sign language. This morning, without assistance, I even dial-phoned for a taxi, and a taxi came to the right place.

Incidentally, I am living at a family hotel, the LeBrillon, and it is on Olsen avenue. I feel very much at home in this neighborhood.

Last night, I was out on the town—didn't get home until almost 9:00 o'clock after enjoying a good steak dinner at what certainly was a very popular place of refreshment. In this country 9:00 o'clock is a fairly late hour, the work day starting at 6:00 in the morning. They have achieved daylight saving by the simple device of getting up earlier. Some of our people think this can be accomplished only by tinkering with the clock.

In the course of the evening I let it be known that I came to Usumbura for the sole purpose of enjoying a boat ride on Lake Tanganyika. The head waiter knew a fellow who had a friend whose wife was related to a fellow who had a boat — but there were no boats for hire or rental. But they would see. If I would be there at 9:00 in the morning? No? Yes?

Well, it did develop into a peach of a boat trip and I am well satisfied with my visit to Usumbura. A boat was made available, an American-built Thunderbird, powered with a 60 h.p. Mercury outboard. The owner consented to a rental arrangement and a competent operator of his choice, a road contractor who liked the lake, was found. It was a perfect arrangement.

This is hippopotamus and crocodile country, and Sylvain Gastellier, my guide, knew where they were. The crocodiles did not make an appearance, but we saw four hippos in the water among the reeds. I gathered that it was well to stay at a safe distance, and this we did.

We also saw some native fishing operations which were interesting. They depended mainly on nets.

Hook and line fishing as we know it does not seem to be common hereabouts. The young bloods seem to favor the frog man approach, using diving equipment and killing the fish with darts fired at close range under water. Some of these fish get pretty big. I guess I'll always be an old-fashioned guy.

This man Gastellier appeared to be quite an operator. He now is building a nice house. He has three children and I met his charming wife.

He has ten dump trucks in service on a road-building job. He said that over a period of years he had been alternately rich and poor several times. At the present time he seems to be doing all right.

The minimum scale for labor in this area is 16 francs a day. He pays his truck drivers 75 francs and they get paid rain or shine, work or no work. They are good drivers, he said, but hard on equipment.

He thinks the government's present program is much too liberal, having gone from one extreme to the other. He is afraid the net result will not be good. In too many instances the whites have taken advantage of the natives, he said. On the other hand, some of the whites have been too good.

"If you are too good to them they think you are stupid. If you are too severe they may not like you but they respect you as a person of authority. In dealing with the natives what is most needed is justice," he said, and for a fellow who had spent only a few years in a mission school I thought he expressed himself very well.

This day, with its boat trip and the visit with Sylvain Gastellier, has been very much worthwhile.

At Stanleyville I was having some difficulty making the waiter understand me. An elderly gentleman at the next table seemed to be sympathetic and I asked him if he could help me. He assured me that he could and would. He spoke perfect English, slightly Oxford, but not offensively so.

He and his wife were returning to their home in eastern Belgian Congo where their families and in-laws, operated a 1,000 acre plantation. They had been in Africa, off and on, 30 years.

They assured me that their relations with the natives were excellent. They anticipated no difficulty. All of my questions were answered in a frank and friendly way. As he was preparing to leave I asked if he would spell out his name in order that I might quote him on some of his views. It would be a pleasure. His name was Prince Ernest Von Isenberg. He was one of the Hapsburg boys.

As he left it occurred to me that we had one thing in common. We both needed a haircut in about the same limited way.

Local entertainment notes — Charlie Chaplin is a featured performer in "The Dictator." Bing Crosby, Grace Kelly and Frank Sinatra are playing in "High Society." Other American film stars featured are Tyrone Power, Kim Novak, Ava Gardner, Lana Turner and Randolph Scott. Some of these probably will soon reach us in television.

One picture, I think of French origin, is titled, "Marriage in the Morgue, or the Morgue the Merrier." Why, but why, do we have to travel to Africa to enjoy the best?

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

Orville L. Freeman

I have just returned from a trip to New York with leaders of Minnesota business and commerce. There we saw representatives of the principal shipping lines, and told of the great new opportunities that will accompany the development of Duluth as a deep sea port. All of Minnesota will gain immeasurably when ocean commerce comes right to our door. The 400 Minnesota manufacturers that are now engaged in foreign trade will have more direct transportation, And foreign imports like bananas and coffee can be brought directly into our midst.

On the Upward March

One of the great things about living in Minnesota is that we are in a dynamic stage of development. Our great economic growth lies ahead. Some of the older states had their greatest business expansion much earlier in American history, and have reached a more static situation today. Minnesota's early boom development was in the production of raw materials;—lumber, foodstuffs, and ore. For the most part they were sent to other states for processing and manufacturing.

Ahead of National Average

Now, however, we are beginning to process and manufacture more here at home. For 1956-57 manufacturing in Minnesota was up 7.1 per cent, which is nearly twice the national average of 3.8 per cent. Likewise our trade and services were up 9.1 per cent, nearly four times as high as the national average of 2.7 per cent. Along with this, our per capita income has been increasing faster than in our neighboring states of Iowa and Wisconsin, and in our more industrialized neighbors of Indiana, Michigan, and Illinois.

Big and Little Gains

An important role in this dynamic period of progress we are entering will be played by spectacular improvements such as the St. Lawrence Seaway. But an equally important role will be shared by the hundreds of small communities with less spectacular developments. Added together these little gains provide the real grass roots foundation for a healthy economy.

Whenever I emphasize the value of a great project such as the port of Duluth I see in the background the dozens of smaller enterprises in smaller cities and towns that make up this foundation.

Using Our Assets

When a small Minnesota city expands its facilities for the manufacture of boats and cabin cruisers, it seems particularly appropriate that such a business should grow in a state like ours with all of its magnificent lakes and rivers. When a large modern turkey processing plant is established in one of our progressive towns, it seems to be a splendid example of how we in Minnesota can profit more from our agricultural assets by further development in the processing of the foodstuffs we produce, and in preparing them for consumers' tables all over the country. A new peat company has come into our state to bale and ship out high quality peat, thus making a beginning in the utilization of one resource of which we have the greatest supply in the United States.

The bristlecone pine, earth's oldest known living thing, adds no more than an inch to its girth in a century. One bristlecone in the Inyo National Forest in California has lived for more than 4,600 years.

Argyle Man Again Heads Marshall Co. History Society

Alfred Olson Reelected; Group Plans to Restore House in Old Mill Park

Approval for the investigation of the possibility of restoring the house on the Old Mill site was given at a meeting of the Marshall County Historical Society recently in Warren. Ernie Jewell, Old Mill state park superintendent, was named chairman of a committee to make plans for the restoration and determine the costs of the project.

After bylaws for the new organization were approved, Alfred Olson of Argyle, Peter Grant of Stephen and Mrs. Albert Dahlman of Alvarado were reelected president, vice president and secretary-treasurer of the society by the board of governors.

Ralph Welte, northern district supervisor for the department of state parks, spoke about the amount of cooperation and aid the state park department would give the proposed restoration. Speaking for U. W. Hella, state park director, he stated that everything would be done possible to put the plan into effect. Mr. Welte informed the group that it is possible all proceeds from the sale of souvenir flour bags at the mill could be used for the restoration project.

Mrs. Dahlman reported that the society had a balance of about $1,600 with an income of about $3,700 from the county mill levy in 1958. This will be $3,900 in 1959 because of the higher assessed valuations.

Good Records Are Help in Preparing Your Tax Returns

Good financial records for last year are essential in the preparation of an accurate 1958 Federal income tax return, District Director George O. Lethert of the internal revenue service emphasized today.

Taxpayers are responsible for the facts and figures set forth in their Federal income tax returns. Therefore, complete records are particularly helpful to taxpayers who plan to itemize permissible deductions and who may have a basis upon which to obtain a refund.

Mr. Lethert added, "We have urged taxpayers in years past to be sure to keep complete and detailed accounts of sums they have spent in contributions, medical expense, interest payments, deductible taxes and other items which our tax forms or instruction allow them to deduct."

The district director urged taxpayers who have incurred expense of a deductible nature to compute their 1958 tax liability in two ways, first on the standard deduction basis and then by itemizing authorized deductions. In this way they will determine which method will result in the greatest tax saving to them.

Food Faddism Hit by Medical Group

Association Questions Value of Many Supplements

Food fadism is costing an estimated 10,000,000 Americans, $500,000,000 each year, says the Minnesota State Medical association. Many of these persons have been convinced by modern "merchants of menace" that unless they begin the day with adequate amounts of certain multiple purpose power-packed vitamin pills, "that run down feeling," "tired blood," "growing old before your time" and "a sub-clinical deficiency" may be their inevitable fate.

Modern door-to-door medicine men are working overtime in an attempt to convince the public that improper diet is to blame for most diseases and that it can be cured by taking a food supplement. Many of the food supplements, which are sold in pill, powder, capsule or pellet form, often contain supplies of vitamins far beyond the need of most individuals. Many of the supplements are harmless, and contribute little or nothing to the general health of the user.

Medical research has shown that many of these so-called "short cut to health" food supplements contain no more than minerals, vitamins, exotic herbs, seaweed, and dried vegetables.

The real danger results from the tendency of certain individuals to depend on these preparations as a substitute for medical care.

Visitors Would Pay $6 Million State Sales Tax

A three per cent sales tax would bring an estimated $6 million a year in new revenue to Minnesota from out-of-state visitors, according to a recent statement by Don Brown, chairman, Minnesota Tax Reform committee.

Minnesota's lakes and streams attract hundreds of thousands of visitors from other states annually. Minnesota is also a great convention state drawing out-of-state visitors to our cities in large numbers. They would be reached through a sales tax.

These out-of-state visitors pay neither property nor income taxes in Minnesota, says Brown. A Minnesota sales tax would not deter them from coming here any more than the sales tax in 33 states stops Minnesotans from going to those states.

Turkey Returns to Hold Steady in 1959

Minnesota's turkey producers can expect about the same net returns from the 1959 turkey crop as they received in 1958.

If there's any change, it will be a slight drop in returns, according to William H. Dankers, extension marketing economist at the University of Minnesota. He says present indications are that turkey prices during the September-December period this year may be slightly under the 23.5 cent average of 1958.

However, lower costs for poults and some turkey feeds will partly offset the expected drop in turkey prices.

Turkey producers in January reported they expect to raise 5 precent more turkeys this year than in 1958. The increase is 3 percent in heavy and 16 percent in light breeds.

However, there were 14 percent more heavy breeder hens in North Central states in January than a year earlier. Also, heavy toms have been bringing higher prices than in early 1958. Both factors, Dankers says, indicate there may be more expansion in heavy breed production than producers have indicated.

Storage stocks of turkey meat on Feb. 1 were 11 percent under record stocks of a year earlier. There is some indication that stocks at the beginning of the 1959 heavy marketing season will be no larger—and maybe under 1958 levels.

Dankers says demand for turkey meat, especially for the holidays, is uncertain. Although there will be more people and increased purchasing power, red meats and other poultry meat will be lower in price this fall than a year earlier. Also, the government purchased 2 percent of total turkey production in 1958. At present, it isn't known whether any government purchases will be made in 1959.

Olaf A. Dahlen New Alderman from 3d Ward

Named by 3-2 Vote of City Council to Succeed S. Sandvig

Olaf A. Dahlen, 113 Arnold ave. No., farm shop and auto mechanics instructor at the area vocational school, was elected alderman of the third ward at an adjourned meeting of the city council Monday evening.

Dahlen, who will take office April 1, replaces Stan Sandvig, who resigned March 1.

The election, which was delayed at the March 17 meeting of the council pending the return of city attorney Robert Wurst, was by the original 3 to 2 split vote held over from the regular meeting. Alderman Roy Lee, S. A. Honebrink and President Bob Carlson, who had formed a committee to investigate possible successors to Sandvig, voted for Dahlen. Alderman A. J. Rau and E. B. Benson had proposed the name of Ralph Hunt whose name had been submitted by petitioners from the third ward and questioned the election of Dahlen on the grounds that a majority vote of the complete council of six members was necessary to carry.

Carl Gjernes, who represented the voters who had signed the petition requesting the appointment of Hunt, opened Monday evening's discussion with a request that the petition be considered before any further action was taken. Attorney Wurst quoted from the statutes that filling the vacancy was the responsibility of the council and that the attorney general had already ruled in another case that a majority vote to fill a council vacancy where the normal complement was six members would be at least three of the present members.

At this point, Alderman Rau asked Wurst if it was legal for council members to solicit persons to fill the vacancy. Wurst again quoted from the statutes that the procedure followed by council members had been proper. Alderman Rau and Benson then asked why they had not had the opportunity to make nominations and were answered by council president Carlson that they had every right and had nominated Hunt.

A. J. Rau contended that the signatures of the 14 petitioners of ward three expressed the view

Thief R. Watershed Board Endorses Elm Lake Game Preserve

Another step toward the formation of the Elm Lake Game Refuge and Public Hunting ground was taken Sunday evening when the board of directors of the Thief River Watershed Development association passed a resolution favoring the project, says the Warren Sheaf.

The meeting was held at the headquarters building of the Mud Lake National Wildlife refuge. Balloting showed 5 directors in favor of the project, 2 in opposition and 8 abstaining.

The association resolved that: "The Minnesota Department of Conservation purchase approximately 15,000 acres of land located in Agder and Grand Plain townships, county of Marshall, and adjacent to the Mud Lake National Wildlife Refuge for the purpose of developing a public hunting area and game refuge;

"That such development shall first consider the needs for drainage of surrounding agricultural lands in the watershed. No development shall be undertaken that will cause, directly or indirectly, flooding;

"That said development will provide for maintenance of existing outlet ditches from contiguous private land, and maintenance of adequate drainage facilities within the area purchased

A Cappella Choir from Minneapolis to Sing Here Apr. 6

Northwestern College Group of 55 to Appear in Lincoln Auditorium

The Northwestern College a capella choir of Minneapols and its associated instrumental and vocal ensembles will conduct its annual concert tour March 20 through April 7 with 23 appearances in leading centers of six midwestern states and two provinces of Canada.

The group will appear in the Lincoln high school auditorium in Thief River Falls on Monday evening, April 6, at 8 p.m., under the auspices of the Evangelical Ministers association.

The choir, whose 55 singers represent 16 states and Canada, and who are competitively chosen from the entire student body, has achieved notable success and been acclaimed by critics as one of the great college choirs of this day. The group, besides its frequent assistance to Dr. Billy Graham as the "Hour of Decision" choir, does its daily work in connection with the Chapel Hour of the school and its radio network of three stations, has published several recordings.

Featured with the choir is an accompanist group of unusual nature for choirs of this type; Donna Baker, pianist; Ardith Hunt, accordionist; and Harry Sirkman, bass viol player, all of whom will accompany the group in unusual settings of well-known gospel songs.

The public is invited to attend the concert appearance here. Admission is free.

Polk Co. Sheriff Has Trouble with Bad-check Artist

Polk County Sheriff Carl Knutson of Crookston figures he's had more than his share of bad check troubles.

Among the checks reported to his office recently were three written by a woman in nearby Mentor that were returned for insufficient funds.

The sheriff got in touch with the woman. She told him, certainly, she'd be happy to take care of them and gave Knutson a check for $28 to cover the checks.

The sheriff paid the three claimants out of office funds and then sent the $28 check to the bank to cover the amount paid out.

Tuesday the check bounced.

Much Excitement at E. 8th st. Home

There was lots of excitement at the Orville D. Larson home at 705 E. Eighth st. Wednesday evening.

About 7:35 p.m. Wednesday a car driven west on E. Eighth st. by Vernon A. San, 39, Triumph, Minn., hit Larson's car parked in front of the Larson residence.

Total damage to both cars in the collision was estimated by police to exceed $800. San was taken to Northwestern hospital and remained there overnight, although he was not believed seriously injured. He was charged with driving under the influence of intoxicants.

The excitement was far from over at the Larson home even after the wreckage was cleared away. At 10 p.m. the place was again a beehive of activity as the result of a chimney fire, which brought firemen rushing to the scene.

Senate Leader Cites Welfare Dept. Spending

Commr. M. Hursch Denies Accusation of Wastefulness

A conservative state Senate leader accused the state welfare department Wednesday of "going out of its way to increase spending every time there are a few dollars in the jackpot."

The head of the welfare department made a prompt denial.

Sen. Donald O. Wright of Minneapolis, chairman of the Senate tax committee, made the accusation to the Senate finance committee in connection with a welfare department transfer request.

The department asked permission to shift $435,000 from the old age assistance account, where there is a surplus, to other relief accounts which are short.

Wright said the other funds were short despite a federal windfall of 1½ million dollars because the department had raised food allowances "without asking advice from anyone."

Morris Hursh, commissioner of welfare, said he was "amazed" that the transfer request had been questioned.

"This has been standard operating procedure for years," he told the committee. "We have to make out estimates three years in advance. That's why the transfer authority has been provided in the law."

He added that the increase in food allowances, the first since 1951, was made in accordance with department policy when the cost of living index rose 5 points.

The committee voted to ask the department to present a bill for money to meet the deficiency instead of making the transfer.

In another important action, the Senate killed proposals to authorize establishment of private game preserves where hunters could shoot raised game birds for a fee. The measure was described as "class legislation."

A teen-age driving bill was passed by the House, 96-24.

It provides that 15 year olds cannot carry other juvenile passengers unless accompanied by an adult at least 21 years of age. However, a 15-year-old may drive alone.

With County Assessor G. Gunstenson in charge, the annual Pennington county assessors' school was conducted at the court house last Friday. Addressing the group was William Engels, property tax examiner with the Minnesota department of taxation in St. Paul, while Gunstenson and County Auditor C. W. Rodekuhr also spoke. Present were 19 out of 21 assessors serving the townships, villages and city of Thief River Falls, in addition to a large number of township board members.

I am sure we would all like to see Mack Draper enjoy his radishes and onions this year, so here is a little tip:

"To control root maggots on radishes and onions, work into 2 or 3 inches of soil a little Acme 6% Chlordane Dust. One pound treats 600 to 700 square feet. Remains effective all season. Plant on ground not previously used for root crops.

Exchange Student from Greece Talks to TRF Rotarians

Miss Mary Demetrellou Voices Hope of Becoming United States Citizen

Greek civilization, once the highest in the world, has not kept pace with many other countries and the migration of many people from that nation to other countries has deprived Greece of many of its more intelligent and progressive young people, according to Mary Demetrellou, an exchange student at Lincoln high school.

The young woman, who makes her home in Thief River Falls with Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Ewing, 111 Tindolph ave. N., spoke Monday noon at the regular meeting of the Rotary club.

"I translated everything into Greek, then into English when I first came here," Miss Demetrellou told the Rotarians, "and my sentence sequence was all wrong. Now I have the proper sequence but I speak a combination of half Greek and half English."

When she leaves here in August, he will return to her native land to explain democracy to her people, she said, adding, "There are many of my people who think the United States sends troops abroad to get more territory rather than to halt Communism."

She contrasted life in Greece to life in the United States using as examples the social life of the people, recreation, income and weather. The average family income is much less there, she said, and taxes are very high. Very few people own their own automobiles.

Questioned as to the educational system of Greece, Miss Demetrellou said that school is much more difficult in her land. Many students fail and must repeat grades and tests consist of much more material to memorize than youngsters in this country experience. She added that she expects to go to college when she returns to Greece and hopes that she will be able to return to the United States some day to become a citizen.

Culkins Cites Need of Compliance on Wheat Acreage Allotments

Effects of compliance or non-compliance with the 1959 wheat acreage allotments on Pennington county farmers were outlined today by P. W. Culkins, office manager of the county ASC, as follows:

1. If you comply with your 1959 farm wheat allotment . . . In general, your farm will be credited with the farm wheat allotment plus the acreage considered diverted from wheat for 1959. This is the wheat acreage that the county ASC office calls your "base wheat acreage." That base acreage will be used as the wheat acreage history for 1959 in establishing future wheat allotments for your farm. (If you have stored excess wheat from a previous crop and you underplant your 1959 allotment to remove such excess, your situation should be discussed with the county committee.)

2. If you do not comply with your farm wheat acreage allotment—

a. The general rule is that if you exceed the wheat allotment for your farm, regardless of the size of the allotment, your farm will be credited with the allotment only, in the determination of future allotments.

b. You may arrange to store the the excess wheat or deliver it to the Secretary of Agriculture and as a result your farm would be credited with its "base wheat acreage" in determining future allotments.

c. If you later use or market any of the excess wheat and a marketing quota penalty becomes due, your farm would be considered as a farm not in compliance for 1959 for purposes of determining future wheat acreage allotments for your farm. As a result, your farm would be credited with the 1959 wheat allotment only (not the base acreage of wheat) in establishing future allotments for the farm.

2. Price support—

a. If you comply with your farm wheat acreage allotment, all the wheat produced on the farm will be eligible for price support and the crop will not be subject to marketing quota penalties.

b. If you produce more acres of wheat than your farm allotment, none of the wheat from the farm will be eligible for price support.

4. Marketing Quota Penalty—

a. In general, if you produce more acres of wheat than your farm allotment and the allotment is more than 15 acres, the excess wheat will be subject to a marketing quota penalty. If you have approval from the county ASC committee to grow up to 30 acres of wheat for feed or other use on the farm and you comply with the provisions of that program, your wheat will not be subject to marketing quotas.

Olaf A. Dahlen Is Appointed Third Ward Alderman of persons from that area much more than those of the three alderman who did not live in the area and was informed by Wurst that the legal procedure for filling the vacancy was not an election by voters of ward three as proposed by Rau but by an election by the council.

Rau again repeated that he believed that he was entitled to an opinion by the attorney general's office and Attorney Wurst said that he had never encountered a situation of this kind before. "You want an opinion of the attorney general's opinion?" Wurst asked.

Following other discussion, Bob Carlson consulted with Wurst and announced that he had been informed that he had the right to declare the vote of 3 to 2 taken March 17 as holding, electing Dahlen to the position.

Rau again raised the question of an opinion by the attorney general and Wurst said that he would probably write for one and if his interpretation of the law was wrong, the position would be vacated. He added that a petition has no legal standing and nominations could not be made by petition but should be taken into consideration.

Following the election, Bill LaFave and Judge Herman Kjos appeared before the council to ask it to pass a resolution requesting special legislation to permit the city to condemn riverfront property for use as a centennial park. The request by Sen. Roy Wiseth was approved by the council and the resolution will be prepared.

The council accepted the bid of the Forkenbrock Motor company of $2,964 to furnish the street department with a two-ton truck and, at the request of the park department, rejected all bids for a three-quarter ton truck for that department's use. Council approval was granted for two firemen to attend a school at the University of Minnesota from April 27 to May 1 and from June 8 to 10.

As chairman of the finance committee, Alderman Benson proposed increasing water rates for the city to meet increased operating costs. Pointing out that the department is now "running in the red," Benson asked consideration of a proposal which would raise the minimum rate from $1.25 to $1.69. At present, 50 cents is charged for every 1,000 gallons of water up to 10,- gallons; 40 cents per 1,000 for the next 10,000; 30 cents per 1,000 for the next 80,000 and 20 cents per 1,000 for over 100,00 gallons.

Under the proposal, the charge per 1,000 gallons for the first 10,000 gallons would be 75 cents; 61 cents per 1,000 for the second 10,000; 50 cents per 1,000 for the next 50,000; 36 cents per 1,000 for the next 80,000 and 34 cents per 1,000 for over 150,000 gallons.

Benson stated that there has been no charge in the minimum charge since 1927 and the last "very small" rate increase was made when the new water plant was put into operation nine years ago. He asked consideration of the rate change which, he said, would bring the water department income up to the cost of operation. The matter will be under consideration until the regular April meeting.

No decision was reached in the matter of preventing the use of the city dump ground by persons outside of the community. The matter was brought to the council's attention by Aldermen Benson and Rau.

The council called for bids for a new garbage truck to replace the one now in use. Bids to be opened April 21 will be on a two-ton truck with a 10-yard garbage box.

A resolution was passed at the conclusion of the meeting calling for two-hour parking on the north side of Second st. between Main and Knight aves. and will go into effect when the signs have been posted.

I wonder where
The birdies is?

Heavy snow warnings are out for the southeastern section of the state for today but the forecast for this area is for partly cloudy today and tonight and fair tomorrow. Little change in temperature is expected during this period.

The high expected today is in the upper 40's and the low tonight in the 20's.

OVER THE BACK FENCE

By STAN PETERSON

The Phewlitzer Prize

If the fraternity of advertising ever gets around to awarding prizes to its most enterprising members, there are two account exectives who will be top contenders.

These nameless individuals have both scored coups for engaging the services of a national figure to endorse products which they were responsible for huckstering. Discounting the fact that the proceeds of endorsing these products have gone to charity, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt has done herself and the party her husband led for so many years a great disservice.

The advertisements which bore her name are familiar to most of us—a hearing aid and the oleomargarine industry were both recommended by the former first lady of the United States.

From now on, the gates are down as far as national figures are concerned. We may very well be treated to the spectacle of a Supreme Court justice leaning casually against a mantlepiece as the "Man of Distinction" or the wife of a governor coming out in favor of a certain brand of automobiles—all in the name of sweet charity, of course.

Instead of Albert and Stanley, the friendly poster pasters, we may have two members of the president's cabinet or former governmental greats.

These may be attacked as absurd comparisons, of course, but are they really? There is something very degrading about a woman, once revered by so many, getting into a business which commercializes on the past greatness of a national figure like the late president of the United States.

What must be more than a little embarassing to the top-level members of the Democratic party was Mrs. Roosevelt's endorsement of a product which, when uttered by children in dairy regions, is cause for having their mouths washed out with soap and banishment to the nearest corner after a thorough spanking.

Here in dairyland, we are spending huge amounts to persuade the American public that "butter is better" and in one moment, Mrs. Roosevelt upsets the applecart by coming out in favor of "that substitute." It must be rather difficult for hidebound Democrats in the dairy industry to have this happen and still maintain their faith.

All hail to fraternity of gray flannel suits, the coiners of slogans and the writers of jingles. With their sharpened pencils, they have again been able to pierce the curtain of dignity to peddle their wares.

Common Courtesy

There are two kinds of pedestrians in the midwest—the quick and the dead. Unless motorists begin using a little common courtesy, the number of the latter will grow alarmingly.

Minnesota, like most of the other states, has a law on its books which states that a pedestrian in the crosswalk has the right of way but, wisely, those on foot have a great deal of respect for a couple of tons of metal aimed in their general direction.

The result has been that here we have the greatest untapped pool of standing broadjump athletes in the United States. From the time we begin to walk, our mothers have taught us that there is little chance that we can outbluff or outweight automobiles. "Jump" is the second word taught to all children after they have learned the contraction, "Don't."

But, for those of you who think that sitting on the throne of your chariot car behind your hundreds of horses gives you first choice at the crosswalks, you're wrong. Some day, and it may be soon, someone isn't going to be able to jump fast enough.

Then you will learn the hard way that you don't have the right of way just because you and your car are bigger than the insignificant worm of a pedestrian who has the unmitigated gall to question your "right."

We have some nice dinner napkins for free — to wipe the Easter gravy off your chin. We also have a spotter who will wipe the gravy off your suit — for $1.50 of course.

EGF Senator Sees Litle Chance for 'U' of M. Branch

State Sen. Louis Murray of East Grand Forks said Monday night he no longer is optimistic that the current Minnesota legislature will approve college training at the Crookston and Morris Agricultural schools.

Murray said that although such training has been approved by four legislative committees, he fears the program will be defeated when it comes to the floor of the Senate in the near future. The bill now is on the Senate's general orders calendar.

The East Grand Forks Liberal senator said however, he will continue to push for establishment of college-level branches of the University of Minnesota at both agricultural schools.

"There is a lot of horse-trading going on," he commented.

A regular meeting of the Board of Education of Independent School District No. 564, Thief River Falls, Minnesota, was held at the office in Lincoln High School at 8 o'clock p.m. on February 9, 1959.

The meeting was called to order by President Starekow. The following members were present: Hutrness, Olson, Thompson, Howick and Pearson. Supt. Mickelson also attended the meeting.

Motion was duly made, seconded and carried to dispense with the reading of the minutes of the last meeting.

The matter of the High School Band participating in and attending the State Hockey Tournament was presented by Superintendent Mickelson. After discussion, it was moved by Hutrness, seconded by Olson, and unanimously carried, that permission be granted the Lincoln High School Band to attend the tournament.

Superintendent Mickelson presented an oral report indicating the need of a re-appraisal of school property for insurance purposes. Motion was duly made, seconded, and carried to approve of the same.

Bus drivers Halvorson, Molstad and Habedank appeared before the Board in connection with drivers' request for adjustment of pay scales. Their request had previously been filed with the Board in written form, as follows:

"We, the undersigned school bus drivers of District 564, Thief River Falls, Minnesota, request a revision of bus drivers salaries and related benefits to take effect January 1, 1959.

Schedule as follows:

$140.00 per month, second year, plus mileage.

Two days paid substitute for emergency.

Two days sick leave per year, accumulative to 12 days.

School pays physical examination for drivers.

All drivers to retain present routes. In event a route is without a driver, the drivers with seniority to have first choice or remain on his present route."

This request was discussed at some length with the drivers in attendance at the meeting.

Motion was made by Thompson, seconded by Howick, and unanimously carried to adopt the following schedule and provisions, effective as of January 1, 1959, as follows to-wit:

Two cents for each additional mile over 60 miles per day.

$140.00 per month, second year, plus mileage.

Two days sick leave per year, accumulative to 12 days.

School pays cost of physical examination of drivers.

All drivers to retain present routes insofar as possible.

In event a route is without a driver, the drivers with seniority to have first choice or remain on his present route, insofar as practical and possible.

Motion was made by Thompson, seconded by Olson, and unanimously carried to approve application for home instruction for Janet Jansen.

Motion was made by Olson, seconded by Hutrness, and unanimously carried to accept resignations of the following teachers: Ardyth Archer, John P. Wagner and Earl H. Steinden.

Administrative salaries were again discussed at some considerable length. Motion was duly made, seconded and unanimously carried to grant an increase in administrative salaries in the total sum of $3,900.00 for the year 1959-60 for the following: Superintendent Mickelson, Stanley Nelson, Kermit Kastman, Joseph Iverson, Arnold Larson, Miles Nelson and Dennis Rolle, the detailed schedule of which is on file.

Teachers salary schedule was then again discussed. The Board having heretofore, and at this meeting, considered and discussed actual and proposed schedules of other schools in the State, and being desirous of maintaining a salary level comparable with other schools, motion was made by Olson, seconded by Pearson, and unanimously carried to approve and adopt the following schedule effective for the school year 1959-60 and thereafter, subject to modification by the Board, to-wit:

Experience	Two Yrs. Training	Three Yrs. Training	Four Yrs. Training	Five Yrs. Training
0	$3000	$3625	$4050	$4250
1	3125	3750	4250	4450
2	3250	3875	4450	4650
3	3375	4000	4650	4850
4	3500	4125	4850	5050
5	3625	4250	5050	5250
6	3750	4375	5250	5450
7	3875	4500	5450	5650
8	4000	4625	5650	5850
9		4750	5850	6050
10		4875	6050	6250

The base to be increased $300 for 1960-61 school year.

A dependency allowance of $300 is added to this schedule.

The maximum increase for 1959-60 is $500.

Experience in other school systems credited to maximum of six years.

Additional compensation for coaching and other extra-curricular activities to be designated by the Board. This to be in addition to regular class load.

Teachers not yet up to above schedule, by complying with the requirements listed herewith, shall be entitled to yearly increment until maximum is reached. This schedule is not to be interpreted as entitling a teacher to any definite salary unless it has been specifically approved by the Board for each year.

Sick allowance shall be ten days per year, accumulating up to 40 days maximum including the current year. May be used for personal illness and not to exceed five days may be used for illness or death in the immediate family.

Annual physical examination may be required of each teacher at the discretion of the Board. The form to be used will be supplied by the Board.

Annual increments shall be continued on satisfactory service. The Board may, upon administrative recommendation, withhold increments if work is not satisfactory.

Three-fourths of the annual salary for the current school year shall be paid in nine equal payments, subject to deductions under the law for the State Teachers Retirement and/or other authorized deductions, and shall be payable on or before the first day of each month, beginning with the first day of October and ending on the closing day of the school year. The remaining one-fourth of the annual salary shall be paid on June 30.

A study of the Drivers Training Program was presented by Superintendent Mickelson indicating that it would be more economical to expand the summer training program than to increase the in-school program. He was instructed to proceed with such plan.

Motion was duly made, seconded and carried to approve bills as audited by the auditing committee.

Motion was duly made, seconded and carried to adjourn.

ARNOLD PEARSON,
Clerk.

Special Meeting
February 23, 1959

The Board of Education of Independent School District No. 564 met in special session at the City Council Chambers in the City Auditorium, Thief River Falls, Minnesota, on February 23, 1959 at 8 o'clock p.m.

The meeting was called to order by President Starekow. The following members of the Board were present: Thompson, Olson, Howick, Hutrness and Pearson. Superintendent Mickelson was also in attendance.

A presentation was made to the Board, and others in attendance, by the City Council indicating that the cost of construction, and financing thereof, of a building at the airport, suitable for part use as an A & E School would be as follows:

Base bid, steel building	$ 18,045.00
	165.00
	485.00
	$ 24,980.00
Extra footings	1,097.00
Storm windows	75.00
Double glazed	72.00
	$ 26,224.00
Architect fees 6%	1,573.44
Water	450.00
Sewer	1,200.00
Bond Attorney fees	350.00
Builders Risk insurance	100.00
	$ 29,897.44

The Board was further informed that on the basis of a $30,000.00 bond issue at 4½ % it would require payments of $222.00 per month for 15 years to liquidate the obligation, in addition to which the sum of $25.00 per month would be required for insurance coverage, thus bringing the total monthly payments to $247.00 per month over the 15-year period.

Upon receiving this information, the matter was discussed by the members of the School Board. The Board being unanimously favorable to the proposition, President Starekow was authorized to and did inform the council that the Board would approve entering into a 15-year lease at a monthly rental of $247.00 per month.

We were further informed that it would be necessary to obtain special legislation in connection with the matter and that steps to that end would be taken immediately.

There being no further business, the meeting adjourned.

ARNOLD PEARSON,
Clerk.

Jealousy in Children

The unannounced arrival of baby sister can be an upsetting thing to two-year-old Jimmy. It's hard for a child to share mother and father and the attention he once had all to himself. If mother now spends most of her time taking care of the newcomer, it's only natural for him to feel left out. This new feeling will most likely result in some kind of a protest; no one gives up his "place in the sun" without some struggle. Some children start sucking their thumb more than usual. Some may go back to bed-wetting or may, for awhile, want a bottle, too. A child may even ask his parents to return the baby. What Jimmy really needs is his rightful share of love, attention and understanding; maybe a little extra once in awhile.

Much can be done to reduce jealousy and to help Jimmy have good feelings about his baby sister. Preparing him beforehand for the coming of the baby may help some. What is even more important is to show him that he is still loved and wanted. One mother, I know, often reads to her three-year-old daughter Mary when she is holding the baby, and plays with her alone when the baby is sleeping. Father, too, gives Mary extra attention when he gets home in the evening. They always try to keep some presents on hand, so that when the baby gets gifts, Mary gets something, too. Mary likes the baby and doesn't seem jealous at all.

Many parents have found that giving a child small responsibilities in caring for the new baby helps to overcome jealousy. It helps, too, to remember that some jealousy is natural and not serious. Understanding that these feelings will pop up and accepting them when they do gives the youngster a chance to get them out of his system without feeling bad or guilty. When children know that we know how they feel, the trouble often blows over, without causing a scene which does nobody any good.

About Lying

Sometimes I think parents encourage lying in their children by the way they go about trying to make them truthful and honest. We risk making a child lie when we get him to "come clean" and confess a misdeed which we know he did. Asking a child "Who did this?" or "Did you do this?" when he knows from the tone of our voice that we are upset over the broken dish will make him deny having done it.

Studies of children's development show that some things we would call lying in adults are rather natural in youngsters. A child's imagination may be responsible for many made-up stories. Children of three or four don't know where the real ends and unreal begins. Our job as parents is gradually to help them see the difference. A little child is unable to give an orderly account of events. Branding him as a liar making him feel guilty will just make matters worse.

Children are not naturally deceitful. If we would remember that lying is usually a child's attemp to protect himself, we may deal differently with him. Many lies result from fear of punishment. The more a child fears what his parents will "do to him" for disobeying them, the more he will try to cover up.

Other reasons for lying may be fear of disapproval and fear of ridicule. Some children lie because they want sympathy and praise, and some may lie to protect their friends from blame.

If our child is sure that we will stand behind him, especially when he is in trouble, he is less likely to resort to lying. Making it easy and satisfying for children to tell the truth, praising and encouraging them when they face a situation bravely and trusting them will get us much farther than scoldings and harsh punishments.

One of the most effective ways to accomplish this in our children is to set an example of courage, honesty and truthfulness for them.

Our LAND

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture.

A detention and erosion control dam on the John Schaefers farm in Stearns county will save many crops and dollars in the future. The Schaefers and neighbor Toney Ley have fields on bottom land that were covered with sand and silt every time it rained. The dam now controls the silting problem and the gully won't keep eroding back to the neighbors' buildings and to a county road. Also, there is a 12-foot deep permanent pond of water above the dam. The pond covers more than four acres and is a center for wildlife, recreation, livestock watering and is a fire protection source.

More than 90 ten-gallon cans of milk per acre—that's what Abdon Peterson, Milaca, "harvested" last summer through fertilizing. His actual milk yield was 7,288 pounds per acre from the fertilized area, compared to only 4,051 from a pasture that went unfertilized. A farm and home development cooperator with Mille Lacs county agent Clayton Grabow, Peterson also bought a flail-type chopper which made a big improvement in the quality of his hay.

Field terraces are important moisture-savers in a year of low rainfall, say Tilford and Allen Morken, Spring Grove. Tilford recently told James Goettle, SCS technician: "The corn on my newly-terraced fields was uniform in height and yield, and it was easier to do the field work on the contour. The small amount of moisture we did get last summer stayed in the corn rows instead of running off the field." The Morkens constructed more than three miles of terraces in 1958, and plan to put in more this summer.

A chemical from Switzerland is spelling doom to weeds in many fields around Minnesota. The chemical is simazin. According to Richard Behrens, University of Minnesota agronomist, tests show that one "pre-emergence" application of 2-4 pounds of actual simazin per acre will give good control of annual weeds in corn throughout the growing season. Behrens says two pounds is enough on sandy soils; about four pounds may be necessary on heavier land.

Dairy records help determine land use on the John R. Nahrgang farm near Lewiston, according to Robert Ascheman, Winona county agent. "DHIA records give a measure of how good your feeding program is," Nahrgang says. Last summer, he switched from conventional pasturing to "green chopping." He hauls a load of fresh chopped forage to the cows in the morning and again in the afternoon. He still gives the cows a little pasture, but much less than formerly. Month-by-month records show this produced more milk than the old way.

Leon Abendroth in Wright county says his corn yields have averaged more than 70 bushels per acre for 8 years. And this is on a sand farm. Leon has been a soil conservation district cooperator for 12 years. He attributes his crop yields to soil and water conservation and use of fertilizer. He has established wind strips, contour strips, terrace and waterways.

How does a grass cover save water? Roger Harris, extension soil conservationist at the University of Minnesota, puts it this way. In general, soils wet by a good rain and which may take in a third of an inch of water per hour—will have only a third of that rate of water intake if it rains again the next day. The same kind of soil covered with vegetation will take in much more water than will bare, cultivated land.

Soil insecticides can stop corn rootworms and other underground insects. But they also need to be in the right place to do the job, according to John Lofgren, extension entomologist at the University of Minnesota. He says soil insecticides can be used as a "band" treatment on the crop row or as a broadcast application. Band treating is done at planting time with a planter-mounted sprayer or granular attachment, which put insecticide band above but not in contact with the seed. Broadcasting should be done shortly before planting, with the insecticide worked in immediately. But it souldn't be plowed down.
It shouldn't be plowed down.

to permit orderly disposal of surplus water;

"That the area be developed primarily for indigenous species, namely: deer, moose, grouse and fur bearers. Existing waterfowl habitat should be improved by adding small potholes, preferably within level ditching to minimize flooding;

"That the development plans promulgated by the Minnesota department of conservation be made available for study by the duly appointed wildlife committee of the Thief River Watershed Development association. This committee shall include a representative from the Minnesota department of conservation and the U.S. fish and wildlife service."

The resolution was signed by Julian Rodahl, president of the association, and witnessed by Bob Larson, secretary. Those in attendance in addition to the above were Otto Rupprecht, Dr. James Disse, Oliver Howland, Norman Anderson, Nilo Rantanen, Adolph Stainhower, James Phillips and Art Moe.

A preliminary meeting was held Thursday when residents of the Elm Lake and Mud Lake area were invited to express their views on the proposal. Robert Farmes, area game manager from Thief River Falls, presented the plan and John McMartin, farm planner for the Marshall-Beltrami Soil Conservation district, also spoke.

At the meeting a decision on the resolution was reached and was drawn up at the Sunday session.

The area proposed for the refuge and public hunting grounds is composed primarily of tax-forfeited land. Purchase price for the department of conservation has been estimated at $85,000. The money would go into the consolidated conservation area fund for improvement of conservation areas throughout the state.

Traffic Safety Was Lions Topic

Steve Austin and Lincoln Students Address Club

The program at the Lions club luncheon Wednesday noon was supplied by Steve Austin, chairman of the Pennington county safety council, and three Lincoln high school students, Don Stewart, Charles Rambeck and Sandy Wilson, who had attended the recent youth traffic conference in St. Paul.

Introduced by Dr. O. D. Beich, program chairman, Austin stated that traffic safety is becoming a still more serious problem, and that the solution lies in the hands of the individual driver rather than with law enforcement officers.

The three students discussed various aspects of the St. Paul conference, which was attended by well over 1,000 persons, taking part in numerous panel discussions. They said those attending went on record in favor of more and better driver education, retaining the minimum age for obtaining a drivers license at 15, suspending licenses of law violators and uniformity in imposition of penalties.

An Interesting Afternoon

We accompanied Lawrence Lubitz and Cliff Jorde, a couple of the local curling club's more enthusiastic curlers, to Grand Forks on Saturday afternoon, and we watched the contingent of Winnipeg curlers in action in first event competition in the bonspiel held in the Winter Sports Building on the UND campus.

Our intention in going over to Grand Forks was to watch the Howard Wood Jr. rink of Winnipeg. This rink has twice won the Macdonald Brier trophy, emblematic of Canada's curling championship, and is rated with the Dominion's best. We were disappointed in this intention because the Wood rink, in a Saturday morning match, was beaten by the A. R. Fahrner rink (a rink, incidentally, that has competed in the bonspiels held here at the Arena), 13 to 3.

But the trip was well worth while, and Lawrence and Cliff had an opportunity to renew acquaintances with a number of the Canadian curlers who have appeared here. And we did see the match whereby the defending bonspiel champion, the Sid Parsons rink, lost in an extra-end encounter. It was interesting too, to see the Don Trakala rink (who have many friends here) make a stirring comeback in their match against the H. Hiller rink. Trakala was down by a 9 to 2 score after four ends, but the boys came back to leave the match in doubt until the final rock in the tenth end when the Millar rink laid a counter in the two-foot rink to erase the tying Trakala stones.

The R. C. Leatherdale rink of Winnipeg won the first event championship by defeating the Fahrner rink, 11 to 9, in the finals on Sunday evening.

The Year's First

We'll give Milt Schlechter credit for authoring the year's first fish story. It seems that Milt intended to pick up his Minnesota resident fishing license the other day, and when he made his application the agent thumbed through a sheaf of papers and came up with the startling information that he, Milt, was not eligible for such a license. According to this verified information, Milt, because of his ability as a fisherman, and due to the fact that he has made a practice of catching fish for his angling companions, it would be necessary for him, Milt, to secure a commercial fishing license! Well, that's the story.

And Milt is the fellow that such amateur fishermen as Stan Nelson and Rags Eldevik try to relegate to such boresome duties as changing water on the minnows, hand out the lunch, and pull up the anchor. Those are not duties for a commercial fisherman!

Rebounds

The Wetzell's of Brockton, Mass. won the national senior hockey championship by defeating the defending champion Rochester Mustangs, 5 to 2, in the finals of the tournament held at Green Bay, Wis. over the weekend. Several local fans, Cliff M. Jorde, Dave Clough, and Monroe Poole were in attendance at the tournament. Cliff and Dave, of course, were interested in the play of the Rochester club, the team with which Marv Jorde plays; and Monroe was cheering for the Green Bay Bobcats and younger brother Jackie.

In an exhibition game played at Roseau on Saturday night, the Winnipeg Maroons (who were beaten by the Port Arthur Bearcats in the Allan Cup playdowns) defeated the Warroad Lakers of the Minnesota-Ontario league, 7 to 4.

The professional Winnipeg Warriors, winning the last three games on their Western Hockey league schedule, edged out the Saskatoon Quakers to gain a place in the prairie division playdowns. The Warriors will be meeting the Edmonton Flyers in a best-of-five first round series.

The first two games will be played at Edmonton, while the third game, on Saturday night, will be played at Winnipeg. The Warriors won the first game, 3 to 2, and as a result are favored to defeat the Flyers and enter the western division finals against the Calgary Stampeders.

Bowling DuChamps Top Sweepstakes

Jesse and Wally Win 1st and 2nd in Event Sunday

The bowling DuChamp brothers of Plummer, Jesse and older brother Wally, monopolized the Northern Chevrolet's singles sweepstakes rolled on alleys three and four at the Family Bowl lanes on Sunday afternoon.

Jesse, rolling games of 213-215-190, compiled an aggregate of 618 pins to win the first prize award, and his 215 game was the high single game score, and earned a prize. Wally DuChamp, with games of 213-191-201, for a 605-pin total won second place money. In third place was Phil LeGault, with the sturdy southpaw rolling games of 205-182-191 for a 578 total.

Lloyd Samuelson, Marv Washnesky, and Emil Dostal were all within reach of Jesse DuChamp's high game of 215 in their last games, but failed to gain the high-game honors. Samuelson chalked up a 213; Dostal a 211; and Washnesky a 205.

Jesse DuChamp	213-215-190—618
Wally DuChamp	213-191-201—605
Phil LeGault	205-182-191—578

Ten Persons Brought into Court This Week

Cases in municipal court Monday were slightly above normal for the second week in a row, with 10 persons on 11 charges appearing before Judge H. O. Chommie. There were several forfeitures, also.

Two persons appeared after arrests by the highway patrol. Arthur L. Kilen, Greenbush, pleaded guilty to driving without 1959 license tabs and was fined $5, suspended, $4 costs paid. Driving with illegal brakes cost Wilfred J. Ostlund, Goodridge, $5 plus $4 costs after he pleaded guilty to the charge.

Elmer E. Kuball, Cavalier, N. Dak., forfeited $20 bond on a speeding charge.

The lone sheriff's case was that of Jerome L. Sabo, Newfolden. He pleaded guilty to careless driving and was fined $10 plus $6.50 costs, and on his guilty plea to possession of beer by a minor was fined $10 plus $5.50 costs, of which the fine was suspended.

City police cases were: Leighton Hamre, rt. 3, Goodridge, improper U turn, guilty plea, $5 fine, $4 costs.

Darrel B. Wick city, speed, plea guilty, $10 fine, $4 costs; Franklin A. Knoll, rt. 1, Radium, illegal muffler, $10 forfeited; Jimmie D. Asp illegal muffler, $5 fine, $4 costs after pleading guilty.

A local juvenile, possession of strong beer, plea guilty, $10 fine, $4 costs and the same charge drew guilty pleas from Dale A. Nelson and Dale W. Kjensrud, city, who were also fined $10 plus $4 costs.

Culver D. Bottem, city, forfeited $25 bond on a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

Tuesday, in a special hearing, John A. Holm, Warroad, pleaded guilty to furnishing beer to a minor and was fined $15 plus $4.

Fergus Falls to Get Liquor Store

Overturning a dry status that has prevailed for more than 40 years, Fergus Falls voters Tuesday approved establishment of a municipal liquor store. The vote was a close 2,405-2,331.

The favorable ballot gives the city commission authority to establish an off-or-on sale liquor dispensary, or both.

A second proposal, to withdraw $110,000 from a sinking fund to refurbish the community's 54-year-old library, lost out 2,593-2,141, short of the 60 per cent required majority.

Organized fire departments in America depend on 75,000 fire trucks to protect lives and property.

Goodridge Boy Has Ham Radio for Hobby

By Carol Lovly, Goodridge

A 'ham' radio has made it possible for Andy Wells, 15, of Goodridge to hear from people all over the United States, Canada, and even into Russia.

Andy is the holder of the Novice Class license from the Federal Communications Commission, which enables him to operate on a certain frequency and send messages in the international Morse code. Andy had to learn the fundamentals of electronics and be able to read diagrams of electrical connections. He also had to gain a basic knowledge of the Federal Communication Commission's rules and regulations.

Andy started working at his hobby at the age of seven. At this time he learned to operate a two-watt transmitter and a crystal receiver. Through constant experimenting and reading he has maintained a complete workshop in the basement of their farm home.

He is operating a Heathket DX-40 transmitter and a Heathket AR-3 receiver which he built from mail-order parts. They cost about $150 to build. His antenna is 15 feet tall and 250 feet long. In the spring he plans to put up a 75-foot antenna.

Wednesday evening finds Andy at the Area Vocational school in Thief River Falls taking a course in ham radios. He is the only person under 30 years of age taking the course.

As far as the future goes, Andy is taking four years of math in high school which will enable him to go to vocational school free for one year. After this he will be offered a job in electronics.

Now a sophomore in Goodridge high school, Andy is an honor student. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Wells.

Water Safety Is Problem in Spring

Five Drownings Recorded in State to Date in 1959

Water safety is a year-around problem on Minnesota lakes and streams and spring is no exception was the warning issued today by Francis Johnson, warden chief. Five drownings have already been recorded for 1959.

In Minnesota, Johnson continued, we have averaged over 139 drownings for each of the past 15 years. Last year six of these drownings resulted from falls through the ice. Minnesota drownings for the year totaled 130.

Parents particularly are cautioned to keep children off the ice at this time of the year. Johnson called special attention to the drownings of two little tots this year, one six years of age and the other only four and one-half.

Johnson said, water safety is a very natural problem in Minnesota with the recreational opportunities of 10,000 lakes. What may be the solution for other states may not be the answer for Minnesota with not only 10,000 lakes or 11,007 as some declare, but actually over 20,000 lakes on the basis of our present survey using 10 acres as the accepted measurement unit.

Our main concern at present, Johnson said, is not how safe the ice is but how dangerous. The only safe rules is to stay off the ice this spring season.

BRT Officers Deny 'Featherbedding'

W. P. Kennedy, President, Says Productivity Rising

Any "featherbedding" on the U. S. railroads is right in management's corner and cannot be charged against railroad workers whose productivity is steadily increasing, W. P. Kennedy, president of the 215,000-member Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, has declared, according to Lloyd Quesnell, president, and Robert Looker, secretary of the local Trainmen's lodge No. 436.

Kennedy called attention to the fact that back in 1923 the railroads had approximately 1,800,000 employees — with 16,000 of them in management posts.

"What is the situation today, 36 years later?" he asks.

The B. R. T. leader points out that the railroads now employ less than half the number at work on the rails in 1923 (there were 811,776 employed by the railroads in February, 1959), but the total of employes in management positions has remained practically the same.

"Facts such as these are not brought out by representatives of management who are currently flooding the nation with propaganda that railroad workers are guilty of 'featherbedding.'"

These same workers who have been unjustly accused by Daniel P. Loomis, president of Association of American Railroads, and other railroad bigwigs, said Kennedy, have increased their output per man-hour at the rate of 4.8 per cent per year during the years from 1949 to 1958.

"The increase in the rate of productivity of railroad workers is at its highest point in history," he declared.

Student Center on 'U' Ag Campus to Open March 30

The new $1,100,000 student center on the University of Minnesota St. Paul campus will open Monday, March 30, according to Paul Larson, director of the center. The three-story brick structure will take over the function of the St. Paul campus Union, located in the "Old Dairy Hall" for the last 28 years.

The center has a ballroom, with stage and lounge, which will accommodate 1,000 dancers or 450 banquet guests or 650 cultural program viewers. Other facilities include: a public lounge; a grill; soda fountain, cafeteria and private dining facilities; conference rooms; offices for student organizations and for staff members; art exhibiting areas; craft shop; poster room; photographic darkroom; eight bowling lanes with automatic pin-setters, six billiard tables and ping-pong tables and a conference headquarters area.

Funds for the center have come from student fees and Student Union earnings, gifts from business firms; industries, alumni, faculty and staff members and other friends of the University and a loan authorized by the board of regents. The building will eventually be paid for completely without public funds.

Director Advises Income Taxpayers

Last-minute Filing Is Costly, Official Says

You can save Uncle Sam and yourself a lot of money by double-checking your 1958 Federal income tax return for possible errors.

That's the advice of George O. Lethert, district director of internal revenue for the St. Paul district, who said it is a costly job to correct these errors once the returns have been filed.

"Taxpayers are getting better every year in filing accurate returns," Lethert said. "But too many mistakes still come in."

His advice:

Fill out your return and check it quickly for errors. Then put it away for a couple of days and check it again. Mistakes you did not catch the first time will become apparent on the second go-around.

"Remember," he said, "late filers who wait until the last minute and file in haste, are prone to omit some important items, such as their signatures, Form W-2's, Social Security numbers, etc. They make mistakes which are costly to themselves, as well as to Uncle Sam.

"Do it now and do it right," Mr. Lethert advised.

5 Million lb. of Rough Fish Taken

The section of fisheries reported today that more than 5,000,000 pounds of rough fish have been removed from Minnesota lakes since last fall by contract, project, and state crew operations. Of this amount approximately 3,000,000 pounds of carp, 1,500,000 pounds are bullheads and the balance is made up of buffalo fish, sheepshead, garfish, and others. During the spring breakup carp traps will be installed to catch the spring and early summer spawning runs of carp.

Legionville, located on Long Lake just north of Brainerd in the heart of the state's vacation land, was built with the support of American Legion Posts in the state.

Each year, increasing number of boys and girls are attracted to the training camp. In 1957 about 1,000 boys and girls attended; in 1958 over 1,400 passed the training program. This year, for the first time, ten full weeks of training have been scheduled.

All registration for campers is being handled through American Legion Headquarters, Veterans Service Building, St. Paul 1. Fee for a one-week session is $18.50 per camper, with campers to be registered and fee paid in advance. Registration deadline is May 1.

Rep. Odin Langen Guest at Fosston Dinner April 1st

Congressman to Give Details of Wheat Bill Introduced Recently

Congressman Odin Langen is returning to the Ninth District for the first time since having taken office in January. Congress having adjourned for the Easter recess, Rep. and Mrs. Langen are expected home Good Friday, for a nine day visit in the district.

They will be guests April 1st at a Republican sponsored turkey dinner at 7 p.m. in the Fosston elementary school auditorium.

Farmers will be interested in the subject of Congressman Langen's talk, namely the wheat Bill that he has introduced in congress under H.R. 5060, that aims at full parity for the farmer on one hand and a reduction of surpluses on the other hand through a system of incremental price supports. At present prices this program would mean increases of as much as 58 cents per bushel to the farmer who takes the option of participating, and it would mean an actual increased gross and net income to him, assuring him his just share of the national income.

For other taxpayers than the farmer, this bill would result in lowering the surplus and thus eliminating from the budget the burden of tremendous costs of maintaing the surpluses we now have as they are progressively reduced.

Congressman Langen's schedule will include visits to all the counties in the Ninth district, including Thief River Falls Thursday, April 2, and culminating in a banquet at Fergus Falls on April 4.

The total of 444 automobile-bicycle accidents reported to the department was an increase of 17 per cent over 1957, when 379 such accidents were reported.

Seeing The Other Side

BY W. E. DAHLQUIST

NAIROBI, KENYA
Wednesday, March 18

I am spending more time in Nairobi than I had planned, mainly because I like it here. While we are almost directly on the equator, the climate is wonderful, the high altitude compensating during the nights and mornings for the heat of the afternoons.

And I like the political atmosphere. The situation is not tense, but there is an awareness of changes in the making and, in comparison with the constant yammering and bellyaching of the pressure groups in our country, it is refreshing to listen to political arguments about the fundamentals of liberty and human rights.

Visits to local newspaper offices have been especially interesting and informative. The government maintains an office for official press releases and I came away from this office with a bundle of material covering matters of both political and economic interest.

Most interesting, however, was an interview with Tom Mboya, the leader of the nationalistic movement in Kenya and prominent among the leaders of the nationalist movement throughout the continent. He did not crowd me for time and showed no reluctance about expressing himself on any of the many questions I asked him. I will have much more to say about him and his views but I have a couple more calls to make before I start telling about Kenya and its problems.

Today I am meeting with an official of an organization of cooperative associations. I understand much progress is being made in the agricultural activities of the colony through cooperative groups and this should be an interesting story. And I am visiting one more paper, published by an Indian and representative, I suppose, of the point of view of the many people of India who have settled here.

I am not devoting much time to the study of the flora and fauna of the country. People are more interesting. But I have visited a couple of the parks with their "ferocious" wild animals. An obliging guide kicked a sleeping lion to permit a fellow passenger to get a more life-like picture. I suspect they are feeding these animals tranquilizers and they do put on a good show for the excited visitors.

From my observation the most dangerous animals in the area are the wandering widows and wealthy retired teachers. The country is loaded with them. Safari groups seem to be composed mainly of women, most of them well-advanced in years. One man, scheduled to join a group that was to leave here by bus for an 8-day trip, discovered thaat he was the lone male in a party of 15 women. He cancelled out and when I talked to him he had just poured himself a double Geritol and was heading back to Omaha. Stanley made a name for himself by coming to this country to find Dr. Livingston, I presume. The women are coming to this country trying to find Stanley.

I am spending more time in Nairobi because I like it here. This probably will mean less time spent in North Africa where they tell me the climate is much less comfortable. From here on I will be moving in the direction of home, and after being away a month, a fellow starts wondering how things are getting along in his own backyard.

Your Office in Washington

by Congressman
ODIN LANGEN

"Busy" and "active" are the two words which best describe the scene on Capitol Hill during the past week. For actually the first time this year the House of Representatives has been in almost continual full dress debate on a number of measures. In addition, a Joint Session of Congress was held, and there were several dinners to which Members of Congress were invited.

Legislation

In addition to many minor bills, three major pieces of legislation were debated and passed by the House this week. Because of space limitations, I can just briefly tell you about them here. A bill to extend for three months the temporary unemployment compensation passed during last year's recession was approved and sent to the Senate Finance Committee. Also sent to the Finance Committee on the Senate side was the House-approved bill providing for voluntary pension plans among professional people. And a measure which would appropriate $297 million in federal aid to airports over the next four years was passed and sent to a Senate-House Conference Committee, since the Senate had earlier passed a similar bill providing for $465 million.

The Wearin' O' the Green

On the day after St. Patrick's Day, President Sean O'Kelly of Ireland addressed a Joint Session of the Congress. In his completely winning manner, he spoke of the past cooperation of our two countries, and the role which Ireland feels it can play in the present and future peace of the world.

Dinners

The pace set by the heavy legislative load, the Joint Session, and committee meetings, plus the correspondence and study which all this required, did not slack off in the evening. However, they were enjoyable evenings, in that we had the pleasure of being the dinner guest of the Gridiron Club, the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation, the National Congress of American Indians, and the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts.

Small Business Gets Loans

from the Desk of
HUBERT H. HUMPHREY

Human misery in the U.S.—While the Administration is talking about "recovery," and the stockmarket soaring, with corporate profits rebounding upward, many millions of American—and many thousands of Minnesotans—remain trapped in what seems to them to be a permanent depression. Minnesota has over 8% of the work force unemployed, while the Minnesota Range communities and Duluth are far harder hit. They have never recovered their pre-recession levels of employment. In the Duluth-Superior area jobless totals are running at 14%—one out of seven workers unemployed. There are other great pockets of economic distress throughout the country — bread-winners out of work, families going without, some actually down to the starvation level. In February unemployment rose to 4.7 million; the second highest February jobless total since 1941.

What can we do? I believe that this great and wealthy nation can afford to take care of Americans in distress. There is just no excuse for mass unemployment of people who are ready and willing to work. Still less is there excuse for letting families go hungry when as a nation we have such a great abundance of food in our storehouses.

Balancing the nation—Our primary goal should be to balance the nation. The famous "balanced budget" has become a kind of slogan designed to justify doing virtually nothing about the extraordinary problems our nation faces. We must devise government policies that encourage economic growth, with more jobs and more income—producing, by the way, more tax revenue. We must think in terms of investing Federal funds in programs and projects that restore purchasing power, that put our magnificent natural and human resources to work at full capacity.

Immediate steps—First things must be given priority—and we are proposing in congress (against the President's opposition) to provide an additional 16 weeks of unemployment compensation by the nearly 2 million unemployed who have either exhausted their benefits or who are not presently eligible under the law for such benefits. In Minnesota, for example, 13,000 unemployed have exhausted their temporary unemployment benefit payments and another 6,000 will be cut off on March 31 if the program is not extended.

Re-employment opportunities Getting people back to work must be a major national goal—work on needed, useful, constructive projects. We are desperately short of schools and hospitals, we have terrible slums that should be cleared and renewed, our forest resources are badly in need of conservation work; and we are moving into the jet age woefully short of adequate airports. Here are projects to employ American workmen in huge numbers—to get needed things done and at the same time to restore consumer purchasing power.

Area redevelopment — In our Area Redevelopment Bill (again opposed by the President) we are making a major effort to deal with the bitter problems of technological unemployment, of major shifts in industry, of changing patterns of consumption. Automation in many industries has meant that workers are not being re-employed today even when production resumes at normal levels. There is much that could be done to train workers for new ginds of employment, to encourage new industries, to furnish new jobs and new hope in the areas of chronic unemployment.
